IV. Superintendent Report

A. Updates

1. Recognition

Ms. Kimberly Kiso introduced some of Glen Cove's All County Athletes and she also went onto recognize two of Glen Cove's All State Athletes. All of these individuals were presented with a certificate of recognition. Photos of both groups were taken. Dr. Rianna further added to Ms. Riso's acknowledgement.

2. Budget Presentation

Ms. Theresa Khan presented workshop number four covering the tax levy limit calculations. One question from Board of Education Trustee Meghan Lavine was addressed. Handouts of the presentation were available to all those in attendance.

Dr. Maria Rianna added to the reporting.

V. Student Board Member Report

Elias Benitez shared exciting updates from the high school, beginning with the anticipation of College Commitment Day on May 1st. Currently, approximately 25-30 students have already committed to their respective colleges, marking an important milestone in their academic journeys.

He also highlighted the success of the junior prom, which took place this past Saturday in the high school's back gym. The event provided a wonderful opportunity for students to enjoy time with their friends and create lasting memories.

Spring sports have officially begun, and there is a buzz of excitement throughout the building as athletes prepare for their respective teams. A particular highlight this season is the introduction of flag football, which has generated significant enthusiasm, with nearly 50 girls trying out for the team.

Elias expressed his honor in volunteering at the high school's inaugural Diversity Night, where students had the opportunity to explore fascinating artifacts from various cultures. Looking ahead, he shared his excitement for the upcoming Masquers performance and the start of AP exams.

Additionally, the high school will be hosting the NYSSMA auditions on April 2nd and 3rd. The Wind Ensemble is diligently preparing for its performance at the Music in the Parks Festival in New Jersey, followed by a well-deserved day of fun at Six Flags.

With spring in full swing, concerts are just around the corner, taking place in about a month and a half. Elias concluded by expressing his gratitude to the administration for the opportunity to attend and share these updates.

She praised the students for their impressive knowledge of their topics, expressing her appreciation for all those who participated. Additionally, she extended a special thank-you to the student board member who she felt was great and going on to acknowledge her gratitude to everyone involved in making the event a success.

Trustee Meghan Lavine expressed her excitement for the upcoming performances of The Addams Family and Chicago in the next few weeks. She also highlighted the charming "Little Libraries" project at several elementary schools and Garvies Point, noting how wonderful it is to see children actively adding items and removing items in these libraries. She described the initiative as a valuable addition to school grounds.

Additionally, Trustee Lavine addressed the district's $1.5 million budget gap, explaining that it is largely due to the loss of a PILOT agreement from a development project. This agreement previously provided the district with $1.2 million in funding in addition to annual increases. She emphasized that rising costs, many of which are beyond the district's control, have further contributed to the financial challenge. Trustee Lavine stated that the Board knew about this issue last year and is actively working to account for it in budget planning. She encouraged everyone to stay informed and engaged in the process.
