Outstanding Interviews

- Part of our student's Project CEO presentation include interviewing.
- If you were unable to find someone for our students to interview last year, we encourage you to continue the search. This part is crucial for our presentations.
- If you need help or further clarifications on this, please reach out to your relationship manager.

Supervisor Follow Ups

- When should you reach out to your relationship managers?
 - When a student is arriving late to work.
 - When a student is taking too long of a lunch.
 - When students are not in uniform at work.
 - When students are leaving early from work.
 - When a student is doing well at work 😊 We love good news too!

You can also leave this information in your student's timecard and request a follow up.

We are here to support you!

- Please know that you CAN take away a student's phone if they are spending too much time on it and not working.
 - You can limit their lunch.
 - What does this mean? They can no longer go out of the building to eat.
- Students are allowed 30 minutes lunch breaks, if you would like you can give them an hour, but it is not required.

Photos at Work

- We love seeing our students shine in their roles, and we know you do too! Help us capture the amazing work your students are doing by sharing photos from their workdays.
- We're looking for:
 - Students completing their day-to-day tasks, special projects, or attending company events
 - Engaging with supervisors or coworkers
 - Shots featuring your company logo
 - These photos help us celebrate our students' growth and showcase the incredible partnerships that make the Corporate Work Study Program a success.
- Please send your photos to Yamileth Yescas @yyescas@crstoreyatlanta.org and include a brief description of the moment or task.
