Soccer

The Riverside Varsity Soccer program had a record-breaking season. The team was under the direction of Steve Kulikowski for the 2018-2019 season. Together, Kulikowski and his team pulled off a 2-1 win over Old Forge, earning them their first career-win since 2013 and the team's first Triboro Cup. The team was able to finish their season with a school record-breaking record of 4 wins and 10 losses. Brandon Reed, a sophomore, also broke the record for most goals scored by an individual player during the season.

Second row: Enrique Olmedo, Jason Benson, Kori Posdon, Jared Yates, Jordan Grzyboski, Francisco Grande, Kevin Connor, Brandon Reed, and Conor Aglialoro.

Seniors: Enrique, Jason, Kori, Jared, Jordan, Francisco, Kevin and Conor.

Captains Francisco Grande, Bryce Collins, and Jared Yates

Girls' Tennis

The Riverside girls tennis team had a very successful season. Coach Rob Thomas was very worried that there would not be a team this year, because there were only three returning players only one of whom was a starter. Thankfully, the chosen team captain, Marley Stambaugh, asked around for new students to join. In the beginning of the season, practices were hard because most of the girls had never played tennis before, but they picked it up very quickly. We started playing matches and though we were not winning the matches were close. Karissa Ghigiarelli joined the team this year and did amazing during the season. Districts then came and she was our district winner which has never happened to Riverside Tennis. She then went to states at Hershey Park. The talent there was incredible and we all thought she would come out on top. Unfortunately, she did not win but still had a phenomenal season while helping out her team.

This season was a hard one for the cross country team with a lot of ups and downs, because we ran a lot of hills. Collectively, as a team, we did well.

The golf season started with a hard fought match that we lost against league champion Scranton Prep. In the first home match, we beat Elk Lake 7-2. Then, a rough stretch occurred were we lost five straight matches. Something had to be fixed before our big match with Old Forge. We practiced and practiced with our eyes on the prize for the big cup. The match against Old Forge was a tough one, but we got the 5-4 win to secure the big cup. After our big win, we cruised past Mountain View with a 7-2 win. We then lost three more matches before we played Forest City where we beat them 7-2 which ended our season. Even though it was not a winning season memories were made and friendships were forged.

Our viking voyage set sail on June 1, 2018, when coach Armstrong was named head coach for the 2018 season. Coach Armstrong showed us what it takes to achieve greatness and how to have fun while doing it. We worked very hard to get there. We wanted to better our record from the previous year, 2-8. We achieved that goal finishing the regular season with a 6-4 record, which advanced us into the playoffs. Other than winning, Coach Armstrong taught us responsibility and how to be a family which is priceless and will be used throughout the rest of our lives.

Football

Marching Band

The marching band is small and every year when the seniors leave, the band gets smaller. Though this is true, our personal relationships with one another are what help us to be successful. This year we felt rushed and terrible when it came to the field show. We are such a small group, and every week the band director would tack on another part to the field show just mere hours before the game. Yet, somehow the morale could not have been higher. According to the cheerleaders, we sounded better with each passing week, even when we did not believe this. We are a dysfunctional family. We all come from different situations, but when you are with the band your background or history does not matter. You are just you. We had a lot of fun this year; we fought, we laughed, we messed around. We seniors are proud of the band - all 19 of us. We played our hearts out every week, and we were a team no matter our differences. It was exhilarating being part of the band, and we would not have changed any second of it.

Cheer

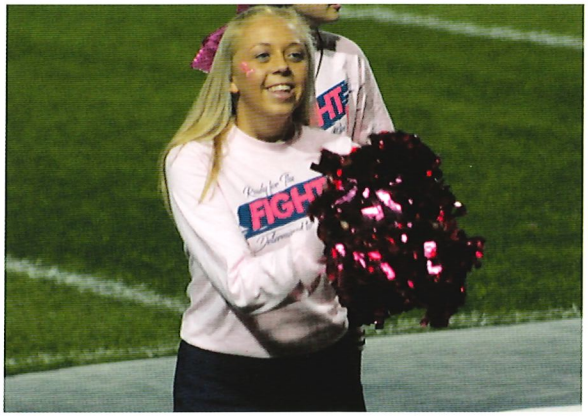

The 2018-2019 cheerleading season was definitely one no one could forget. This year's Miss Viking, Gabby Costantino, choreographed the field show and unit show, two pinnacle events for the Riverside cheerleaders to help showcase their talents. Football captains Madison Loscombe and Taylor White kept the squad in order on the sidelines, never failing to execute every cheer and flawlessly put together an amazing pep rally routine. JV captains Kelsey Howey and Merison Stecik took on the huge responsibility of teaching the JV squad new cheers and dances. Basketball captains Gabriella Chiavacci and Lauren Amaral provided an amazing court dance and helped establish a new sense of spirit to help cheer on our boys for the basketball season.

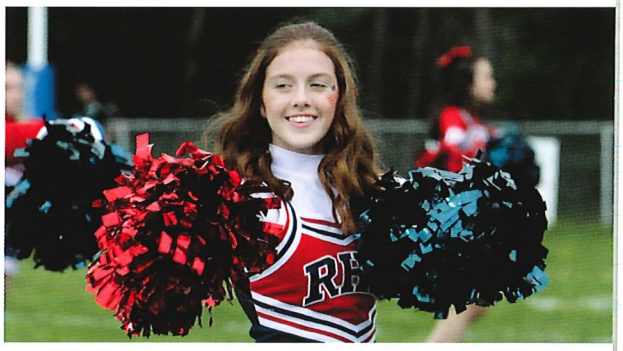

The Riverside cheerleaders followed the boys to every game and cheered them on every step of the way, regardless of the outcome. The girls helped raise awareness for pediatric cancer by wearing yellow and breast cancer by wearing pink to games and pep rallies. Under amazing leadership and ruled by school spirit, the Riverside cheerleaders provided a memorable experience to a season that will not be forgotten.

Girls' Basketball

The Lady Vikes started off their tremendous season with an undefeated 13-0 record. Ending with a 19-5 record, the Lady Vikes had an exceptional season despite their young lineup. Freshman point guards Kylie Lavelle and Morgan Antoniacci along with sophomore point guard Bella McKeefery, handled the ball. Sophomore starters Alese Karpinski, Emily Taylor, and Kayla Rose played big roles in games throughout the season. Julia Antoniacci, senior captain, lead the team in scoring for the 2018-2019 season and made First Team Division II All-Star. Kayla Rose's successful season also lead her to make Second Team Division II All-Star.

First row: Marli Hoskins, Julia Antoniacci, and Olivia Fedor.
Second row: Leah Hodick and Maria Laboy.
Third row: Belle McKeefery, Emily Taylor, Kayla Rose, Alese Karpinki, and Allie Nenish.
Fourth row: Morgan Antoniacci, Paige Olanovich, Kylie Lavelle, Kaitlyn Slaboda, Amia Ortiz, and Lissy Rios.

Track and Field

The 2019 track season saw success on many fronts. Bryce Collins shattered previous records with a 6'5" jump. Brandon Reed placed 6th at districts with an amazing performance. Maverick Meredick and Jared Yates had an astounding year with their jumps. Daniel Nenish and Katelyn Timms had an excellent season throwing. Collin Kneiss showed great progress as the season advanced impressing everyone on the team. Daniel Kleeman and Frank Genell covered ground with their distance running leaving everyone in the dust.

This year's tennis team consisted of a few new players. First year players Enrique and Danny showed great improvement throughout the season. Returning players, Antonio, Luke, and Nick continued to improve their skills while assisting Coach Thomas in teaching others the basics. The 2019 team wishes next year's team good luck.

Baseball

The boys baseball team did well under the tutelage of their new head coach. They worked hard at practice and gave it their all in their games which resulted in a successful season.

Softball

Before you can achieve, you have to believe: in yourself.

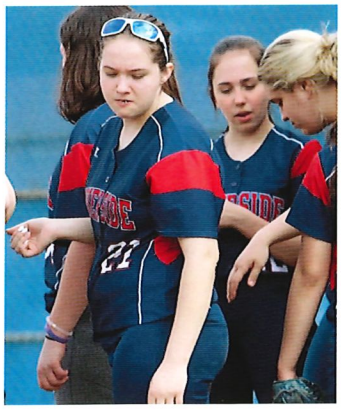

After a losing season with a record of 2-13, the Lady Vikes softball team had a more hopeful outlook on the 2019 season. The Lady Vikes burst through their season with one of its youngest teams in history. Fielding five underclassmen throughout the course of the year, the Lady Vikes had many bonding and mental obstacles to overcome like any young team. Success continued as the season progressed and the girls changed from teammates to sisters. With softball being so low on the totem pole of Riverside athletics, the team proved preconceived notions wrong and brought success and honor to the school. They had a lot to learn, but with the ability they had, they went far. Senior captains Julia Antoniacci, Marli Hoskins, and Haley Tillberry brought the team together with their leadership skills on and off the field. Under the coaching of Kate Fox, Jen Hawker, and Rob Seguin, the young team proved their worth, sharpened their skills, and even sent Antoniacci and Hoskins to the inaugural 2019 Lackawanna County All-Star Game.

First row: Ashlyn McNally, Emma Conte, Tiffany Gilchrist, Gianna Gaidula, Emily Taylor, Maddie Aulisio, Brianna Powell, and Angel Beaumont.
Second row: Coach Fox, Hailey Scardo, Victoria Wolf, Frankie Bracey, Marli Hoskins, Kira Rogers, Haley Tilberry, Julia Antionacci, Allison Rempe and Coach Hawker.

Homecoming

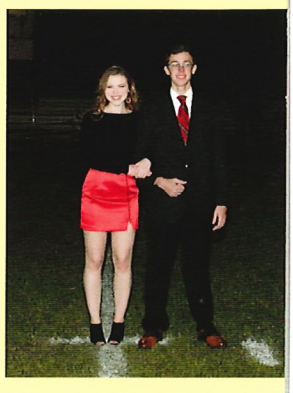

Our King and Queen for this year were Daniel Kimes and Rachel Yackobowitz. Joining them on the homecoming court was Kori Posdon escorted by Todd Reedy, Dorseylane Rebillard escorted by Maverick Meredick, Julia Antoniacci escorted by Kyle Puchalski, and Haley Tilberry escorted by Samuel Hartman. It was a night to remember for our homecoming court and Viking family.

Third row: Thomas Hufford, Sam Hartman, Matthew Pendrak, Samuel Rushefski, Daniel Nenish, Kevin Connor, Dylan Ward, and Francisco Grande.

Honor Society

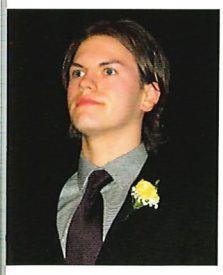

This year's honor society membership includes twenty three seniors and nineteen juniors, as well as thirty six newly inducted members.

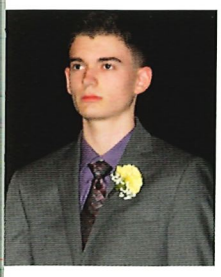

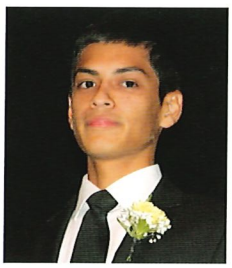

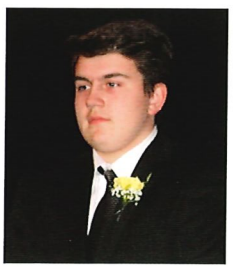

Blood Drive

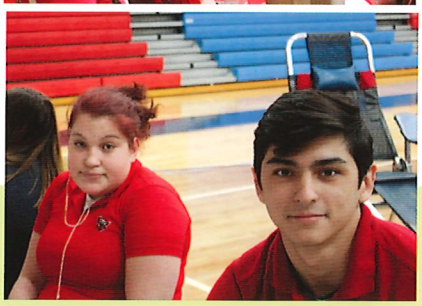

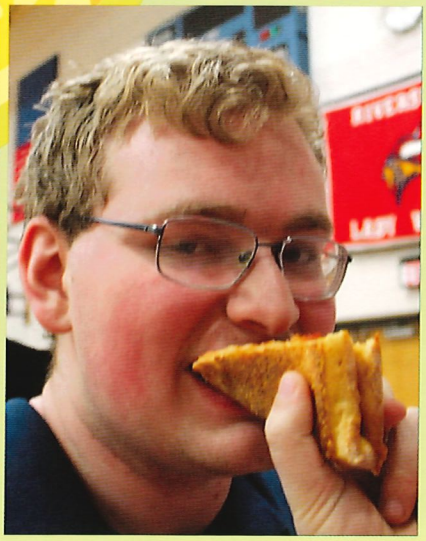

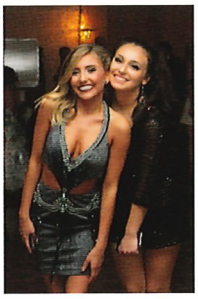

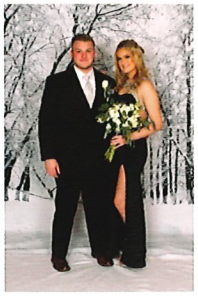

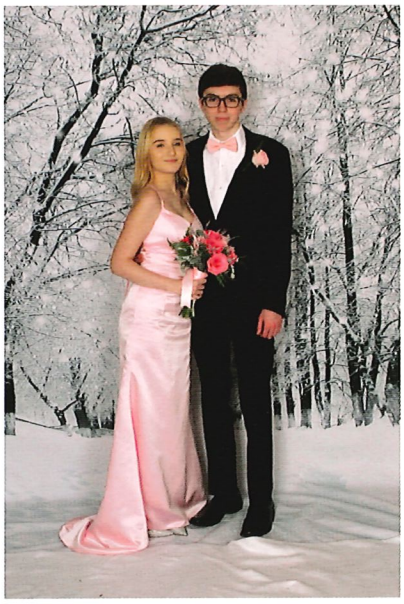

Semi

This year's semi was held on Saturday, December 22, at Genetti's. The evening was filled with food and dancing.

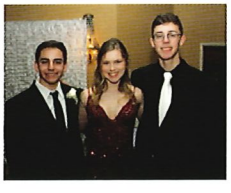

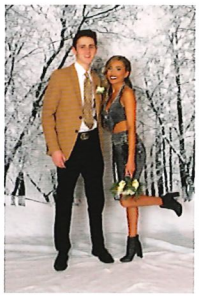

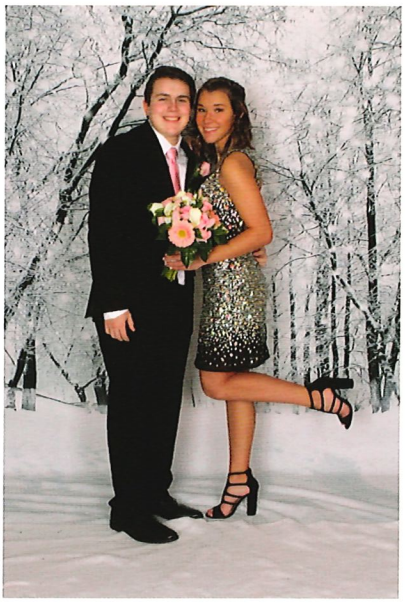

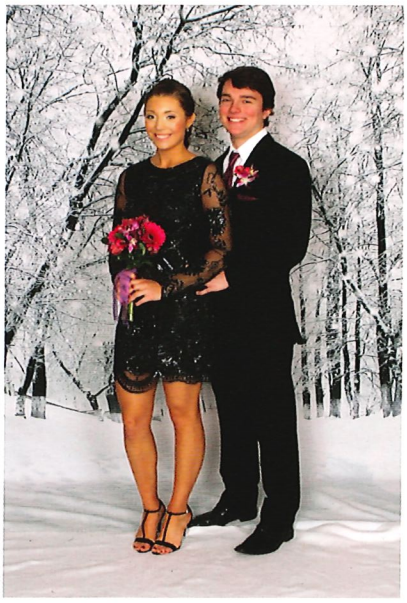

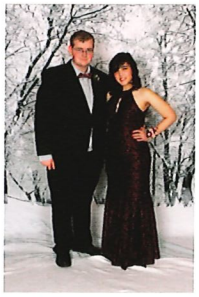

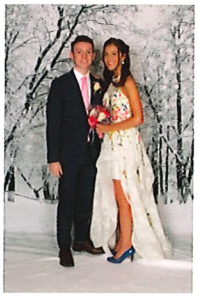

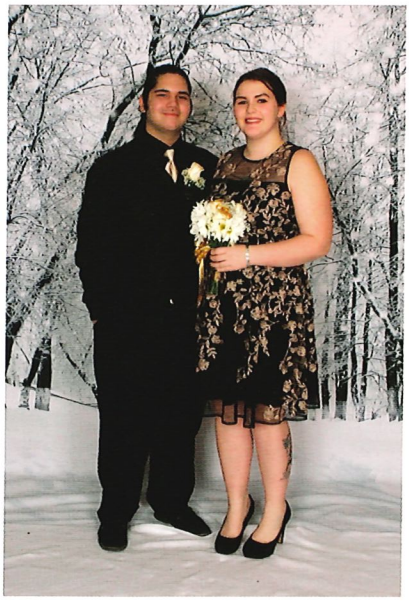

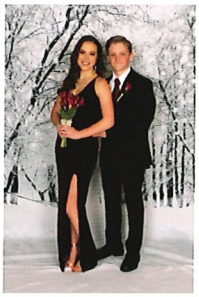

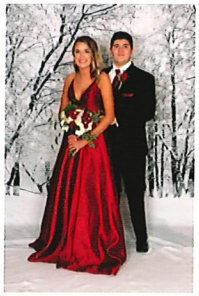

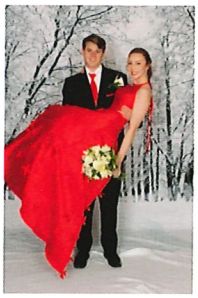

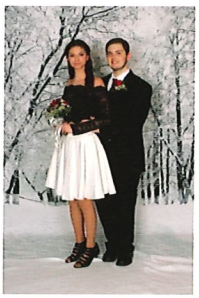

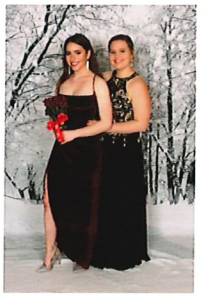

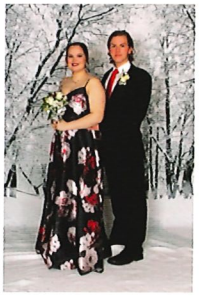

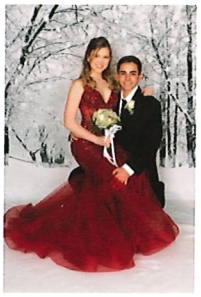

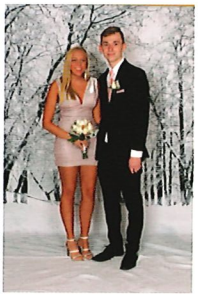

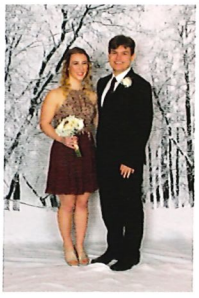

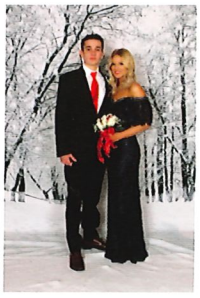

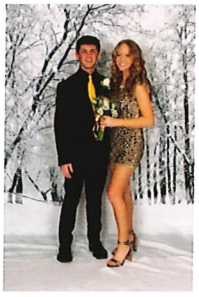

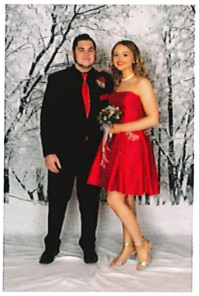

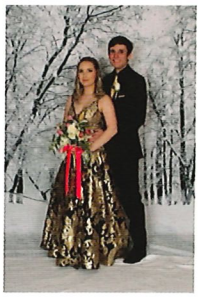

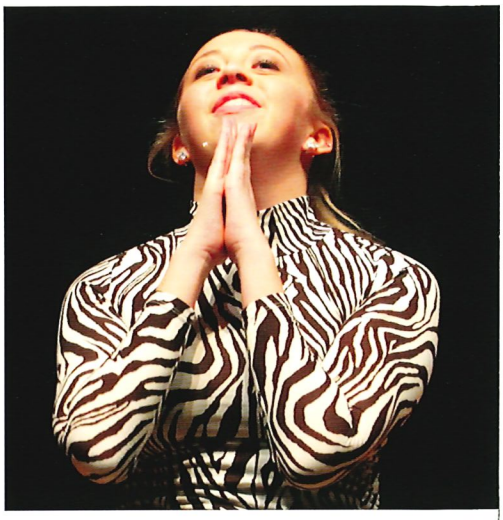

Unit Show

This year, the cheerleaders put on their annual Unit Show to the theme, "Dancing Around the World." Involving places like India, Africa, Spain, Great Britain, and the United States, the cheerleaders traveled around the world with the help of juniors Nate Cron, Alex Jaworski, and Ryan Semyon, who acted as M.C.s for the night. With dances choreographed by Miss Viking, Gabby Costantino, football captains Taylor White and Madison Loscombe, basketball captain Gabby Chiavacci, varsity cheerleader Hunter Lloyd, and JV captains Merison Stecik and Kelsey Howey, it was an enjoyable and memorable experience for everyone performing as well as those who came to support the girls as the seniors took their final bows.

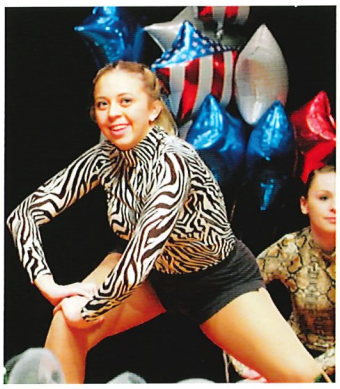

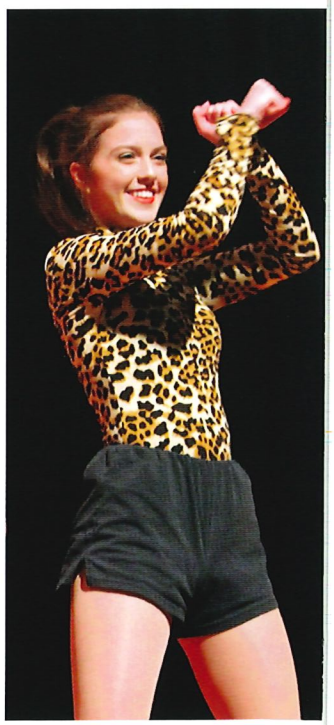

Mock Wedding

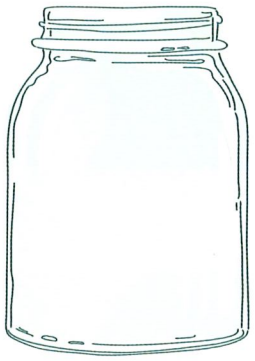

Annie

presented by Riverside Drama

This year's school theatre production was, "Annie: The Musical." Little orphan Annie, played by junior Maria Castaldi, dreams of longing to reunite with her mother and father. Under the care of the wicked Miss. Hannigan, played by senior Gabby Costantino, Annie was forced to work a tedious and hard-knock life. However, Grace Farrell, played by senior Olivia Fedor, who worked as private secretary for billionaire businessman, Oliver Warbucks, played by junior Gavin Matsko, was sent by the wealthy businessman to bring back an orphan to live in his mansion for the holiday season. Not wanting Annie to live the life of luxury, Miss. Hannigan teams up with Rooster Hannigan, played by eighth grader Gary Mrozinski, and Lily Saint Regis, played by senior Rachel Yackobowitz, to bring Annie back to an unfair life at the orphanage.

It was a very successful year for the drama club as the seniors took their final bows. Congratulations to the whole cast and crew on a job well done!

Salute

Hello Ladies and Gentlemen,
it's time for our lives to start.
Even though for many of us,
it will be sad to part.

The years seemed to drag on,
but high school has come to an end.
And now, we are graduating,
something we can't comprehend.

Just yesterday we were "sevies," fighting to open our lockers.
Now, we are going to have adult problems.
and we are in for a lot of shockers.

Freshman year we took on a lot,
our naive minds not yet grown.
Let's give thanks to all of those teachers for the wisdom that they have shown.

Sophomore year was smooth sailing,
our grades causing us to gloat.
Then junior year brought a shipwreck, sinking our Viking boat.

Senior year was bittersweet,
the schoolwork coming to an end.
But leaving with the homework,
are the teachers that became friends.

To all of my fellow classmates,
thank you for making my year.
NEPA won't be the same without all of you here.

Graduation is upon us,
it couldn't come any sooner.
I wish my class good luck with all that they do in their future.

Class History

Kaylie Oustrich and Taylor White

Kaylie: Oh my god is that Taylor White? Girl how are you?
Taylor: What?
Kaylie: HOW ARE YOU TAYLOR WHITE?
Taylor: Oh hi Kaylie. Sorry, still as deaf as I was in high school.
Kaylie: Ah, high school. As much as I hate to admit it, I really do miss my days in that swamp.
Taylor: Absolutely! Do you remember the time when the toilet exploded on Devin Coombs?
Kaylie: oh yeah! That was insane.
Taylor: That reminds me, do you remember Neil Ronjon, and how Virginia Ramirez constantly poured water on his chair to mess with him?
Kaylie: Yeah! I heard he went up to Mr. Davis and showed him his water stained butt. That was so funny! Speaking of funny, remember Hunter Lloyd? She used to laugh at everything!
Taylor: Oh I do! Do you remember Sam Hartman? That kid loved cereal bowls.
Kaylie: Ah memories. Now that I think about it, a lot of stuff happened during high school.
Taylor: We always had a wild time with the teachers. Remember Mr. Borthwick?
Kaylie: Oh Mr. Borthwick, that man couldn't stand any of us. He was always fighting with Kevin Connor. The kid could have breathed the wrong way and an argument could break out. Didn't he even kick you out of class in eleventh grade because Haley Tilberry and Julia Antoniacci were yelling at him?
Taylor: Oh yeah! Can't forget Lauren Amaral, Gabriella Chiavacci, and Devin Coomb's Mean Girls parody in Mass Media.
Kaylie: Oh yeah, you cheerleaders were wild.
Taylor: Cheer was such a fun time, remember when Gabby Costantino got Miss Viking?
Kaylie: How could I forget? I'm sure everyone from the North Pole to the K-Mart parking lot knew about it.
Taylor: That's probably true. That girl never let anyone dull her sparkle.
Kaylie: That was such a good catchphrase. Speaking of talking, how's Noah Berkoski doing?
Taylor: Yeah, he's doing well. Still got that speech impediment from high school though. That's more than I can say for Morgan McGuire and Lucas Kosciuk, I can't remember any of the ten words they said in high school.
Kaylie: And what about Johnson Okoroji? Mr. Kennedy never understood that kid.
Taylor: Oh I remember how fast he spoke in high school. I'm sure he's working auctions all over America by now.
Kaylie: Speaking of lips, How about when Marli Hoskins and Jacob Novatka got on that kiss cam freshman year?
Taylor: Yeah that must've been pretty awkward considering they never actually kissed. At least that photoshop was funny.
Kaylie: On the topic of funny, remember when Elizabeth Keegan passed out in Government.
Taylor: I'm sure Mr. Kennedy does, that man must have lightning fast reflexes to catch a fainting teenager so quick.
Kaylie: Wow, high school was crazy. Do you remember when Kori Posdon and Seth Bouselli ran against each other for class president?
Taylor: Oh yeah! I've never seen so many students actually pay attention for once. Gotta say, he was the best president I've ever seen.
Kaylie: Remember when he and Danny Kimes got into an argument and the kid dislocated his own shoulder.
Taylor: Ah Seth, he was the entertainment of Senior year.
Kaylie: I remember he was always hanging out with Coby Soph-a-mix-ee. Oof, I mean Sophabmixay.
Taylor: Coby was great, he and Seth were the dancing queens of prom.
Kaylie: Speaking of prom, remember Francisco Grande having his own personal rager?
Taylor: He was tearing up the dance floor. I heard he caused a level four earthquake in Scranton that night. And we can't forget about Katelyn Timms doing the Cotton Eye Joe!
Kaylie: We had a lot of ragers in our highschool days. Like those good 'ol pep rallies.
Taylor: They were the best, remember when Brian Fuller fell during his toe touch.
Kaylie: Oh my god yeah! I still have the football players chanting U-S-A ringing in my ears.
Taylor: The football games were even crazier. Carolina Beverage and Thomas Hufford always played the best music.They were both so talented. They always fought like husband and wife, at least that's what Mrs. O'Shea always said.
Kaylie: Oh Mrs. O'Shea, she was the best. I remember the time she had a premonition that I had Samuel Rushefski's baby. It was wild.
Taylor: Everything in Riverside was wild. Remember Ethan Burnside ruptured his spleen and Nathan Ludwikowski tore his ACL?
Kaylie: Oh Ethan Burnside, remember his and Jimmy Brown's bromance?

Taylor: Yeah they were great friends. Speaking of Jimmy, remember when he fell off the recycling cart and accidentally punched Dominick Rossi in the face?
Kaylie: I remember that! Remember when Dominick, Billy Francis, and Joey Barrett made their kool aid man videos in mass media? They were so funny!
Taylor: Yeah, crazy stuff like that was always happening.
Kaylie: Ugh, everyone was always getting injured. Remember when Olivia Fedor fell going down the steps while going to Ms. Lud's class?
Kaylie: And we can never forget Matthew Pendrak saying he had a pizza hangover, when really he had appendicitis.
Taylor: Junior High was crazy for us. Remember when an egg cracked in Luke Frie's locker and it leaked all over Elizabeth's locker?
Taylor: That was great.
Kaylie: Yeah, I really miss those days where kids being idiots was entertainment. The students really made the experience, and those comfy days were the cherry on top.
Taylor: I know, those comfy days were revolutionary.
Kaylie: Wasn't Emily Donahue part of the group that went to Mr. Moes office to get us our first ever comfy week?
Taylor: Oh yeah, I'm glad we finally realized leggings wouldn't trigger the apocalypse. Hayley Tilberry and Julia Antonacci were one of the people that helped too!
Kaylie: Oh and I loved Haley Tilberry! Remember when she mistook Antonio Calianno for Elizabeth Keegan in SAT Math.
Kaylie: It's crazy thinking of all the memories and people from high school. Remember Kyle Puchalski? He was notorious for name calling!
Taylor: Oh don't remind me. I'm still working with my therapist to wash away years of being called tomato nose, baby hair, and freckled faced.
Kaylie: Everyone was tormented back then. Remember Ceyonna Rybitski? Everyone always made fun of that poor girls height.
Taylor: Well she did tell everyone she was classified as a legal little person.
Kaylie: Yeah I heard Melissa Fernandez and Layla Crane were on the brink.
Taylor: They were all so short! But remember Dorsey Rebillard? That girl was a giant!
Kaylie: I remember the time she smacked Michael Moran. We always had the best time.
Taylor: Oh hey, remember when Connor Aglialoro and Shane Edsall ordered Dominos in German?
Kaylie: Oh yeah, I remember Olivia Maikranz loved German, she was great.
Taylor: Absolutely, she really carried on the Mickranz dynasty when she and her sister both won prom queen.
Kaylie: Long live the queen girlfriend.
Taylor: How about when Rachel Yacobowitz won Homecoming queen? She had stern competition with good 'ol Dorsey Rebillard.
Kaylie: Speaking of queens, how about Janelis Echevarria? Her makeup always put James Charles to shame. But then again, everyone does anymore.
Taylor: Ah, good times. Can't forget about all those crazy talents.
Kaylie: Like Ian Davis's legendary pretzel moves or Jared Yates awesome guitar skills.
Taylor: Can't forget about Allyson Lipperini or Alexis Sophabmixay with their insane art skills.
Kaylie: Or Adam Piasecki, he made amazing food.
Taylor: I'll never forget those chocolate covered strawberries he made for career day. Those were delicious.
Kaylie: Everyone was so talented, Jordan Gallagher was always such a good singer in chorus.
Taylor: And Jordan Fuller was the best mascot Riverside has ever seen.
Kaylie: I think he went back to support Joey Brzenski on the dream team. Josh Fernbach was also such a talented football player.
Taylor: Ah, I'll never forget those high school days.
Kaylie: Me too Taylor White, me too.
Taylor: Oh I didn't realize the time! I'm late for my appointment.
Kaylie: What appointment?
Taylor: I'm finally getting that hearing aid! Only took me about ten years.
Kaylie: Well, see you at the reunion!
Taylor: What?
Kaylie: I WILL SEE YOU AT THE REUNION!
Taylor: Ohh okay. Yeah, see ya.

Class Prophecy

Setting: 2029 At Al's Qwik Mart

S- Hey Marli. Crazy seeing you here! I see you still have your perm.
M- Hey Sam. Do you still have that cereal bowl in your chest?
S- Yeah, I still do. It was either get surgery for the nosebleeds or the bowl and Haley, I mean I chose bowl.
M- Aw that's great! So nice to hear you and Haley are still together! What are you guys up to now?
S- Haley made the new professional softball league and I am the team's fan club president and dugout mom. What have you done since graduation?
M- You were probably so busy with getting Haley's Gatorade you missed my big break! I was the first journalist to report about Tom Borthwick's fixed election for the Scranton School Board!
S- That's right! How could I forget?
M- Hey did you see that Mustang in the parking lot? It reminds me of Matt Pendrak. Do you remember Pendragon?
S- Remember Pendragon? How could I forget? Sad to say, he is in major debt from all those accidents.
M- Yeah I could imagine. That's gotta be rough.
S- Speaking of accidents, have you heard anything about Hunter Lloyd?
M- Yeah, after she got her license in psychology taken away for laughing at her patients, she became a professional dancer and is making millions.
S- Oh that's pretty good I guess. I wonder what Seth Bouselli is doing.
M- Wow, you must miss a lot being that dugout mom. Seth is the highly successful Lackawanna County Commissioner. I bumped into Rachel Yackobowitz and Conor Aglialoro at the dog park they opened and we talked all about his new policy.
S- I always knew their future would have something to do with politics. What about Marren Pollack and Nathan Ludwikowski?
M- Funny enough, Marren and Nate Seth's private investigators. They are kinda like Sherlock Holmes and Watson.
S- Wow, What a coincidence. Have you seen Elizabeth Keegan lately?
M- No, actually. She has been too busy with her career, apparently, working for NASA really is rocket science.
S- That's right. She's a billionaire now. Speaking of billionaires, did you hear about Taylor White and her new deal with Wendy's? She is the new mascot.
M- Yeah Gabby Costantino told me that. She told me about how her Orthodontics career fell through and now she is a cheer coach at Old Forge too.
S- Miss Viking coaching at Old Forge? That's ironic. I heard Lucas Kosciuk coaches football there too. I wonder how Olivia Fedor has been?
M- Olivia is going after her doctorate in biology but in the meantime works with her aunt in the old RHS library. We planned a trip to Kaylie Oustrich and Sammy Rushefski's scrunchie shop in New York next week.
S- Yeah I heard about that store. Maybe when you are there you can catch a New York Yankees game to see Louie Stefanelli play.
M- That sounds fun. Have you heard from Rachel Kern or Kori Posdon?
S- Kori still works at Dunkin Donuts and I think Rachel went on to become an author, but that's only what Kevin Connor told me at my last visit to his doctor's office.
M- I just saw Kevin the other day! We both go to an art class run by Alexis Sophabmixay, Alberto Torres, and Allyson Lipperini. Have you heard anything about Alexis' cousin, Coby Sophabmixay ?
S- Yeah actually. He moved back to Laos with Dominick Rossi, Jared Yates, Shane Edsall and Dylan Ward. The five of them started a K-Pop band.
M- That is so cool! I think I heard one of their songs in Grande's last night. You know, the pizza place in Moosic that Francisco Grande owns now?
S- I remember when he was just a dishwasher! I was at Jason Benson's restaurant yesterday talking to Noah Berkoski about the new speech therapy practice he opened up when I saw James Brown on TV. He took over for Murr on the cast of the Impractical Jokers.
M- I saw that! Jimmy isn't the only one that made it big. Mikey Moran took on the role of Ralphie in the new adaptation of A Christmas Story. Evan Gaughan, Danny Kimes, and Kayla Lee made it all the way to Broadway together.
S- I'll have to see one of their shows. Didn't Trinity Veaudry become famous too? I think she won an award for being one of the youngest and most successful authors of the decade.
M- Yeah that's right! I heard Stephen Ladd and Johnson Okoroji got their own TV show on HGTV too. They are both demolition experts.
S- I may have to call them. I saw an ad for their show in Katelyn Timms' new physical therapy place. I went there after that injury I got from Ian Davis' running club I'm a part of.

M- Nice. Did you see the new "all in one" child care and senior care facility Ceyonna Rybitski, Layla Crane, Olivia Maikranz, Melissa Fernandez, Frankie Bracey, Enrique Olmedo, and Daniel Nenish opened up?

S- Yeah I did. They really do love old people and babies. So many people became business owners. Antonio Calianno and Nick Ponas opened up their own video game store and Dorseylane Rebillard, Patricia Ayers, Maddie Walsh, and Kira Rogers took over as the school photographers after Karen Dorman's company went out of business.

M- That is awesome! I saw car salesman and expert Frank Genell last month on one of Jordan Gryzboski's planes and he told me all about how Lauren Amaral and Emily Donahue became Supreme Court Justices.

S- Doesn't Frank still park his cars in the Riverside teacher's parking lot?

M- I think so. A lot of people from our class stuck around Riverside. Devin Coombs, Ethan Burnside, Joey Brezinski, Josh Fernbach, and Maverick Meredick all became assistant football coaches and Neil Ronjon became the official RV plumber.

S- Have you heard from Joey Barrett, Danny Kleeman, Brandon Zeller, or William Francis?

M- Honestly, I never heard them speak during high school so who knows what they are doing now. Remember how big of a deal volleyball always was? Well, Julio Crespo opened up his own volleyball training school.

S- Cool. Sports back in high school like volleyball were great. Bryan Fuller and R.J. Makowski loved sports so much, they became NFL analysts.

M- So many kids found their passions in high school and stuck with them. Like Mason Murray and James Diaz who became rapping realtors, or Amasia Dupont who has her own fashion fanny pack line.

S- Good for them. The class of 2019 has some record holders too. Jake Novotka has the fastest Rubix Cube solving time and Madison Loscombe and Julia Antoniacci have the record for holding straight faces longer than anyone on the planet. Kyle Puchalski holds a record for keeping the same hair cut his entire life too.

M- Wow. That is some crazy stuff. I heard some kids from our class went into different trades. Ray Smith has a building company. Adam Eiden works for Johnson Controls, Landy Burkland and Justin Felzuck are BMW mechanics, and Victoria Wolf and Nathaniel Mankins are members of the Welding Union.

S- Yeah that's right. Luke Frie became a graphic designer, Jordan Fuller became a Jeep mechanic, Kevin Rought owns his own HVAC company, and Josh Fernbach manages a warehouse.

M- A few kids went into the medical field too. Kiersten Royce and Carolina Beverage became NICU nurses and Adam Piasecki is an EMT now. I heard Mike Bellotti is a professional fireman now too.

S- Cool! Have you heard anything about Ashley Fraze or Jillian Felzuck?

M- Yeah! Ashley became a cosmetologist along with Janelys Echeverria and Jillian is an esthetician. Have you heard anything about Harold Acosta or Alivia Natale?

S- Yeah, actually. The two of them are still working in grocery stores with Ashanti Dillon. What about Jordan Gallagher?

M- Jordan actually became the Mayor of Riverside! Nobody walks through the hallways without getting a happy greeting from her!

S- That is so nice. I know Gina Davis went on to become a middle school teacher and Dana Robbins became a social worker after joining the military.

M- I think Natalie Taylor and Virginia Ramirez joined the military too. Have you heard from Morgan McGuire at all? She seemed to go off the grid after high school.

S- I haven't heard much but I know she owns a mansion on Glenmaura. She doesn't come out much but she must be doing pretty well for herself. It definitely pays to be smart. Noah Yackobowitz, Logan Cieless, and Matthew Cintron do the landscaping for her.

M- Good for her! So many people from our class did super cool things like Gabriella Chiavacci actually graduating from the University of Alabama and Thomas Hufford working for the EPA in Washington. Josh Phillips even made it all the way to California.

S- I forgot about them! Well, it's been nice catching up with you but Haley's next game starts in an hour so I better get going.

M- You're probably right. I need to leave too. The news doesn't just report itself. Bye Sam!

Nana

Rachel,

Congratulations you have survived high school! As this portion of life's journey ends, we want you to know that we are so proud of you. May your strength, independence and faith continue to guide you in your upcoming adventures. Embrace them, learn from them and treasure them. Your life has only just begun! All Our Love, Mom and Dad

"You got nothing to lose, you got nothing to prove Shine bright like diamonds in the sky
Live it up 'cause baby it's your time!" S.G.
