March is Women's History Month. We celebrate Women's History Month to honor the amazing contributions women have made throughout history, in areas like science, politics, art, and more. It's a time to recognize their achievements and inspire everyone to keep working toward equality and empowerment for all. By learning about these trailblazing women, we can better understand the world and make it a more inclusive place. Each day for the month of March, we will honor historical women by reading an inspiring quotation in the bulletin.

Today's Women's History Month quote comes from Dolly Parton, singer, songwriter and philanthropist when she said, "Find out who you are and do it on purpose."
