

Highland Trail

Trail Guide

The trails at Ellington Highlands (a little under 1 mile of trails) are located on Stein Rd. Plenty of available parking at the large parking lot with the kiosk. From the kiosk follow the Blue Blazed Trail (loop trail) down the hill to where it splits. Going straight across the small bridge you go to the left around a small area where soil has been removed. Once at the top the trail descends through a grove of small and large beech trees (please do not deface). After the beech trees there is the beginning of the White Trail on your right or the continuation of the Blue Trail which will bring you to back to the parking lot or access to the Orange Trail. The White Trail descends to a marshy area with a small bridge. On leaving the bridge it goes uphill to where it splits into a loop. Go to the left and walk along the wet gully up to the field or go straight to enter the field. The field is a favorite place for wildlife (deer, bobcat, turkeys, hawks, owls, fox, racoons, possums) with a path around it with picnic tables at one end with views in the fall of Ellington, East Windsor and South Windsor. Please stay on the trails and respect private property.
