Commission on the Status of Women: Leadership Opportunity

The Bergen County Commission on the Status of Women (COSW) is a bridge between government and community to study the needs of women and promote the expansion of women's rights and empowerment. Those students selected as "Junior Commissioners" will perform community service projects of their choosing or research a topic relevant to their peers. This is a one-year term. The application has been sent via eblast in Naviance and posted on Schoology. Please direct any questions to Mrs. Dondero (ldondero@rih.org)

AI Meets Admissions: Navigating Innovation and Uncertainty in College Essays

For students & families of Ramapo
& Indian Hills High Schools

AI has become the new buzzword in many fields, and college admissions is no different. In this informative session, The Princeton Review's Editor-in-Chief, Rob Franek, details how AI is used in college admissions now and what AI tools are available to students as they write their application essays.

Join us for an interactive conversation where we'll discuss how college admission essays are being impacted by AI and how to navigate this ever changing landscape.

American Legion sponsored Jersey Boys State

New Jersey Boys State will return in 2025 for its 79th session as New Jersey's preeminent youth leadership and civics program, where over 1,000 rising juniors will join the ranks of illustrious alumni that includes Governors, US Senators, US Supreme Court Justices, and numerous executives. Boys State is essentially a civics course "in action" teaching:

- The ABC's of politics and your civic responsibilities
- The political units of government and their function
- The branches of government and their jurisdictions
- Functions of each office of city, county, and state government
- Functions of political parties and their roll in the political process
- The inner workings of the political party caucus & convention
- Strategies for operating a functional government at all levels

DUE BY APRIL 4

The program runs from June 15 – June 20, 2025 at Rider University in Lawrenceville, NJ. Any 11th grade male interested in attending Boys State should email Mrs. Dondero in the Guidance Office at ldondero@rih.org by April 4th.
