

1 A dinosaurologist is a scientist who studies fossils

True / False

2 What is a fossil?

- a) Preserved animal remains
- b) Any stone
- c) Organism preserved over 10,000 years ago

3 Many fossils form when the organism's remains are buried in...

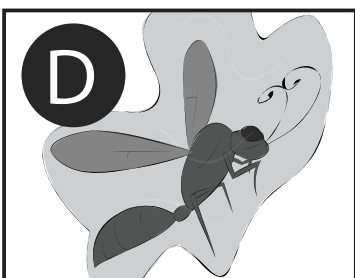

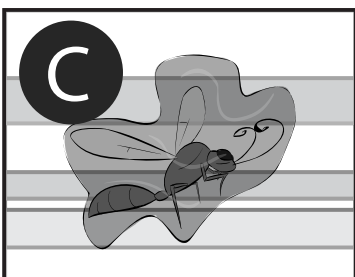

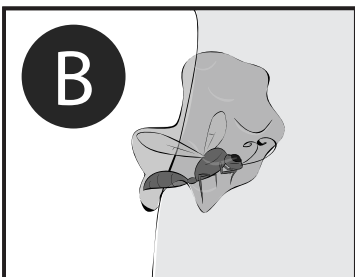

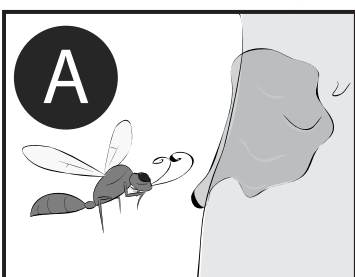

- a) rocks b) shells c) sediments

Keywords:

past hard fossils dinosaurs petrification stone rock space tree eat beaches

- 4 We can find out what looked like by examining fossils.
- 5 A paleontologists is a scientist who studies
- 6give us clues about the organisms that lived in the past.
- 7 Petrified means turned to
- 8 Fossils are found mostly in sedimentary
- 9 When bones are turned to stone, the process is called
- 10 When organisms decay inside a rock, this is called a mold.
- 11 Fossils can be found in large numbers next to some
- 12 Amber is hardened sap.

Match the description to the images

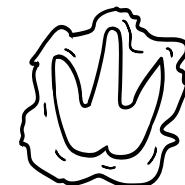

- 13 The tree falls in water and the amber is buried under layers of mud.
- 14 The fossil is found.
- 15 The amber (sap) hardens.
- 16 Tree sap (resin) traps insect.

A

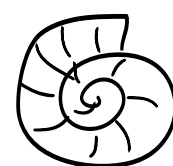

A cast fossil

B

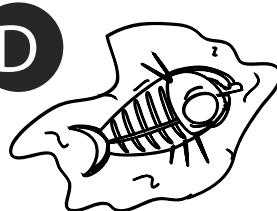

A mold fossil

C

A trace fossil

D

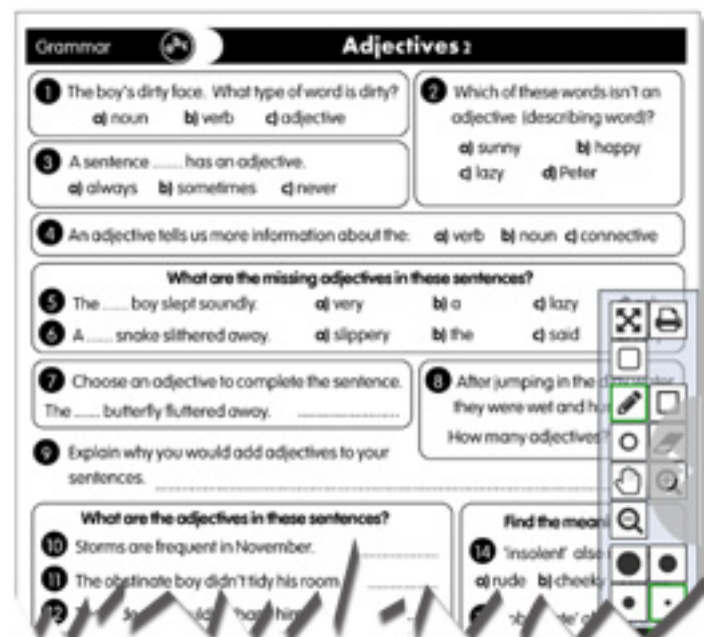

A true form, preserved fossil

Match the descriptions to the images

- 17 Things like footprints.
- 18 A full imprint of an animal.
- 19 The opposite of a mold fossils, 3D fossils.
- 20 Are when animals are preserved in amber tar or ice.

Don't forget you can still try our free KS2 Science and Grammar & Punctuation Worksheets

The Science Worksheets cover the entire KS2 Science curriculum from years 1 to 6, while the Grammar & Punctuation Worksheets focus on specific tasks, like 'using commas', 'nouns, pronouns and articles'.

Every worksheet has an accompanying Lesson Starter Slide and can be printed and displayed on your whiteboard at the same time.

Why not try the free worksheets now!

STOP PRESS

The worksheets also work on iPad or Android tablets - no printing, handing out or collecting in sheets of paper to mark. We do it all for you!

Your students receive instant feedback as they answer each question and the teacher can see who needs help.