THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

Director's Note

Dear Friends of the CHS Drama Club,

Welcome to the Clarence High School production of The Hunchback of Notre Dame! Based on the Victor Hugo novel and songs from the Disney animated feature, The Hunchback of Notre Dame showcases the film's Academy Award-nominated score, as well as new songs by Menken and Schwartz. Peter Parnell's new book embraces story theatre and features verbatim passages from Hugo's gothic novel.

A sweeping score and powerful story make The Hunchback of Notre Dame an instant classic. I hope you will be swept away by the magic of this truly unforgettable musical.

I am grateful for our directors, administrators, teachers, students, parents, production assistants, stage and costume crew members, community, and our patrons generous support. I hope that you will patronize these businesses in show of your support as they have supported the arts in our community!

Thank you for your attendance and support at this performance. Now, sit back, relax, and get ready, as we bring the best of Broadway to you through our student musical production. Patrons like you make these presentations possible when the lights go down and the curtain goes up. Enjoy the Show!

Sincerely yours,
Louis Vitello

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME
Synopsis - Act 1

A company of actors emerges, intoning a Latin chant ("Olim") with the onstage Choir. As "The Bells of Notre Dame" echo throughout the cathedral/theatre, the Congregation narrates the dawn of the Feast of Fools, a day when all – even criminals (or worse, the Roma) – are free to roam the streets of Paris without fear of reprisal. From the pulpit, Dom Claude Frollo, the most powerful cleric in Paris, warns his flock against the wickedness of the festival. In flashback, the Congregation reveals the archdeacon's backstory. Frollo and his brother, Jehan, were taken in as orphans by the cathedral priests. Whereas Frollo thrived under the strict rules of the Church, the much wilder Jehan eventually took up with the Roma and was expelled. Many years passed, during which Frollo ascended through the ranks of the Church until he was summoned one day to his estranged brother's deathbed. Although Jehan rejected Frollo's offer of sanctuary, he did ask his brother to care for his Romani baby. In grief, Frollo reluctantly agreed to do so and named the deformed child Quasimodo ("half-formed"). Frollo kept Quasimodo secluded in the cathedral bell tower for many years.... Now grown, Quasimodo is the lonely, but staunchly obedient, bell-ringer at Notre Dame. Frollo continues to offer him "Sanctuary" within the confines of the cathedral, but Quasimodo longs to be "Out There," and so he drums up the courage to defy Frollo and sneak out of the tower to attend the Feast of Fools. Down below in the square, Clopin leads the Roma in their annual takeover of Paris ("Topsy Turvy") just as Captain Phoebus de Martin arrives from the battlefront to assume command of the Cathedral Guard. Looking forward to some "Rest and Recreation" first, Phoebus is disappointed to find himself taking his new position early and reporting to the reproachful Frollo. Both men are instantly captivated by the arrival of the beautiful Romani woman, Esmeralda, as she dances in public to the "Rhythm of the Tambourine." The frenzied crowd then joins together to crown the King of Fools ("Topsy Turvy – Part 2"). They choose Quasimodo for the mock honor, but, as Frollo predicted, the people treat him with remarkable cruelty when their celebration of his deformity turns to contempt. Hostilities rise as the mob surrounds Quasimodo, ties him up and beats him while Frollo looks on in cold silence. Esmeralda rescues Quasimodo from the abuse, enduring frustrated taunts from the crowd before she disappears in a flash of smoke amid exclamations of witchcraft. Frollo steps forward to collect a chastened Quasimodo, who promises to never again leave the tower ("Sanctuary II").

Concerned about Quasimodo's welfare, Esmeralda ventures into the cathedral ("The Bells of Notre Dame – Reprise"), where Frollo, still overwhelmed by her beauty, offers her sanctuary and spiritual guidance. While she ponders this opportunity ("God Help the Outcasts"), Phoebus happens upon her, and they duel flirtatiously. Eventually, Esmeralda finds Quasimodo, who shows her the view from the bell tower ("Top of the World"). Frollo finds them there and confronts Esmeralda with his offer but, when she refuses, he has Phoebus escort her from the cathedral. He encourages Quasimodo to forget about her.

However, Frollo cannot stop thinking about Esmeralda and roams the streets in the shadow of darkness. One night, he comes upon a tavern where the Roma spiritedly sing and dance ("Tavern Song – Thai Mol Piyas"). Inside, a charmed Phoebus seeks out Esmeralda, and their flirtation escalates, climaxing in a kiss. The spying Frollo, enticed and horrified, runs off. Back in the bell tower, Quasimodo remains smitten by Esmeralda's beauty and kindness ("Heaven's Light"). Meanwhile, Frollo convinces himself that Esmeralda is a demon who has been sent to tempt his very soul ("Hellfire").

The next morning, Frollo convinces King Louis XI to put out a warrant for Esmeralda's death, and a search commences ("Esmerelda / Act I Finale"). Frollo targets a brothel that he suspects has been harboring Esmeralda. When Phoebus refuses a direct order to burn it down, Frollo has him arrested. Esmeralda appears from the crowd, and a fight breaks out. Frollo stabs Phoebus and blames Esmeralda, who escapes with the injured Phoebus. Frollo continues the hunt while Quasimodo watches the burning chaos from above.

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME
Synopsis - Act 2

The Choir sings the "Entr'acte" in Latin.

In the bell tower ("Agnus Dei"), Esmeralda implores Quasimodo to hide the wounded Phoebus until he is stronger. Quasimodo agrees to help, and she offers him an amulet that will lead him to where she hides. Envisioning himself as her savior and protector ("Flight into Egypt"), Quasimodo lies to Frollo when asked if he knows where Esmeralda might be ("Esmerelda – Reprise"). Frederic interrupts to reveal that the soldiers have found the Roma lair, and Frollo declares that they will attack at dawn. Quasimodo and the injured Phoebus use the amulet to find Esmeralda before Frollo does ("Rest and Recreation – Reprise").

Arriving at the Roma lair, Phoebus and Quasimodo are captured by Clopin and the Roma, who sentence them to death ("The Court of Miracles"). Esmeralda intervenes, and the two men warn of Frollo's impending attack. As the Roma prepare to flee, Phoebus decides to go with Esmeralda. She consents and matches his commitment to a life together while Quasimodo watches, heartbroken ("In a Place of Miracles"). Frollo barges in, sends Quasimodo back to the tower and arrests Esmeralda and Phoebus ("The Bells of Notre Dame – Reprise II").

In prison, Frollo confesses his love to Esmeralda and attacks her ("The Assault"). When Esmeralda refuses him, Frollo threatens Phoebus' life, as well, and then has him brought into her cell so she can rethink his offer. Esmeralda and Phoebus spend their final night alive together ("Someday"). Now, bound in the tower, Quasimodo believes that he is the only one who can save Esmeralda ("While the City Slumbered"), but Frollo has made him doubt himself ("Made of Stone").

In the square the next morning, Phoebus watches from his cage as Esmeralda is tied to a wooden stake ("Judex Crederis"). Frollo again offers to save her if she will be his ("Kyrie Eleison"). Her steadfast refusal enrages him, and he lights the pyre himself. Witnessing the horror from above, Quasimodo gains courage, breaks free of his bonds and swoops down to free the badly injured Esmeralda. He then enters the cathedral with her in his arms, claims sanctuary, bars the doors and returns her to safety in his tower. Violence breaks out in the square as Phoebus and Clopin rally the crowd against Frollo. When the Cathedral Guard breaks down the church doors, Quasimodo's last defense is to pour molten lead down on them, which ends the attack.

Quasimodo returns to Esmeralda, who declares him a good friend before she dies in his arms ("Top of the World – Reprise"). Frollo enters and tries to comfort the distraught Quasimodo ("Esmerelda – Frollo Reprise"), but he finally sees the archdeacon for the monster he is and throws him from the tower to his death ("Finale Ultimo"). Phoebus arrives, weak and broken from the battle, and collapses on Esmeralda's body in grief. Quasimodo comforts him before picking up Esmeralda and carrying her into the square, where the Congregation has gathered to mourn.

Andrew started stage crew in the fall of 2023 during his Junior year. He was originally only going to help build 1 or 2 things, however as he got further involved with stage crew he grew to love showing up to the builds and enjoyed helping out. Andrew's first play was The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time where he learned how to build sets and work together as a group. In the winter he helped build the set and was backstage during Aida, which was one of his favorite shows so far. This year he has continued by working on the set for Amadeus and later this year The Hunchback of Notre Dame. He's grown to love coming into school early on Saturday mornings for stage crew, something which he previously would have dreaded. Stage Crew has been a favorite high school experience.
