

Student Device Fines

There are four types of damage. Students are fined for negligence and lost devices. Here are some examples of the four types of damage.

Types of Damage & Examples

Accidental

If you chip the device or have one or two missing keys or accidentally damage the device

Negligence

If your screen is cracked, scratched, or shattered or the damage is negligence

Fines Assessed

Lost

If you lose your device and have to get a replacement

Fines Assessed

Stolen

If your device is stolen and you have filed a police report

How is the fine determined?

A District computer technician or librarian will determine the level of damage and approximate repair amount. The school administration will then determine which category the damage falls into and if negligence or loss, a fine is added to the student's account.
