Through NYU Precollege, juniors and seniors have the opportunity to experience life as an NYU student on our campus in the heart of New York City or online from the comfort of home. For either a six-week summer program or a semester-long course in the fall or spring, high schoolers can prepare for their academic futures by taking for-credit college-level courses, developing their writing skills, and learning how to manage their time, truly embodying the NYU student experience.

Here's how NYU Precollege will set your students on a path to success:

- They will examine their current passions in courses aligned with their potential major and road test new ones by exploring novel topics and ideas while earning college credit they can apply toward their future degree.
- On our campuses in New York City's Greenwich Village and Downtown Brooklyn—where there's so much to discover and do every day—they'll become part of a bold, diverse community and gain new perspectives on the world and themselves.
- With New York City at their doorsteps, they'll have every opportunity to cultivate their independence and build their confidence in one of the world's most vibrant cities.
- Students who elect to study online will experience the same rigorous courses as those attending on campus as well as access to virtual resources for academic success.
- Through the College 101 workshop series, they'll gain knowledge and skills to prepare for the college admissions process and beyond.

NYU Precollege is offered in the fall, spring, and summer. The following dates are the program application deadlines for each term:
