March 2025

Volume 3, Issue 7

The author of the month for the 2024-2025 school year will focus on authors of books that are considered 'classics'.

Continuing to focus on the classics for this school year, the author for the month of March is Harper Lee. Nelle Harper Lee was born on April 28, 1926 in Monroeville, Alabama. She was the youngest of four children. A bit of a tomboy, Lee became very interested in English literature during her high school experience. It was during her time at Huntingdon College that she focused her attention specifically on writing. She later decided to transfer to the University of Alabama to study law, but this was short-lived. She also spent a semester studying at Oxford University.

In 1949 she left college and moved to New York City. After working as a ticket agent for a few years, Lee formed a close friendship with, Michael Martin Brown, a Broadway producer, who graciously offered to support her for a year so that she could focus solely on developing her craft-writing. With the assistance of an editor, she transformed a series of short stories into the classic novel, To Kill a Mockingbird. This novel won the Pultizer Prize in 1961 and sold more than 40 million copies worldwide-affording Lee newfound success and notoriety. The story was transformed into a movie in 1962 and later a Broadway play. Lee's most notable works included, Go Set A Watchman. In addition to receiving the Pulitzer Prize, Lee also was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 2007.

Lee became more of a recluse in her later life. She had residences in both New York City and her hometown of Monroeville, Alabama. She was a philanthropist and made numerous donations to many charitable causes. Harper Lee died in her sleep on February 19, 2016 at the age of 89.
