Let's Paws For a Moment Remember the memories.

As you reflect back on your high school years, there are many things to be remembered. The friends you have made; the long hours of practice and class; and the many accomplishments you have made are just a few.

Even though the days are not as easy as you would have liked, they seem to be swallowed up by the many exciting times there are. The football games are always exciting. Although we never seem to win very many games, we always have school spirit and cheer our team on. After most of the home games are the soccer hops, which seem to provide entertainment for students of all interests. You can see the students who love to dance that dance their heart out, or the ones there for social reasons only. These students are always found standing in groups, socializing.

You can never forget the day your algebra teacher kept you after class. Knowing you'll be late, you dash to your locker only to find that it won't open. You pull and tug and twist, but it's no use. Finally you give up and decide to go to class anyway. As you run down the hall the tardy bell rings and you realize that you've just lost your citizenship in that class.

Or what about all of the jokes you play on your friends. How about the classic when you stuff your best friend's locker with balloons on his birthday and the clown comes at lunch with a cake.

With all these memories you must stop and PAWS FOR A MOMENT as you reflect back.

As we enter the school, you see students who "PAWS FOR A MOMENT" in front of the student center, a popular place to relax.

Sky View's enthusiastic crowd cheered on the football team with lots of school spirit.

The studentbody quickly sits in their seats as the cheerleaders teach them a song to sing that night.

Ready for Excitement?

The studentbody is!

In the true Spirit of Homecoming. Friday, September 13 was an exciting day, it was Spirit day! Everywhere you looked you could see SV tee-shirts and a few painted faces.

The day started off with a pep rally put on by the cheerleaders, getting the student body and the team psyched for the game that night.

Before the game begins the players not only prepare physically but also mentally. Such as Chad Olsen. He listens to "AC/DC" and "Guns and Roses." Danny Sundstrom wears three pairs of socks and eats pizza the night before the game, then wets his hair right before the game.

When the game began, the studentbody went wild as the team ran on the field. Blue, white, and gold balloons filled the sky. You could still feel the excitement when everyone was asked to stand and sing the national anthem.

Halftime was full of enthusiasm as the band and Colorguard marched across the field playing their best. Following them the Vistaans, full of new faces and ideas. Showed how their hard work and dedicated has paid off by doing a spectacular performance. Next, Homecoming Royalty rode across the track in a deep red convertible then walked through a tunnel made by the half-time performers. As royalty drove away, half-time ended.

During the third and fourth quarter, there was hope that maybe our team could pull ahead but we never did and still we support our team.

Touchdowns were made by Jeremy White (12) and Bryan Webb (11). Way to go.

The studentbody and the cheerleaders never quit cheering and changing "we love our team." School spirit was shown all night and it never died down.

Mindee Shaffer (12) and the Skyview bobcat clap and cheer "Go Bobcats" to the crowd. Getting everyone psyched for homecoming.

The marching band marches to the beat, showing the spirit of Homecoming.

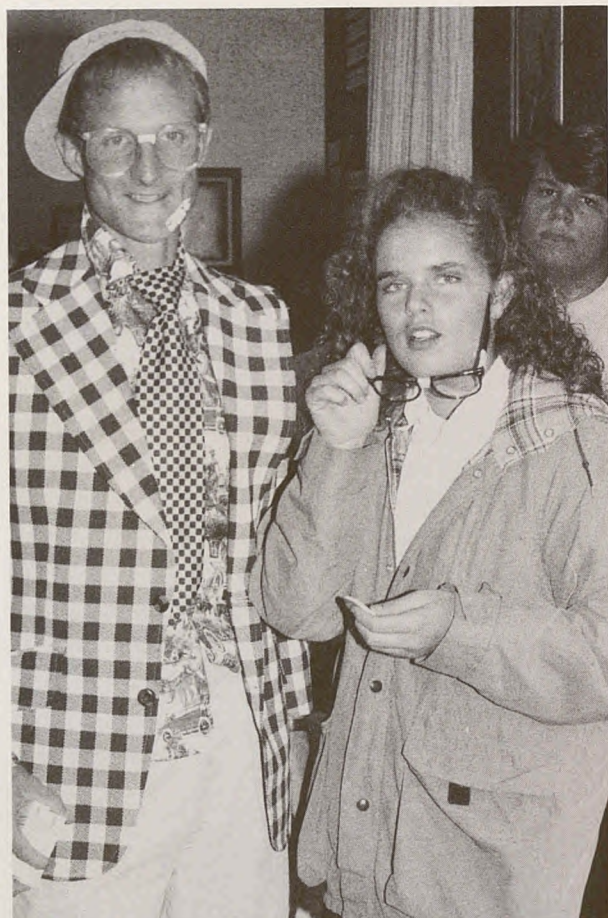

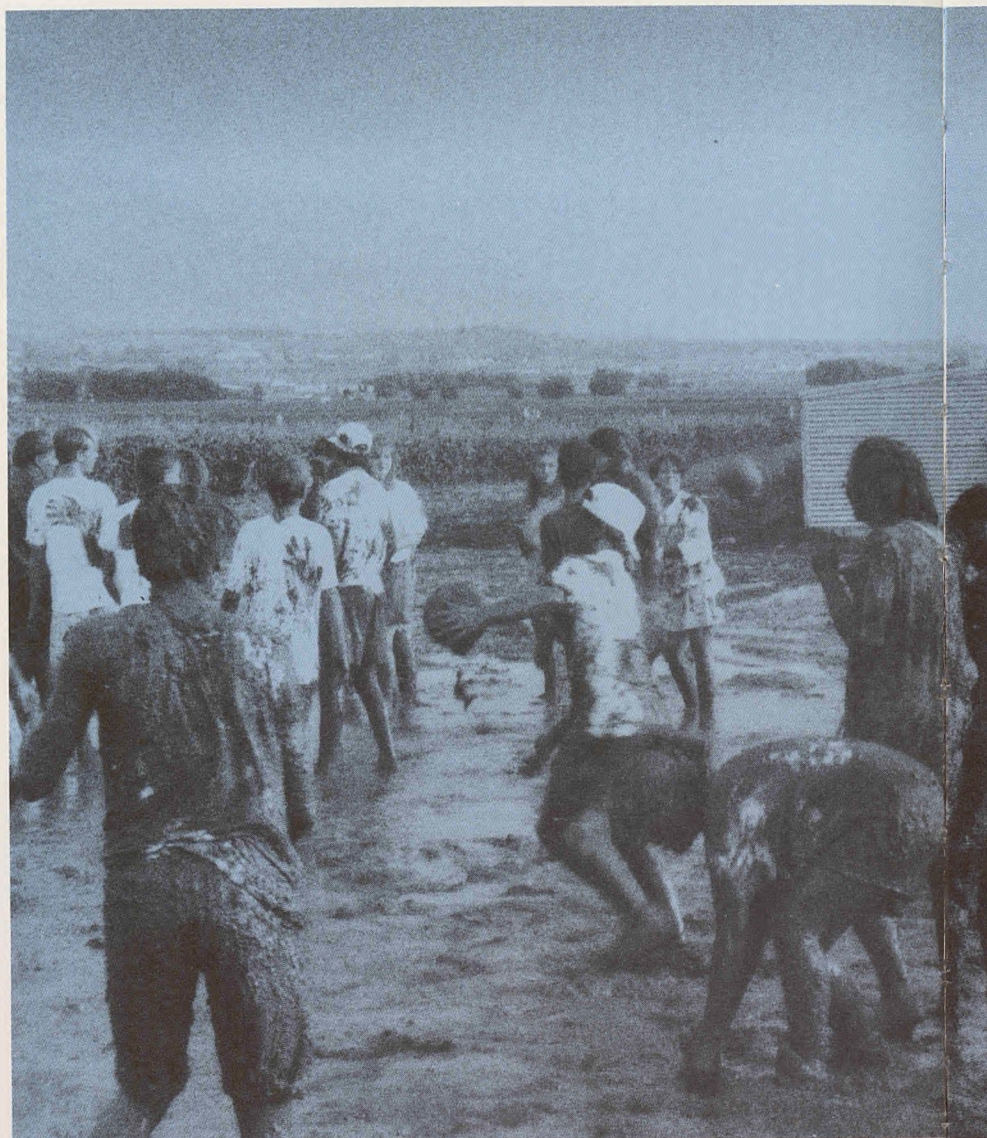

Nancy Jewkes (11) and Matt Lott (11) take advantage of the Homecoming activities and watch "Princess Bride" in the gym.

These students showed their Homecoming spirit by really getting into the mud volleyball game, or at least into the mud.

Showing that even teachers can have school spirit, Brother Spackman shows off his nerdiest apparel along with one of his students Christa Godfrey (10). They and many other students and teachers, took the theme of the week to heart and made their nerdy dreams into reality.

Whether because they all had secret dreams of being firefighters, or a simple need of transportation, the cheerleaders and mascot joined the Homecoming festivities by riding the firetruck in the parade on Wednesday afternoon.

Let Dreams Be Reality

And the students did!

When the more forgetful students arrived Monday morning, they were amazed to find that a great number of their classmates had become nerds. Then it dawned on them that it was homecoming week. The entire student body enjoyed the shortened schedule and the assembly that caused it. At the assembly the alumni were welcomed back and some participated. Last year's executive council talked to us, and the cheerleaders performed a cheer. There was also a stirring rendition of "You Always Hurt the One You Love" by Mitch Halverson and Matt Gibbons, and a skit by Russell Francis and Ben Godfrey. After school, the students gathered to paint the student center windows, and later to play mud volleyball in the field south of the school.

Tuesday morning characters from favorite storybooks were found wandering the halls and attending classes. That evening, the students enjoyed a tailgate party in the student center and a great movie, "Princess Bride," in the gym.

Things were a little more normal Wednesday when the underclassmen had their pictures taken. There were no witches or nerds. Just the normal, well-dressed students. Later that evening, students, faculty, and alumni joined to make a wonderful parade. Floats and cars were decorated, the student body officers rode ATV's and the spirited cheerleaders rode on the firetruck along with the new mascot. Those who weren't in the parade lined the streets to watch and support their school.

Thursday the school was invaded by hunters wearing camouflage and bright orange, looking for bears, but they were a day early. The "bears" didn't show up until Friday night.

Friday the halls crawled with blue, white, and gold as the student body anticipated the big game.

Bryce Pettit (11) is reflected in his careful work on this painting on one of the student center windows.

A Night Of Enchantment ... IS A CELEBRATION'S END

Tropical island huts, and enchanted forests, replaced the normal decor of the cafeteria as the long awaited, long prepared for, Homecoming Dance got under way.

For most, the night began with an elegant dinner. Many couples traveled as far as Salt Lake to dine, while others enjoyed romantic candle light dinners in the privacy of their own homes.

Everyone's manners were put to a test as they concentrated on chewing with their mouths closed, not spilling water everywhere, and following the many other etiquette rules, while at the same time keeping

The discouragement over the loss the night before was forgotten, as students danced and enjoyed the magical atmosphere around them.

The theme song, "Everything I Do, (I Do It For You), by Bryan Adams, was taken from the popular movie Robin Hood. It was played during the presentation of the homecoming royalty. Jenny Allen was crowned the 91-92 homecoming queen. She was escorted by BAGA officer Wyatt Wood.

The end of the dance was just the beginning for many. Students could be seen doing anything from usual watching movies and playing games to the more creative activity of playing laser tag on the university lawn. "I love it when we do fun and creative things after the dances. It makes the evening more memorable," said Mardee Dutro (11).

Since most students have curfews they have to meet, the evening must come to an end. Curfews can be both bad and good.

Bad if your enjoying yourself and good if your with an undesirable date.

All in all the dance was a success. For most, this will be a night to remember.

Paws for Applause

"In the year of our Lord Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-Two, a series of documents were placed in an order to reveal a story so at variance with the possibilities of contemporary belief as to appear the ravings of madmen. We offer no proofs, we ask none to believe us. You only have my word before God that what follows is pure and simple fact . . ."

The night air hangs heavily like a damp blanket over the fog-drenched countryside.

Jonathan Harker steps cautiously from the coach, nods to the coachman, then turns to face the black silhouette of castle Dracula. Overhead the moon peers ominously through its vestment of clouds. Harker steps cautiously forward. The huge iron gate swings open revealing a dark figure dressed in black. Mist swirls around Jonathan as he loses all consciousness.

So begins a tale that became one of the most exciting and spine-chilling plays ever written. Dracula, by Bram Stoker, adapted by Charles Morey, which was performed the week of Halloween closed with a bang, literally! Between stunning special effects and lavish costumes and sets, Dracula incorporated the talents of many of our promising young actors with the directing expertise of Nan Wharton, our Drama advisor. It marked the beginning of an extremely entertaining theatrical school year.

As the sun rises after an evening of terror, we see an empty casket, save a pile of smoldering dust in the bottom

"We offer no proofs, We ask none to believe us. You only have my word that what I have told you is the complete and utter truth."

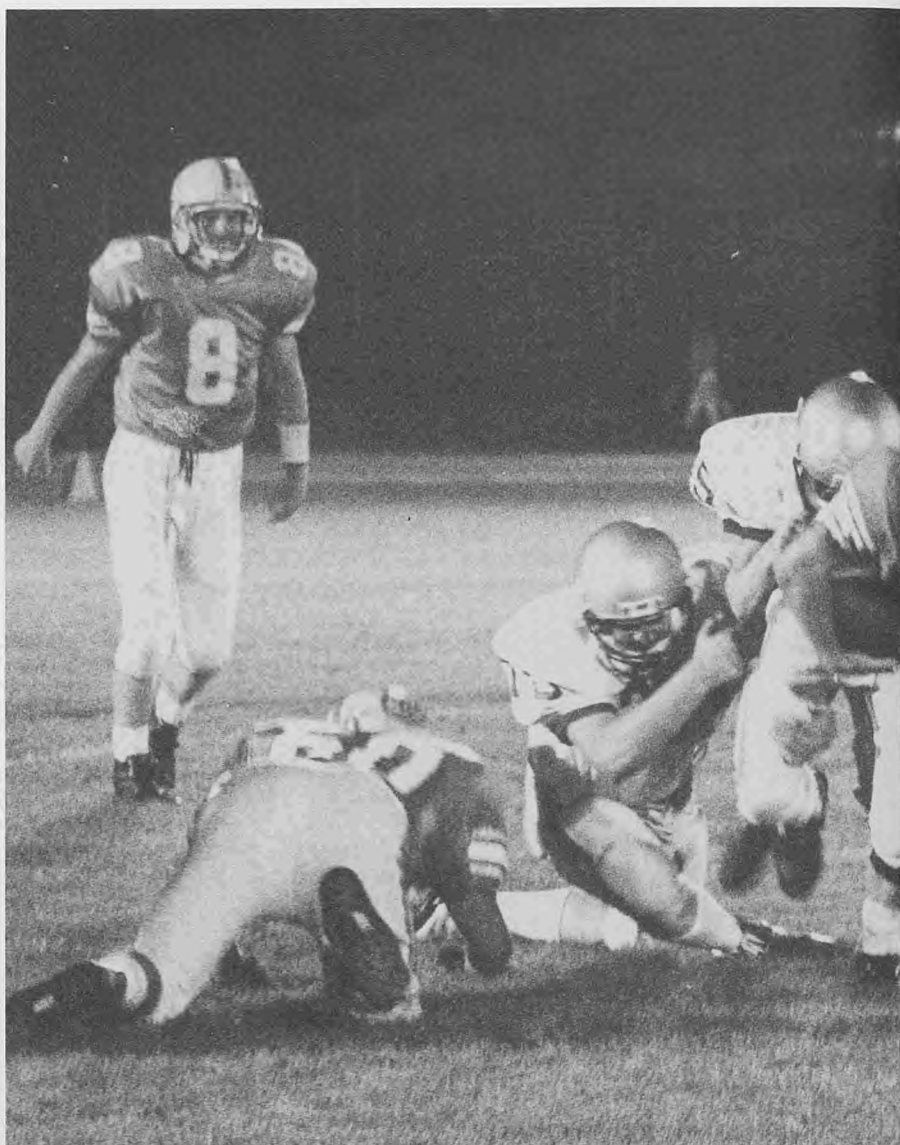

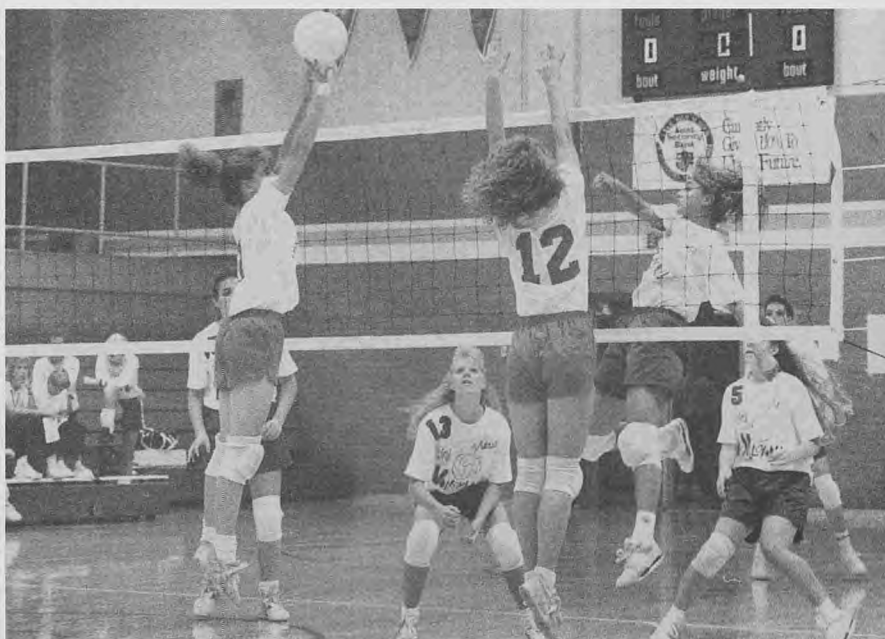

Karen Tibbets, (11), made the team, now she practices with her teammates to become a leading force for her team.

Jeremy White (12), (speed demon) is breaking through the group of defenders that probably never had a chance against this awesome RB.

Heather Noble (12), auditions for Steel Magnolias, this years second three Act Play. Heather Noble got the part of Ouiser. She loves playing the obnoxious part. Although a Drama Department put on two plays this year, (Dracula, Steel Magnolias) they pulled it off.

The waiting, The wondering. The stress situation.

Trying out. I'm sure most of us have tried out for some sort of activity. It could be sports, exec. council, theatre, cheerleader, or it could be any number of activities. I think just about everyone has experienced the trauma, the waiting, the wondering, (being fake to people, just for their votes.) In those moments that come when you realize that you got what you wanted, most people could kill you in that very instant. It is most times wise to refrain from this type of behavior. In the theatrical arts you usually tend to envy, or dislike, or maybe even treat badly the person that got the part that you wanted. Contentions usually last about two weeks. In some instances people dislike people for longer periods of time. In an interview, Brandon Suisse, (12), expressed how he felt about the play Dracula. "I was so excited to get the part that I wanted, that being double cast didn't matter." Ryan Bailey (12), replied, I got the part I wanted, but I think hard work, and dedication are important."

This football season has been a lot different than any other. This season the coaches decided that the best way to get kids into the weight room was to invite students to play football." This meant that anyone who was interested in a little football action had to be dedicated enough to lift weights during the summer at least three times a week. If they did this, the coaches sent a written invitation to the players. It did not matter how good you were, what mattered was, were you dedicated enough to lift weights that constantly?

There are many parts out there, there is always someone who gets to ride on their high horse for awhile. But it always comes down to one question. Did you get your part?

Todd Mullen (12), works on his golf shot, after making the team. Not much stress for Todd, he is sooo good!

Sarah Burningham, (12), easily made the team. Now she plays against her opponents with such fierce competition.

Military Veterans affiliated with Sky View line up to receive recognition at the Veterans Day Assembly.

BANG! PLINK PLINK PLINK PLINK PLINK. A twenty-one gun salute with a musical twist as the empty shells land on band equipment.

Mr. Jessop conveys his feelings about Veterans Day and instructs the Studentbody in proper behavior and etiquette in this type of assembly, "...and don't scream or pretend to die when the guns are fired. If you have to, plug your ears."

After long hours of rehearsal, preparation, and utter fatigue, the cheerleaders strut their stuff at a pep assembly.

Freedom of Assemblies! Breaking the Routine

Washington D.C. UPI: The Surgeon General has just issued a warning: "Students across the nation are being stricken with a terrible disease. Symptoms include: excitement during an assembly schedule (for the wrong reasons,) overall irritation at the mention of the word assembly, and a nervousness toward the last five minutes of fifth hour before an assembly. Schools across the country are warned to be on the lookout for these warning signs. Several schools have taken precautionary steps to prevent an outbreak. Among these steps: moving pep assemblies to after third hour, replacing assemblies with an intriguing thumb-twiddling seminar, or doing away with such frivolous wastes of time altogether. An alternate treatment has been found: anyone exhibiting the aforementioned symptoms should take a healthy dose of school spirit, and a teaspoon of interest in school functions. This remedy has been proven to revive active participation in assemblies."

Alright, so this article is a cheap ploy to remind us of how lucky we are to even have assemblies at all. From wonderful productions by the drama dept, to a stirring Veterans Day Assembly, we have some of the best as-semblies anywhere. The Cheerleaders spent countless hours preparing pep rallies to boost excitement for a game.

Many schools have decided to cancel assemblies entirely because of lack of support. Luckily, the cheerleaders, exec. council, and administration didn't give up. Battle of the Classes was thrilling (even though the Seniors always manage to win,) the Theme assembly was innovative and entertaining (however short,) and the Veteran's Day Assembly was moving.

Don't throw it away, Sky View, "We've got a good thing going!"

"Pardon the interruption," whoops, wrong person. Bro. Paul Spackman narrates during a pep assembly.

Students show some serious school spirit.

The real fun of the night could be pin pointed at the dance. This is the time you don't have to think of a reason to cuddle.

As the newest crowned King was taking his position in front of the noose at the Western Ho'-down on Girls Choice night he decided to give his date a real treat. It was his way of expressing his thanks for the night, The only problem was, he forgot to say "pucker-up"

Swingin' to the Western Blues

WAHOOOO! We really found out who the true cowboys at Sky View were at February 21st Girls Choice. Everywhere you looked there was either Wranglers, cowboy boots or a cowboy hat on both the male and the female folk.

The night was chosen by the Front Porch to be a Western Ho'down and in many cases it lived up to it's name. The song was The Search is over by Survivor and the dance decorations were set up to be a western saloon. The pictures were the rustic look to add to the night.

For some couples the night started off with a tour of Hardware Ranch in the back of a hay wagon. It was probably a little bit chilly at first but before long the night quickly warmed up. Eating in the neighbors hay barn and dutch oven chicken and potatoes were also some of the other popular activities of the night.

The western Ho'down was really appreciated by the majority of the student body, "I've been taking 'swingin' lessons," said Adam Higham (12), "now I really feel it paid off." The country music and Garth Brooks also excited a lot of people. "Country conquers all," yehawed Tara Smith (10).

The western Ho'down was preceded in November by "Worth Fighting For" which was the theme of the dance. Color-guard and vistauns were the decision makers of the dance. The colors were red, white and blue and the song was "Love of a Life Time" by Fire House. The decorations were unique with the Royalty being crowned in the center of the gym in a boxing ring.

Both of the dances turned out to be a success for everyone. There was a lot of talk after both about how much fun everyone had and how excited they were. Lets just hope theres another Ho'down in the years to come.

Its not likely that anybody would say Trina Chambers (12) and Brooks Gibbons (12) didn't enjoy themselves on Nov. 22nd.

There is no such thing as natural beauty

Women of the south are refined, delicate, soft spoken, and hard as nails. This was proven amid hair spray, curlers, and southern accents, opening night, November 21, at the production of "Steel Magnolias."

The characters we found there were six very different women. Each one contributing their own distinct personalities. All of them struggling to find happiness. Truvy has a husband that hasn't moved from in front of the T.V. set in 15 years. Annelle goes from shy to jezebel to a born again Christian.

Clairee (Lindsay Malechek) asks Ouiser (Heather Noble) if she's so chipper because she ran over a small child.

Truvy (Natalie Bingham) gives Shelby (Jennifer Johnson) a saucy new short hairdo and a manicure.

Clairee feels like a third wheel after her husband dies. M'Lynn can't let go of her daughter, Shelby, who just wants to leave a little piece of immortality regardless of the price she has to pay. Ouiser is the not too pleasant dog lover who eventually finds a love interest.

The actresses were just as varied from each other as the characters they played. Mrs. Nan Wharton, the director, said that is the reason each one was cast in the part they played.

This comedy about life and love reminded us how people start in life as well as how they leave it. The reality of this play made it very hard to portray believable characters. It covers every aspect of life from the fanatic born again Christians to weddings and psychotic animals.

The audience was very involved with the action because it was performed in intimate theatre. The audience was seated on the stage just a few feet from the players. A challenge for the actresses, but a delightful surprise for the audience.

All in all this play was a true success, with every night as a sell out.

Jeremy Bowen(12) has a creative way of asking Trevyan Mecham(12), to the Christmas Dance. Why not sing to her at the Mr. SV pageant?

Many couples enjoy a dance in the student center. The theme this year was It's Christmas Time, the colors were red, green, and silver.

Jingle Bells Jingle Bells It's Christmas Time!

You're sitting in 2nd hour staring at the clock, anxiously awaiting the ring of the bell. You hear a knock at the door. Someone steps inside, carrying a big bouquet of red roses. Your heart stops for a second as you think to yourself, could they be for me? No, I never get flowers. Your heart starts to beat faster and faster as the person with the roses comes closer and closer. They are for you!! Your hands are shaking, and you have problems opening the card. You finally get it open, and read it three times before the message sinks in. The card says, Will you go to the Christmas Dance with me?? If you are a boy it would say something different. It would most likely read, Yes or No. Is it really worth going through all of this to ask or answer someone to a dance? "It's fun for one or two of the dances, but after a while it gets hard to think of new and creative ways to answer someone.", says Vanessa Lauscher.

The asking and answering part is only the beginning. The girls must then decide whether they borrow a dress from a friend, buy a new one, wear an old one, etc. For the guys, there is dinner, activities, the dance and pictures to pay for. It can be very expensive and stressful for everyone, but in most cases it is worth it.

Whether you were asked to the dance with roses or a phone call, stress or no stress, many people were there. The sophomores are always in charge of the Christmas Dance. It was held on December the twenty-first, in the student center. The theme, It's Christmas time, says it all about this time of the year. The colors red, green, and silver only added to the festive atmosphere. To all of those who were there, it was an evening to remember.

Winter Activities

What should we do?

This is a common question which is often heard in the halls of Sky View during the winter months. What do you do? The possibilities seem endless: downhill skiing, snow caving, snowboarding, ice skating, snowmobiling, cross country skiing, telemarking, sledging, tubing, and ice fishing. With Beaver Mountain so close to us many students can be caught taking a day off from school and enjoying the snow. Others are more into getting in shape so they take off in the hills for a day of cross country skiing. Many people are thrilled with all of these activities that are available during the winter. But there is always the people who still can't decide why they live in this miserably cold Utah weather. These are students who cannot seem to enjoy a good icy dirt road that works better for sledging then it does for driving.

There are also the winter sports that we have at school which many students participate in. To get students involved in cheering for these sports a winter spirit week was held. Some of the activities held during the week were snow sculpturing, a pep assembly, and a day of silence for girls. Now if you are trying to understand what that is here is an explanation. During first hour every girl in the school was given a pin with a ribbon on it. Then the girl was to not speak to guys for the rest of the day in order to keep her pin. The guy who obtained the most pins from talking girls received a prize. The girl also received a prize if she kept her in all day. This idea was turned around the following week and the boys were silent. The snow sculpturing was also a big hit and many people turned out to help in the forming of a giant dinosaur.

Wasn't it great to have just a few more choices of winter activities to participate in this year?

As he flies through the air with the greatest of ease Brandon Barlow (12) enjoys soaring over those trees.

Isn't it amazing what some people can do when there is loud music playing? Chris Jenkins (10), soundly slumbers despite the frantic dancing and the loud music.

Unwinding after a long day of school, students shake, rattle, and roll the night away at one of the students favorite hangouts, the sock hop.

Friendships in the making at the Friday sock hop.

It's a boring Friday night and there does not seem to be anything to do. You think hard about what to do but all you can think of is to go to the movies, but is there anything good playing? Wait you could go to the malt shop, but then the tears come to your eyes as you remember that old flame that now is long in the past. Well, finally you remember there happens to be a sock hop tonight. You finally found something to do on that oh, so long, and boring night.

As you walk into the sock hop lights are dimmed, the students are animals, and the music is blasting.

You wander around a while, and suddenly you spot that special someone that you always wanted to meet but never had the courage to talk to. Suddenly you just walk up and start talking. You are now glad you didn't stay home, go to the malt shop, or go to the movies. You have now gone through the first step in beginning yet another special friendship.

Relationships are one of the major reasons that students go to sock hops. Many people say that sock hops are one of the best places to meet a new friend.

Another good reason to go to sock hops is to have fun. Students believe that they need to have a place to relax and let out the stress built up by school. At a sock hop you can see all kinds of people and would you believe it; they all have a different way of relieving stress. For some people it is dancing, for some to wander, and for others it is just to sit and talk to anyone who will listen.

Even though many students go to sock hops for many different reasons, it can be said that everyone went to have a good time.

Here he is again, our famous D.J., Rick Rose. Yes, thanks to him we have the fine music we do at sock hops.

Students happily talk at a sock hop. Don't you wish you knew what these girls were talking about?

No Place Like Home Ease On Down The Road

Alright, how many times have you seen "The Wizard of Oz"? Millions, you say? You have noticed, then, that not all of the lines make sense. For example, when the witch refers to "a little insect" that she sent to thwart the four-some's attempt to reach her castle, where do they run into this "bug"? The cast of this year's musical, "The Wizard of Oz" discovered answers to these and other burning questions during the run of the show.

called the jitterbug. Whoever is bitten by this infectious creature is condemned to dance until they collapse in sheer exhaustion. Though this sequence was cut from the movie, when the play was written, it was not only restored, but lengthened, and the little creatures became big dancing creatures. Lead by Troy Bowles (11), the jitterbugs infect Dorothy and her new friends, making them dance until the monkeys capture them.

In addition to the jitterbug sequence, scores of new lines were added in writing the play, based on the stories of L.

Frank Baum. The witch was given dozens of lines, some funny, some altogether stupid (still humorous), while the story remained intact and as entertaining as the original movie.

Jennifer Johnson, starred as Dorothy, supported by Brady Pitcher as the Scarecrow, Lynden Bair as the Tin Man, and Stanton Allen as the Cowardly Lion.

All of these elements combined with a rented flying system and dazzling special effects (and a cast and crew of one hundred fifty) brought about one of the best shows ever.

What would happen if they went on strike?

You may not realize it, but the entire studentbody depends on these people. They provide transportation and food and clean our messes.

Some students depend on the drivers of the "Yellow Limousines" to get to school each day and, more importantly, home again. Most of the studentbody has taken advantage of the busses to get to games.

The cooks provide a variety of foods for our consumption. Every day we have the choice of eating salad, main dish, ham-burgers or A-la-carte.

Probably the least known of these groups is the custodians. But think what our school would be like without them. If all the spilled pop and food and papers thrown on the floor were left, soon we wouldn't be able to walk down the halls.

Clarence Thomas became a household name and a Supreme Court justice in the past year.

A Nation of Turmoil and Change

Magic Johnson reveals that he is infected with the HIV virus to a stunned audience in Los Angeles.

Superintendent Clark Puffer announced his resignation late in September.

The past year brought many changes both locally and nationally. Newspaper reporters scrambled to get the latest scoop on celebrities in Hollywood and government officials in Washington, D.C. The nation waited in anticipation for news of a new scandal, medical breakthroughs, and the falling of communism.

Many political officials stepped down from office only to be replaced by new ones. In our nation's capital, Clarence Thomas was questioned by the Senate after President Bush had appointed him as the new Supreme Court justice. The senators' minds were settled and Thomas was sworn in.

The tragedy of AIDS hit home when Magic Johnson, the famed Los Angeles Lakers basketball star, announced he was infected with the HIV virus that causes AIDS. He vowed he would fight for the AIDS cause.

Tragedy struck again when floods covered Texas with water, forcing families to evacuate from safety.

The year has not been all tragedy and heartache. After 2,455 days as a hostage in Lebanon, Terry Anderson, the longest held American hostage, was finally released on December 4.

There will not cease to be news of change just because it is a new year. The world is an ever-changing place, and we will change with it.

Anita Hill testifies against Clarence Thomas before senators.

George Bush is president in the middle of drastic changes in the nation.

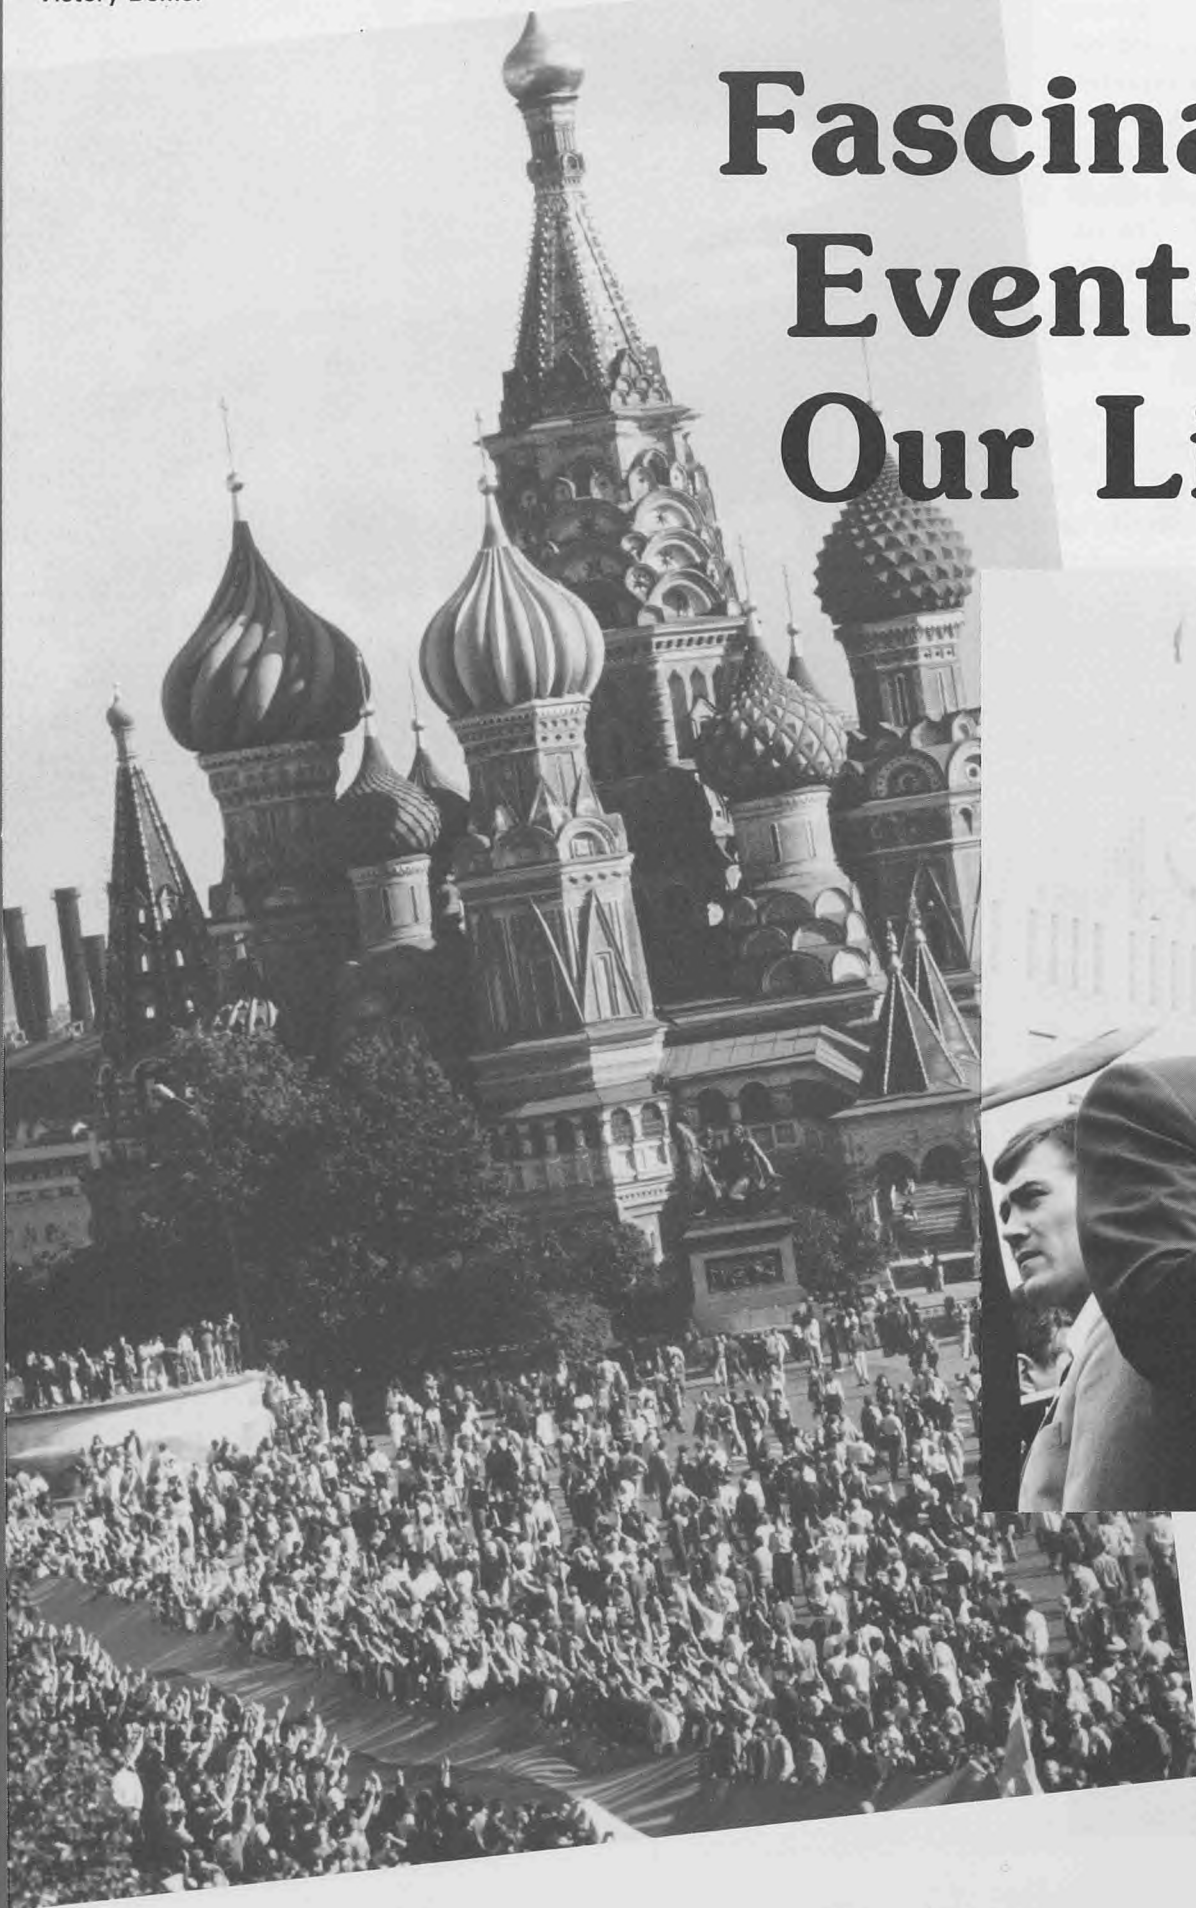

Being great support for the President, Barbara Bush takes on the Literacy project.

After the attempt of the coup many Russians assembled at Red Square for a Victory Demo.

Fascinating Events In Our Lives

Boris Yeltsin was elected to head the new Russian Republic.

The Phillipines are demanding the U.S. to get out.

This is your world and you should know about what is happening in it. World happenings and environment concerns can affect you, your interests, your community, and your family.

Many hardliner communists leaders in Russia didn't agree with the way Gorbachev was running the country. They set up a coup to overthrow him. The Communist hardliners tried to but they failed. After the coup failed Gorbachev stepped down. Russia was divided into provinces.

After the coup failed in Russia, three countries, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia, which had been taken over by Russia, were given their independence.

In other world news, the United States has been forced to dismantle its military bases in the Phillipines.

In South Africa, its white leader, FW deKlerk, has started the process of taking down apartheid, a form of segregation, in order to try to move his country towards equal rights for all.

Many people are concerned about the steady loss of the Brazilian Rain Forest. Organized rallies and marches have been formed to stop devastation.

These are only a few of the world happenings. There has seldom ever been a year gone by with more changes in it that have affected the "face" of our world and the people in it.

FW deKlerk is trying to get rid of apartheid in South Africa.

People are concerned about the constant burning of the Brazilian Rain Forests.

After the independence in Lithuania, thousands of citizens gathered to celebrate.

MUSIC

A black and white photograph of a woman lying down, looking towards the camera. She has dark hair and is wearing a dark, patterned top. Her hand is resting near her face. The image is oriented horizontally on the page.

Is it a him or her?
Who knows? It's just Pat from Saturday night live.

It's a Saturday night. You don't have a date and your home alone. What can you do? Even though many complain that Cache Valley is limited in its night life and entertainment. There must be something going on. Well. . .your probably right. There are many alternatives.

Logan has 4 theatres each showing the latest films. Or if your low on cash, Smithfield's Main Theatre charges only 1.25. Going to the movies is a popular past time of the student body. Some of the favorite movies in the year 1991 included; 1. Terminator 2 2. Robin Hood, and 3. Beauty and the Beast. This Walt Disney produced show was the first cartoon to be nominated for best picture.

Music, including; tapes, records, CD'S, and Music Videos, are a major form of entertainment. There is a wide variety in kinds of music, and everyone has his or her own favorite.

But still the easiest and most convenient form of entertainment is the good old T.V. A big range of programs are available especially if you have cable or movie channels. The top three T.V. programs include; 1. Saturday Night Live, 2. Beverly Hills 90210, and 3. The Simpsons.

So now as you can see, there are a few things to keep you entertained in this valley.

Hollywoods best came together for the seasons hottest shows

Beverly Hills 90210 is a show made for todays teenagers. It deals with societys problems.

Amy Grant is a young, new artist, who captured the hearts of many with her music.

ENTERTAINMENT

There's no better way to show your differences than by the clothes you wear.

Attire Attitudes Athletes

Uniqueness is a priority in everybody's life

FASHION

Rypien led the Redskins off the turf as #1 this year.

"It's as different as black and white," is the only saying that could be agreed on by everyone about fashion. Being a trend setter is an idea that goes through almost every boy and girls mind sometime throughout their life, especially in high school.

The image you radiate by the clothes you wear can influence the way others treat you. When someone is seen wearing plain, black and white clothes all the time they could be considered as generic, easily satisfied and not very forward. Where as if you see someone in exotic, bright and colorful apparel you usually see them as outgoing, cheery, and very eager.

1991-1992 has been a very exciting time for sports. Many records have been broken and goals have been set. Athletes have been breaking trail and entertaining the crowds all around the world.

Minnesota Twins came out on top in baseball this year, beating the Atlanta Braves in a tie breaker, putting them ahead 4 games to three. But sad news travels quickly.

Majic Johnson, retired in '91 because he was HIV+. It didn't take long before the entire sports world was conversing about the incident, but most talk died soon after.

Now we have something new to cheer about. The Washington Redskins victorious win over Buffalo Bills in Super Bowl XVI.

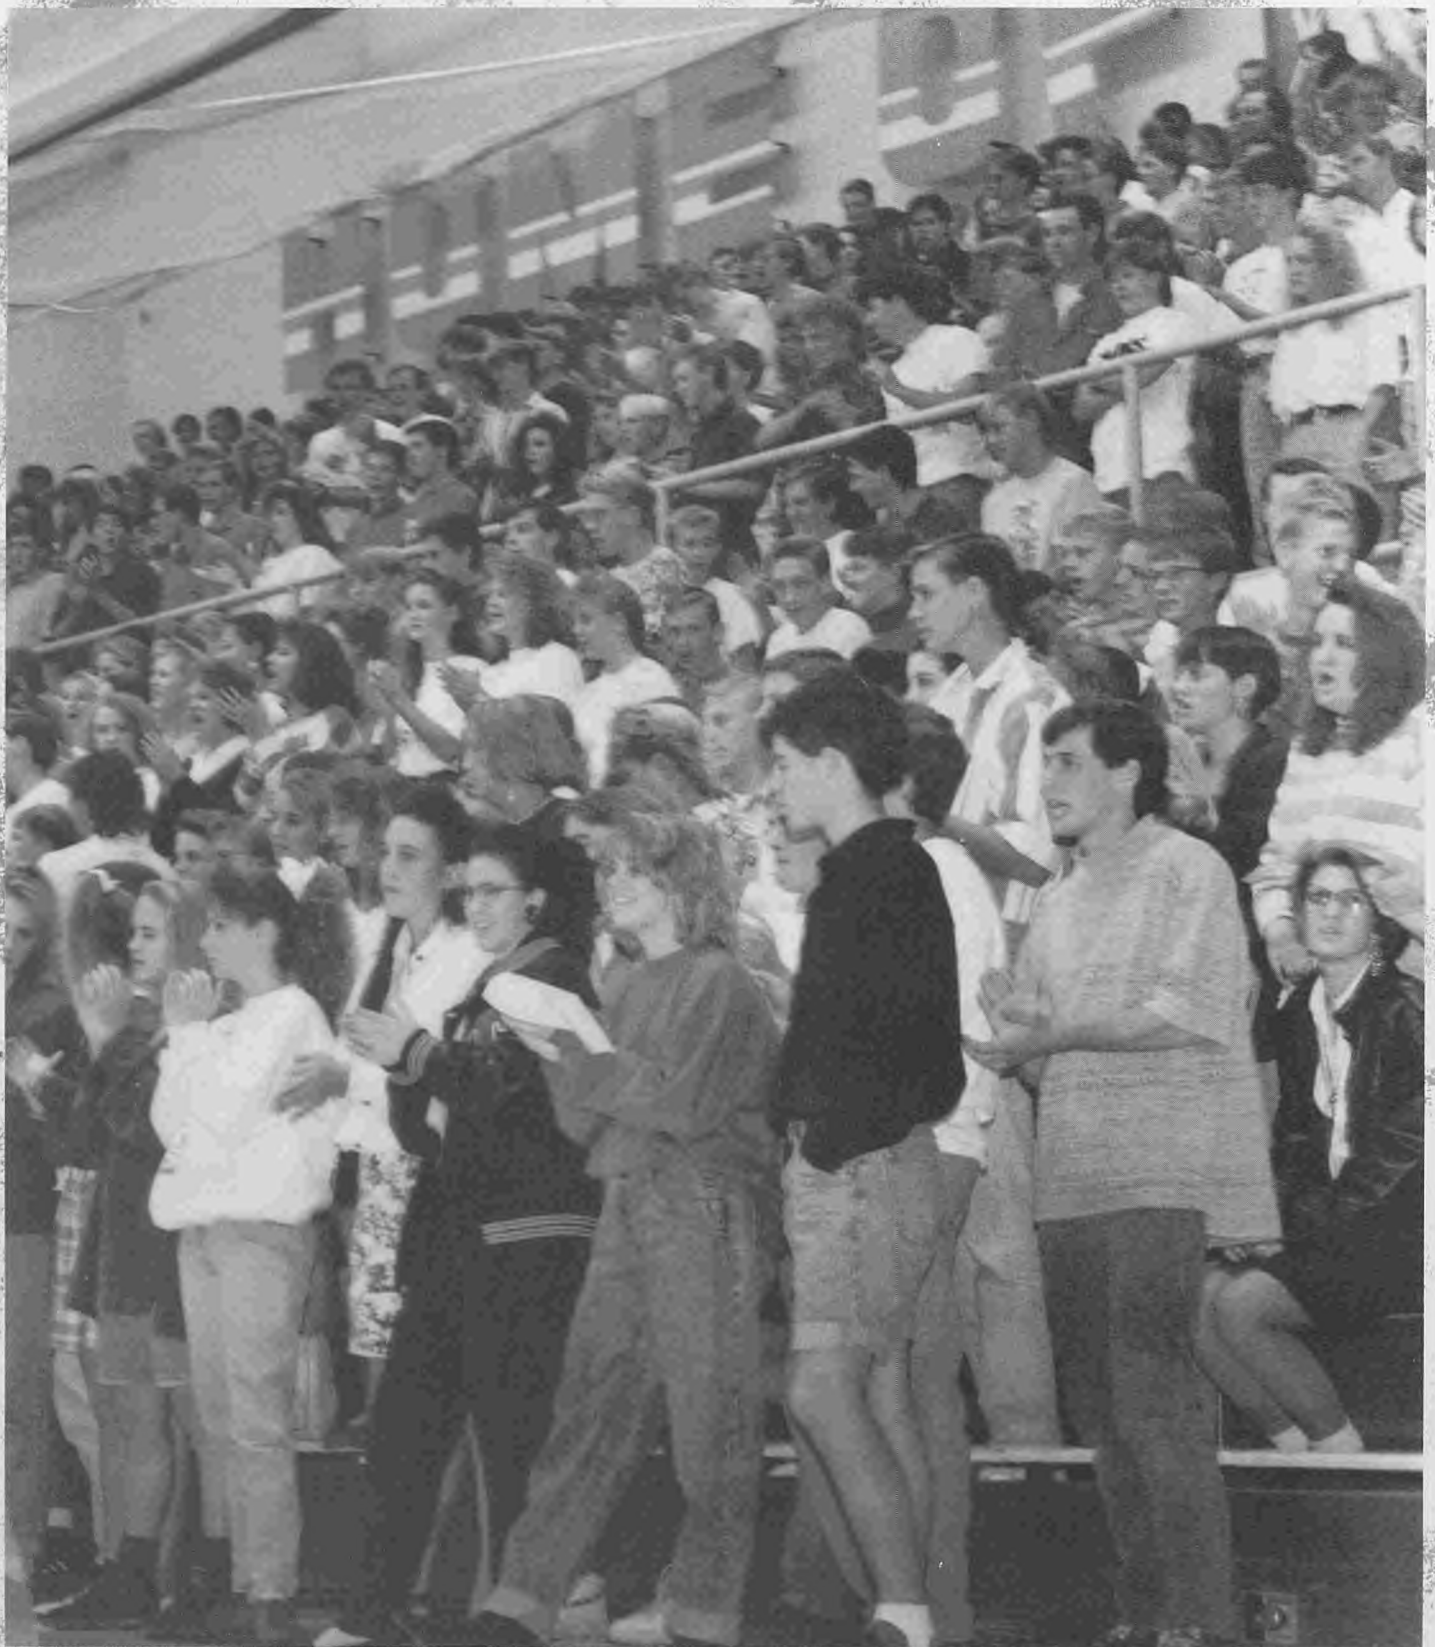

Some people will do almost anything just to show their support for the team.

"The Magic Touch," Displayed by Majic Johnson and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

A few for Many

You must like to be involved if you hope to be a class officer. At least that's what Joanna Mitchell, Senior class vice-president, thinks.

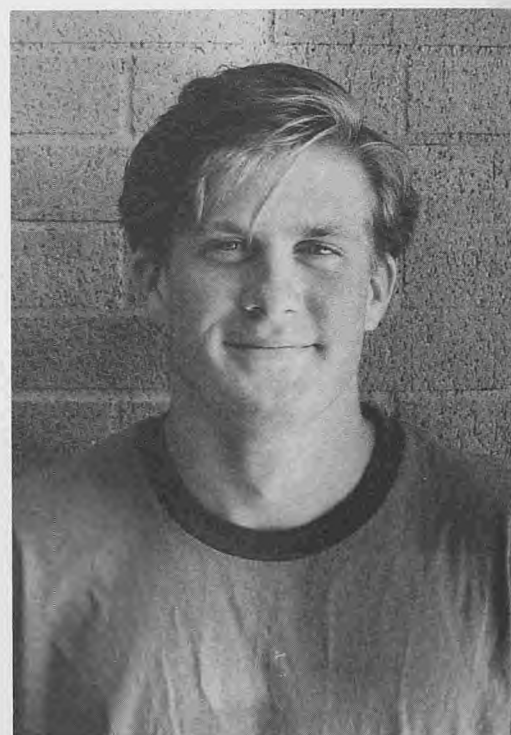

"I love the Senior class. My position is excellent for working with people and getting to know them. I love being involved and getting others involved also.

These class officers do a lot for their class and they should get a big "THANK YOU", if you have the chance.

Myles Parrish, Senior class president, has more on his mind than leading the pack.

"To be a class officer gives me a chance to make decisions, including my own. I can help others by deciding what goes on in school," Myles explains. Then he had to return to class. His teacher wanted to lecture him for a few minutes at least.

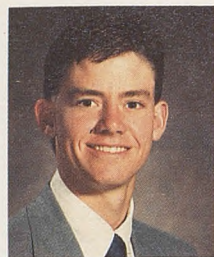

"I enjoy being a class officer!" said Jeremy White while working out in his weight-lifting class. He is the senior class secretary.

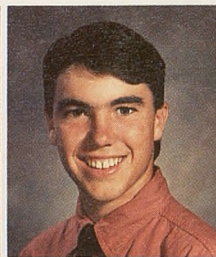

"If you are a class officer, it is expected that you get involved."

To be an officer is not always easy. They organize and prepare the Senior Prom, class parties and activities, the Homecoming parade and the cat tracks at the end of the year.

Stoplights in the halls.
-Bill Johnson
Tim Martin
Joanna Mitchell

Lessen the censorship at soc-hops.
-Ryan Bailey

3-day weekends.
-Kayla Gonzalez

Make lunch 10 minutes longer.
-Jason Wright

More milk in the milk cartons.
-Connie Hymas

I would change the school colors to purple and fluorescent green.

-Josh Slagowski

Switch the girls and boys restrooms every 2 weeks to confuse people.

-Scott Sorenson

Shorter hours.
-Jennifer Hansen

Change the attitude of the school in general.
-Andria Stark

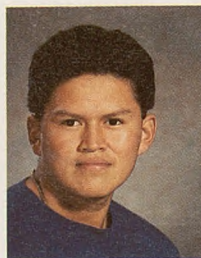

Do away with the citizenship policy.
-Cami Balls

A fez for everyone. And everyone a fez.
-Greg Stewart

Get rid of the sophomores so seniors can have their own lockers.

-Jeremy Lee

Embarrassed? Everyone knows!!

I was playing soccer, it was just me and goalie. I faked her out so I had a clear shot . . . and I missed!-Pam Sickler

It was my freshman year in wrestling. I was going stark naked to the weights to get weighed, when two girls walked into the locker room and saw me!-Josh Wheeler

I was playing soccer, and I was running sideways when I tripped over a hump and fell flat on my face!-Tim Martin

I was passing the sacrament for my first time, and the whole time everyone was laughing at me. When we were finished I went to sit down, and I noticed that the front end of my shirt was sticking out through my zipper!-Matt Platis

I was in the third grade, and we were square dancing. I was dancing with a guy that I had a big crush on. I looked down and noticed that my skirt was on the floor, and I was standing in my underwear!-Brenda Biddulph

I was in eighth grade. I was kissing my girlfriend while I was waiting for the bus to come, when a guy depantsed me!-Braden Atkinson

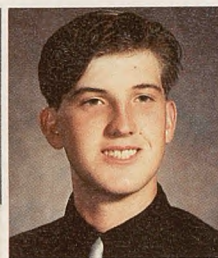

I was in the third grade. I was at the front of the line waiting to get a drink of water. Someone had put gum on it so when I went to get a drink, it sprayed all over me and everywhere else!-Chad Alder

I was at Expo '86 with my brother. He had been bugging me all day. I saw him leaning over a rail, so I thought I would get him back. I went over to him, put my arms around him and said I love you but it wasn't my brother, it was someone else!-Heidi Greene

Dating Games Café Le Shower

DATING—the time consuming, money eating, and oh so exciting pastime of the student body. It is one of the best ways to get past one's outward appearance, and get to know their thoughts and feelings.

By the time you become a senior, you have had the chance to experience varied types of dates, and different personalities.

There are blind dates, spontaneous dates, long awaited dates, and not so desirable dates, each of which we have all experienced.

The typical date for you, would start at about 7:30 p.m. and end around midnight. In that time period, you would go out to dinner, and then rent a video or go see a movie.

Here are a couple of the crazy dates you have been on. "My date and I jumped into the Sky View swimming pool through the sky lights and swam for a couple of hours . . . NOT!!," joked Adam Higham (12). "My friends and I and our dates went to St. Anne's nunnery. We had previously arranged for two friends to hide there. One was dressed as a dead priest with a bible. The other looked close to Satan. When we arrived at St. Anne's. We walked up the trail talking and laughing. Then the priest started down the front steps condemning us. We were expecting it but it still scared us to death. We started to run and there was our so called Satan. To finish the date, we had another person hiding in the bushes video taping our adventure," said Darby Hawkes (12).

Nikki Sanders (12), experiences her craziest date in the shower, enjoying a romantic candlelight dinner.

- (D) Shy

Who is the most annoying Junior?

- (A) _____
- (B) _____
- (C) _____
- (D) All of the above

Was Jeff Fraser just doing a good acting job when he played the part of "Reinfield"? This photo makes us wonder.

"B" was the correct and most popular answer although "A" is also a good bet.

"D" is the correct answer. (You fill in the names of the Juniors who annoy you the most).

Ryan Israelsen (10) can touch his tongue to his neck.

Paul Watts split his leotard during his ballet class.

Kim Mickelson, Rachel Irvine, and Darcie Cooper went sledding in their swimsuits and moon-boots.

Josh Jensen (10) got his head stuck in a revolving door.

Jeremy Wood (10) is Holly Roundy's personal slave.

Believe it or not, it's true! Ryan is able to achieve what most people can only dream of doing.

Unfortunately this is false, but he would be very graceful at ballet.

Yes, they did, and they claim they loved every minute of it.

No, this is false, but if it really had happened it would explain a lot.

True, he would do anything for her.

Denise Peterson was thought to be paralyzed from the mouth down.

Zack Bergeson is the quietest, most reserved sophomore in this school.

Kylie Nielsen has a brother who is named after an animal.

The sophomore class makes up the smallest number of students in this school.

Lee Darley is the tallest sophomore in his class.

Although she really isn't paralyzed, Denise Peterson (10) feels like she is after a painful trip to the dentist.

True-She wasn't really paralyzed, the dentist had just given her five shots in the mouth.

False-Zack can be heard coming down the hall from two miles away.

True-Her older brother's nickname is Bear.

False-The sophomore class is the largest, with around 500 students.

False-If you're not watching closely, you might miss him.

Was it Angie Bird who smashed a drivers ed. car?

Is it true, Vanica Larson, that everyone in elementary school saw your underwear?

Did Maja Cholico get hit by a teacher?

Was one of Adam Olsen's embarrassing moments to get depantsed at a football game?

True or false: Becky Palazzolo was locked in her own locker!

Do you think she had brain surgery because of this accident?

No, Kari Karren did it. Just be glad that nothing serious happened.

Oh yeah-a teacher wanted to spank her on her birthday in third grade.

Not by a teacher but by a door a teacher opened.

Yes. Who counts on an angry football player being that mad to take revenge in this way?

True! Someone got her combo and saved the poor girl.

As a third grader, Corey Seeholzer on his way to school one morning got ran over by a diesel.

Tara Allen was caught in the mall with a mannequin.

Chelise Pettit while practicing her swimming skills, hit her ear on the diving board.

Julie Fonnesbeck, while looking for clothes in ZCMI, was mashed by a falling body.

Tara Allen, (10) while caressing a mannequin's cheek is shocked to discover that he is really a male model.

False-Corey, in all of his fifteen years, has never enjoyed the rush of traffic.

True- Tara's secret passion is in caressing those unknown living males.

True- Chelise's bleeding ear led originality to that swim meet.

True- Julie's grandmother often wears less than steady shoes.

Kelly Mace pulled down the fire alarm in the first grade.

Sophomores are the quietest and shyest class in the entire school.

Paul Watts and Daren Jackson go bum sliding in the boy's locker room.

Angie Newswander had an allergic reaction to a bee sting a couple of years ago and almost died.

In memory of the first grade, Kelly Mace (10) makes sure no one is looking and then pulls down the fire alarm.

True. Watch out fire alarms, Kelly's after you.

False. In reality we haven't heard them be quiet since the first day of school.

True. Some boys take out their frustrations in very interesting ways after a tough workout.

As you can very well tell, bees and Angie just don't mix at all.

Just Swing It!

Our golf team spent many hours up on the Smithfield golf course, perfecting their drives, chips, and swings. Their hard work and dedication really paid off, when they took 3rd in state.

When asked why golf is different from other sports, Keith Titus (12) replied, "Golf is mainly played by touch and by the mental part of the game. You have to know how to manage the course. To score well you also have to know what shots to hit when and where."

They felt good about their achievements and success for the year and feel like they will continue to do well in the future.

Working hard this season our girl's tennis team took 3rd in region.

Many may think that tennis is an easy game to play, but it takes a lot more than skill. Mental concentration is a major factor in playing the game.

"Even if you were playing well, if you did not have mental concentration there is no way you can win," says Tiffany Newswander (11). "Tennis is an individual sport. You can really get down on yourself sometimes. My teammates always made me feel like I could do it no matter how bad it got. We are all really good friends," says Robin Baumgartner (12).

The tennis team contributes their success to hard work and dedication also. They feel they had an all around good year and are excited for next year.

KEEP ON RUNNING

Cheering and applause were heard as the runners crossed the finish line. The coach, Mr. Henke, stood by watching, giving his own cheers of encouragement to the dedicated runners. "Good job" was steadily in the air. The crowd at the finish grew and grew. The exhausted runners came together to cheer on the remaining teammates making the rest of the 2.8 mile race. It is always surprising what fairness toward the other team, sportsmanship and ambition a race brings, not to mention the team spirit.

The ambitious parents and friends felt the competition and proudly encouraged the runners. Everyone wanted to be involved and the participating runners were glad to take note of that interest. This describes a typical race for the cross-country team. It is one of many (almost one per week) in the season from August to May.

The yearly California trip is enjoyed by all the members because it means time away from school and work. But especially because it is a lot of fun.

This year was also the first year there was a complete girls team, so boys, look out. We can see it takes hard work and a lot of dedication to be a cross-country member. Continue your good work and keep that team spirit high.

What does this spell? UNDEFEATED! The J.V. girl's soccer team took first in state, and they also won every game they played.

This isn't as easy as it seems, though. It takes dedication and practice. In the end it all pays off. There are many new friendships to be made and new accomplishments to be achieved.

Inside the locker room, after one of the games, the team is ecstatic. Even though it's a lot of hard work, it's also a lot of fun. The whole team agreed that in the end it was all worth it.

Coach Peterson summed up the season like this, "It was very rewarding, but heartbreaking. There were a lot of highs and very few lows, they ought to be proud of themselves."

The varsity team also has a lot to be proud of. They played their best and this really paid off. In the region, they placed third. Then they journeyed to the state competitions where the team took fifth place. They played really well and, as you can see, it paid off for them also.

Bump-Set-Spike

Unity is defined in the dictionary as the quality or state of being as one. The girls volleyball team felt that this is what they accomplished this year as they learned to work together as a team. Through the wins and losses, they supported each other and stuck together.

The girls' dedication was also remarkable. They each arrived bright and early at 6:00 A.M. every morning. Clad in sweats (some which had been worn for sleeping purposes the night before) gym shoes, knee pads, and sleepy eyes, they prepared for an intense practice of bumps, sets, and spikes.

Although the score sometimes showed a loss, the girls always felt as if they had come out on top. The season was not only a learning experience, but also a growing experience. When asked if she had grown from playing volleyball this year Kacey Petersen replied, "Yes, I grew three inches". As you can see the volleyball team is not only talented, they also have a sense of humor that helps them get through the less prosperous games.

"This season has been great! We made a lot of new friends and had fun. We look with hope to next year." Amy Watterson (11)

Each player on the team has her own idea of what winning is. To Michelle Swan, who was voted the most inspirational player by her teammates, winning is always being up and ready to play.

With optimism and excitement the volleyball team looks forward to a promising future. "There are high hopes for next year's team because we know how to work together, and as a team." Angie Newswander

As Valerie Wilkins (12) dives for the ball, Tera Merrill (12) and Connie Hymas (12) prepare to back her up.

Connie Hymas (12), Heather Labrum (12), and Kristin Brechler (11), along with their other teammates on the varsity volleyball team regroup for a cheer to motivate and encourage them. Some teammates from the bench show their support and spirit by yelling and helping with the cheer. The crowd while intently watching the game noticed the teams resounding spirit.

With strength, Heidi Bryner spikes the ball down the throat of her terrified, defensive opponent. Meanwhile Amy Watterson, wishing she had made the play, looks on in awe.

Tera Merrill, showing great talent prepares to set the ball into the opposite court with hopes of a victory.

GOAL TO GO

The clock is ticking, and there are only seconds left in the championship game. The quarterback draws back into the pocket, and throws the ball into the air. As the crowd watches intensely, the receiver and the safety jump up into the air. The crowd becomes totally silent as both players fall to the ground. The referee breaks up the players, and the receiver ends up with it. TOUCHDOWN! The siren sounds, and the crowd rushes onto the field in triumph. As the sweat drips off their brows, both teams look up to the scoreboard thinking of the great season they have had. Although the scoreboard doesn't show it, the other team had an excellent year full of fun and excitement.

Before the season started, the junior varsity team, and the sophomore team fought each other in a very important scrimmage game. It was a tough game, and both teams showed great promise for the season that lay ahead. But the scrimmage ended when Boyd Simkins (11) stopped Chris Filimoehala (10) from scoring a touchdown.

After many long hours of practice and dedication, their hard work paid off as their season ended. The junior varsity team ended up with a record of 0-7. Despite the many injuries, (one of those which happened when Danny Sundstrom injured his sternum), the sophomore team also had a great season ending up with a record of 0-6.

T.D. Time

Hut one, hut two, hut three! The football season has started, and the varsity football team has already rolled to an amazing 2-0 start.

In pre-season action, our football team traveled to Tooele to take on some fierce Buffalo. When our team won the game by a score of 20-16, they were excited to start the season with a win.

We then had our first home game, against the Madison Bobcats. It was another close game, but our team came out on top again, with a score of 35-21.

Our team proved to themselves, and to other teams, that they are tough, and were in for another exciting season of competitive football.

They did have an exciting season and tied for fourth place with the Ogden Tigers. Both teams, with a record of two wins and four losses, then played each other to see who would be the last team in the region to play in the state 3-A tournament. Unfortunately, we lost, but only by a close margin, 10-7.

Who would be dedicated enough to practice for hours and hours each day during the whole season? Coach Brechler and his varsity football team found it necessary, so they could have the greatest team possible. We should all compliment and commend our football team for the great and exciting season.

The Cats' defensive line goes head to head with the Mustangs hopefully to stop their offensive strategy.

To The Hoops

He goes up for the shot, it bounces off the rim, and is snatched by one of our J.V. players. He dribbles down the court, goes up for the shot, and it's good. The teams are now tied eighty-two to eighty-two with five seconds to go in the game. Will the other team make a basket and win the game? With five seconds left on the clock the opponents take the ball in but are not fast enough to make the winning basket. With the score still tied the two teams will have to go in to overtime. In overtime, the crowd cheers as our team wins the game.

So far this season our J.V. team has had a successful season. Let's hope

I feel we have the potential to be state champions, our senior year; this is our goal as a team.

-Brad Labrum-

that they continue to have success this year and in years to come.

The sophomores have also done really well this season. They found their potential and lived up to it.

The long hours of practice have finally paid off. It takes a person who is very dedicated.

To many people this may seem like an awful lot of work for a game, but to the players it's more than that. Imagine yourself out on the basketball court. You are just about to make a free throw and the score is tied. There are only three seconds left in the game. Can you imagine the rush you must feel as you release the ball and watch it fly through the air, all the while you hope it will go through the hoop?

As you can see, there is much more to playing the game than meets the eye!

The J.V. team shoots for two points as their opponents hope they miss and prepare to snatch the rebound.

5 . . . 4 . . . 3 . . . 2 . . . 1 . . . 1! As the basketball season approaches, many people are anxiously anticipating the exciting new season that lay ahead. Some people were waiting to fill the sidelines at tryouts while others just wanted to see players in action.

Just a couple weeks after basketball tryouts, you could pick out the players by a certain kind of look. Yes, the basketball players did continue the tradition of the nicely styled haircuts. This really pumped and psyched them up a lot!

Our varsity basketball team got off to a good start by traveling to St. George to play in the Dixie Tournament. Our team

Hard work, friendship on and off the court, flattops and spaghetti parties were the factors of our success. "Mutha" Albrechtsen swept the four-game tournament quickly picking up four pre-season wins. They then came back to play in the Cache Classic. Our team did it again, winning the two games there for the second year in a row. Now they had an amazing 6-0 pre-season record. They were not done with their rally. They picked up yet more wins playing and beating the teams of Clearfield and Weber. Our 8 game winning streak finally ended when we lost to Viewmont.

Many players have attributed their success to the fans and coaches here at Sky View. Fans provide spirit while the coaches dedicate their time to help the players be the very best they can be.

They have done great and should be recognized for a terrific season.

Lady Bobcats!

What exactly is a Lady Bobcat? An easy answer to this question would be that she's a member of the girl's basketball team. However, there is a lot more to it than that. A Lady Bobcat is a hard-working and dedicated person. She gets up early in the morning to practice dribbling, passing the ball to her team mates, and shooting baskets. She has to keep her body healthy and in shape, and be sure to eat the right foods, but most importantly, a Lady Bobcat has to be able to cooperate. Team work is the key in basketball, as in many sports, and no one knows this better than the players themselves.

Basketball is hard work, but it pays off. The friendships and good time you have are all worth it. -Tiffany Newswander

Why go to all this trouble? The hard work and dedication help the girls to feel good about themselves and give them a sense of accomplishment. It also gives them a chance to be with people who have the same interests as they do, and teaches them that if they stick to something and never give up they can do anything they want. One of the things that helps a lot is when people come to cheer. The enthusiasm they bring can help the girls get psyched and may be just the thing they need to make the game complete. The best part is winning. It's a great feeling after working for weeks to win the big game and now that the hard work and dedication really did pay off after all.

Go Lady Bobcats! Everyone watches to see if this shot will give our ladies another point.

Our Swimmers worked hard and had a fantastic season. Both teams went to region and did very well. The girls took first and the boys were second. Many of the swimmers also qualified for state. Thirteen of the fifteen boys who went to state shaved their heads and all of them improved their times. Tory Banford shaved six seconds off his time and Doug Gibbons swam the 100 backstroke in 47.48 seconds breaking the school record of 49 seconds. All of the swimmers did terrific, the girls were sixth in state with 160 points and the boys were fifth with 187 points.

Urgh Ugh Oof

Quick, when I mention wrestlers, wrestling, or anything to do with the sport, what's the first joke that comes to mind? I'm sure you know plenty, in fact, you've probably made up several yourself.

With all the jokes going around, you might wonder why anyone would want to wrestle, until you ask a wrestler. Any one of them will tell you how difficult it is to win wrestling matches let alone make the team. Yet that same wrestler will also tell you that there is nothing to compare with the thrill when the referee pronounces you winner. The thrill alone not only makes it worthwhile, but it drives you to do better to succeed again in the

With this in mind, it's no wonder that we do so well. In fact, our wrestling team has done very well in the past. This year was no different. Our team placed third at region, with ten varsities placing in the top four in their weights. At state, we were again well represented. John Low (12) took sixth in his weight, and Tyson Bagley (12) placed impressively third.

To sum the entire sport up in fifty words or less (which isn't easy): With the little time one spends competing there sure are a lot of rules, and anyone who can remember them all and keep from brutally dismembering himself or his opponent has plenty to brag about.

Brainstorm

Becoming a general academics sterling scholar is not an easy task, but Aaron Weaver has managed to do it. He has taken many honors and AP classes, and participated in other activities such as Boy's State, Engineering State, Close-up, and has been a non-voting member of the school board. Besides all this, Aaron enjoys athletics and is on the school swim team. His advice for other students: "Get involved in many areas and do well in all you do."

Aaron Weaver
General Scholar

Nearly every student has experienced one of those classes. You know, the one where the teacher spends the entire time lecturing while everyone else sleeps, then as the bell rings, assigns ten pages of homework.

Fortunately, many teachers have discovered new and exciting ways of stimulating the minds of their students and making learning interesting and exciting.

Science classes have labs and demonstrations to teach students how sound waves travel and give them the opportunity to discover how different compounds react when combined. The labs help students to connect the theories they learn in books to real life and make it easier for them to see how such ideas can be useful tools.

English and social studies both work to teach about people; their history, ideas, emotions, achievements, mistakes, faults, and abilities. English teachers have students do essays and research papers as well as learn grammar so they can learn how to communicate effectively and they have students read books to teach them about society and how humans react to different situations. Social studies teaches students about the history of people and how such things as geography and government affect it. These diverse methods make learning interesting and keep students from getting too much sleep.

Jody Mangum (11) has been given the unusual assignment of taste-testing peanut butter. Work like this takes much concentration. Think, Jody, think!

Janie Jorgenson (10) and Jenifer Ashcroft (10) have discovered a new life form! Now they just need their biology teacher to verify the exciting discovery. She peers into the microscope to find, instead, an ordinary amoeba.

These chemistry students are discovering how important it is to have accurate measurements. They have to weigh things carefully on the scales to make sure they have the right amounts.

The sterling scholar is award-based on grades, involvement, and leadership ability and skills. Cody Benson is the sterling scholar for industrial education. He has been in many leadership positions such as chairman of FFA when he was a sophomore and secretary of FFA as a junior. He is currently serving as president of FFA. He has attended the State Convention in Kansas City, and been on the Dairy Judging team for four years.

Math

Math, fun?

Can you believe it? Jocelyn Smith is bribing Mr. Fife! Wait a minute, maybe she is paying math club dues.

Mr. Fife's third hour class brought calculus to life with an experiment in practical application. Mr. Fife went to Costa Rica for a week and while he was gone his third hour class decided to find out once and for all if math could be used in real life. They were learning about limits and decided to see what the limit of Mr. Fife's blood pressure would be as the number of students in third hour went to zero.

With the help of Mr. Littledike, the entire class obtained drop slips for calculus. On the day Mr. Fife returned all the students gave him their drop slips before third hour.

It was observed that he became very upset with the counselors and the principal for allowing the students to drop his class while he was on vacation. It was concluded that his blood pressure went up considerably.

During third hour the entire class ripped up their drop slips and placed their conclusion on the board in the form of a limit. Mr. Fife was very relieved to find it was a joke and because they came up with the equation he forgave them.

This was definitely the highlight of the year but there were other notable happenings as well. Mr. Jensen learned Calculus. The math club was organized and white boards were installed in the math rooms. Mr. Fife was quit pleased with the new boards but he did complain that the markers made him high.

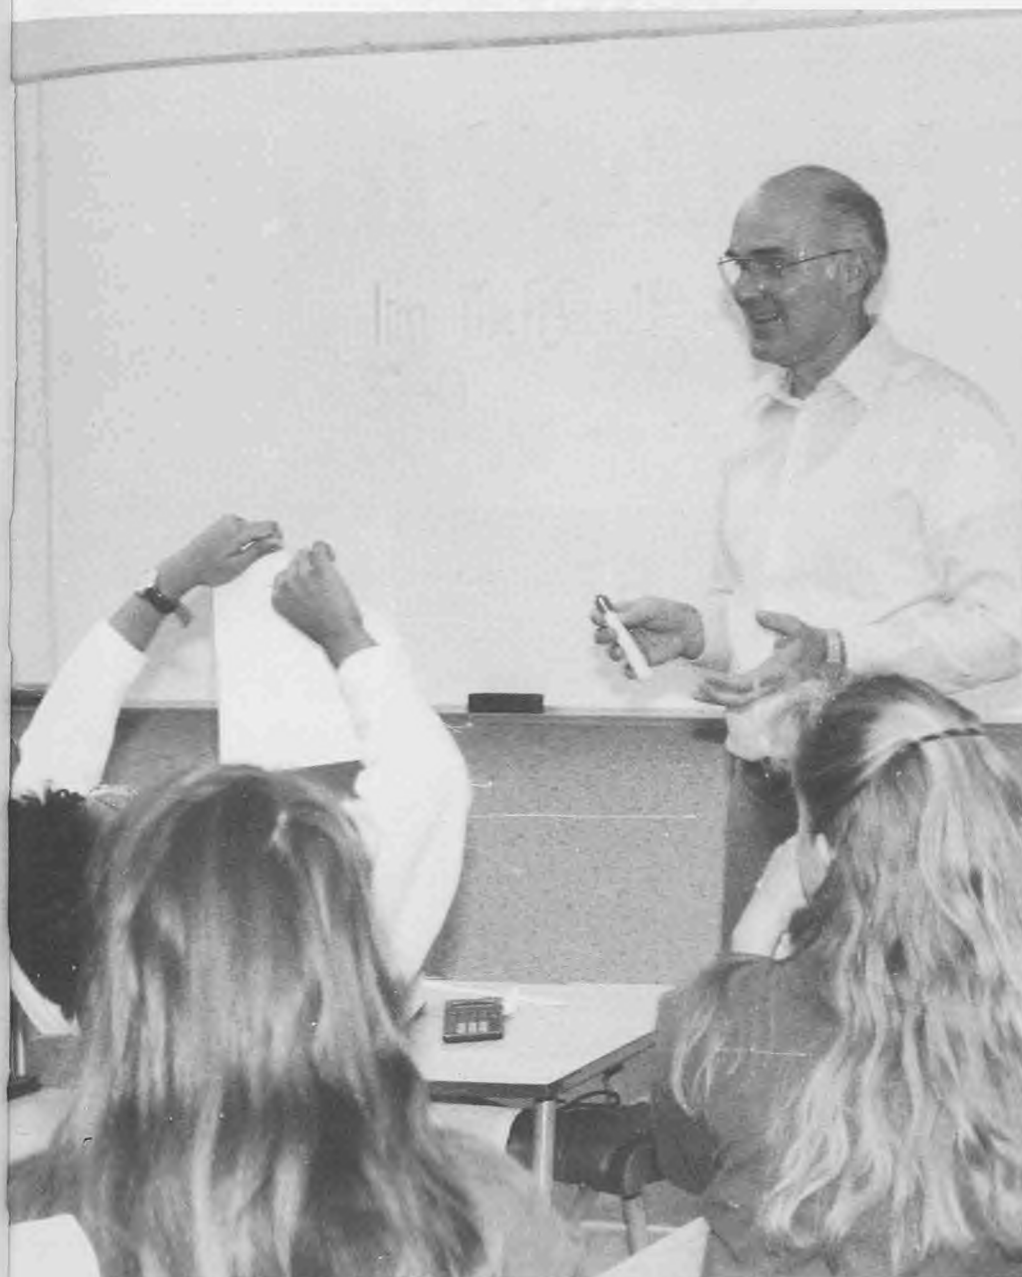

Yes, these students are studying math. They are all gathered in groups lost in deep thought about their latest math assignment.

Mr. Cottle is once again explaining math concepts to a very attentive Jeff Jackson (11) who seems to be a slight bit confused.

To Mr. Fife's great relief his entire third hour calculus class is ripping up the drop slips they obtained in order to test calculus in a real life situation. The experiment seems to have been a success.

Joey Taylor, Lared Hansen, Alan Grover, Mike Rich, and Scott Sorenson make up a very elite group of boys who seem to be completely lost when it comes to calculus and therefore call themselves the lost boys.

Mathematics

The Sterling Scholar in math is Spencer Guthrie. He is in calculus and helped teach his class how to use the graphing calculators. He also helped teach a calculator training session. He has taken and done well on the State Math Exam and American High School Mathematics Exam. He is treasurer of the Math club, president of the NHS, and co-editor of the Catalyst. Some of his extracurricular activities are; Engineering State, Boy's State, Art club, Tri-club, swim team, Academic Olympiad, and Rocky Mountain NASA Space Grant Convention.

Science

Crazy Science

Mike Buttars(11) Tracie Egbert(11) posed for a second while in chemistry lab.

There are so many different kinds of science, why would any one want to limit themselves to just one? Science is seen in every walk of life. There is the science of animals, people, and plants. Look around to find a new kind science. We came up with the science of chasing girls, some guys have it and some guys don't!

The different types of biology, zooiogy, sociology, and psychology. All make the world go around, more excieting because, you can always find something new. When you have finally learned everything, you can start inventing. Change things, different formulas and new experiments. How to make life better, or how to make new cures. Science can enter into everything, from as small as in invention of a childs toy to as complex as the invention of a tiny micro chip.

Everyone can learn from science there are different branches of physical and earth. You can learn about different rocks and intertwine chemicals and numbers. If everyone looked at science as a new way to learn things they would find it adventurous and really exciting. Look around, find a science that interests you. Come up with something new. Invent science, it has no limits! Just because you like science doesn't mean you are a science freak, but just challenging yourself. That is why we must always "paws" for science.

Brande McKenna(11) Shannon Conner(12) and Sara Sawyer(11) are busily trying to make there project work. Will they be successful? Or will they fail?

"I don't care what people think of me, but what they think of themselves." A quote from the winner of the Sterling scholar, Steve Huff. He has always enjoyed and loved science. In the first grade Steve checked out whale books because he found them interesting. He received the award by earning a score of 5 on both the chemistry and physics area on his ACT. Steve's hobbies are marching band, swimming, and loves to make people laugh. He is the fourth boy of eight children. SVH is really proud of him and we hope he continues to prosper with his special abilities in science.

Music Department Aids Community

Adam Johnson (11), practices his Bass preparing for an upcoming concert.

The Sky View Music Department has provided service to the public in its efforts this year. In addition to free concerts, the groups have uplifted the sick, added to the Christmas spirit, and provided aid to the homeless. The Marching Band livened up local parades and entertained the football crowd through its many performances. They honored the armed forces and aroused the patriotism of the studentbody during the Veteran's Day Assembly.

During the holidays, the entire department raised the spirits of all who attended their concerts. To usher in the season, the Orchestra and Choir presented their annual combined concert. The Choir performed around the valley, entertaining holiday shoppers and school children alike. And in the final concert of '91, the Band performed excerpts from their field show as well as the traditional music of Christmas.

But most important, the department aided the sick and homeless. The Choir and Orchestra traveled to Salt Lake and performed at Primary Children's, elevating the mood of the patients there. Through "Harmony for the Homeless," the department benefited the less fortunate by collecting canned goods for the Cache Food bank. Through these acts, the Music Department ranks as one of the most serviceable groups here.

Serving the community, and lifting Christmas spirit, the choir prepared to sing carols in the mall.

"How has music affected me?" commented Josh Slagowski, "It has built my self-esteem and self discipline. It had made me what I am." Josh began his career in the 7th grade, and since then he has received such distinctions as being in the AllState Band, a Drum Major, All-State Orchestra, and most recently Sterling Scholar of the Music Department. In the future he plans to attend the University of Northern Colorado, majoring in Music Education/Performance. Upon receiving a degree, he plans to teach music at a high school and eventually to become a free-lance composer/performer.

The aroma, you can easily tell, has traveled throughout the "E" building by the line-up of students outside the Home Ec. door. Strangers are now claiming to be the best friend of the cook in hopes of getting just one deliciously made chocolate chip cookie.

Home Economics at Sky View has a great deal to offer the students, as well as the rest of the Vocational and Business classes.

Business and Vocational are in many ways closely related. They both teach students basic skills that will effectively help them in their future careers, business opportunities, home and family life.

"The business of life is to go forward," a famous quote by Samuel Johnson. Business in our country is growing in masses. In order to survive in this world today and in the future you need to have some knowledge of computer technology. Almost everywhere you go you will hear somebody refering to "hard disks", "disk drives", and "micro-mega bites." To some of us this just goes right up and over our heads, but to many it begins a whole new understanding of intelligence.

Visual Arts

Imagery

While looking through art magazines for a picture to draw, Jared Reed (10) takes a break and looks up.

Sky View High School has an "awesome" arts program this year, remarked one of the students. This is true because of our very talented teachers who care and do everything they can to help us students achieve. It is also because of the studentbody we have at Sky View who want to be the best they can be. Art is the skill of making or doing. Why do some students have more artistic abilities than others? Many have heard the comment "I wish I could draw like Mary or paint like Tom." Sure some of us have been given more abilities than others but I also believe anything is possible if we try our very hardest and never give up. Sky View has a great arts program so if your interested in learning how to draw, paint or whatever sign up for a class and you'll be guaranteed to get something out of it. When thinking of art people tend to think only of the great works such as the Mona Lisa, Venus DeMillo, Nike of Samothrace, Sistine Chapel or Madonna on the Rocks. But in reality these are only a few of the great masterpieces that we have in this world. Everyone can have their own masterpiece. It doesn't have to become famous. It just has to mean something to you. Art is something that you create and no one else will have the same as you. It's an individual thing. So start creating.

Students in Mrs. Burningham's class are skillfully creating a masterpiece as they draw a section of the formation in the middle of the room.

During a discussion on porportions, Danny Godfrey(12) puts his pencil out in front of him to see how it porportionally fits with everything around him.

Excellence

Warren Neary is this year's Visual Arts Sterling Scholar. Warren started to develop his Sterling Scholar portfolio when he was a sophomore. Warren said he did this so he could have the breath and the skill he would need to be competitive. Warren feels that the arts program is awesome. "It's the best in Cache Valley and maybe even region," states Warren. Warren thinks very highly of Mrs. Burningham. He says she's the best teacher he's ever had. Warren hopes that this Sterling Scholar award will help him in the future with scholarships and his resume.

Speaking in Tongues

C'est La Vie!

Andrea Ballard (10) and a fellow club member use the decorations off the piñata for hats.

Bonjour! Gutentag! Hola! Greetings from around the world. Well, maybe not from around the world, but from the french, german, and spanish classes.

Foreign languages become interesting to students as they are involved in activities that help the student become aware of a foreign culture.

To involve the students, each language class offers great teachers and fun activities. Each class learns songs, plays games, and gets acquainted with the text book. Each language also has a club. One of their activities is the annual Christmas party. Despite the attempts to involve the students, Sterling Scholar Lori Graetz (12), feels that we still need more involvement in the clubs.

The new face that you will see teaching you the language of love, is Mr. Gilles Gohier. He is a native of France, and he enjoys teaching here, at Sky View. Besides being a French teacher, he is a soccer coach and the year book advisor.

Although foreign languages take many years of practice and memorization, many colleges are requiring foreign languages for entrance, and opportunities are growing rapidly in jobs and in travel associated with foreign communication. Speaking a foreign language also shows that you are willing to learn about the cultures of other countries, thereby promoting world understanding.

Señor Oswald's room is full of excitement as the students learn spanish by playing the Spanish Bowl. This is a fun game that teaches the students vocabulary.

This german class enjoys themselves to the fullest, as they each participate in the fun and competitive game, called the conjugating game.

At the annual Christmas Party, a member of the foreign language clubs, demolishes the piñata that has hung over our cafeteria this year. These students just go to show that there is some fun involved along with the work.

"Talking in French is hard enough. How am I ever going to be able to sing," think the members of Mr. Gohier's 5th hour French class, as they travel from room to room straining their vocal chords.

Brilliance

Lori Graetz is taking her fifth year of French. She has also studied at a university in France. She is the Vice-President of the French Club, and in the future, she plans to go to college and minor in French.

Sterling Scholar, Lori Ann Graetz (12) expresses herself. "I think it is important to learn a second language because international trade and travel are becoming more common, and speaking a foreign language, not only helps in communication, but shows that you are willing to learn about the culture of other countries."

Lori Graetz (12) is the Sterling Scholar of foreign language.

Close-Up View

Don't you think they should have left Laura Sadler (11) in Williamsburg. She was having to much fun.

We now bring you a news report on the 13 students who traveled to Washington D.C. on a Close-Up tour. Their trip began with waiting at the airport in the wee hours of the morning for their advisor, Soup Jessop, to bring their plane tickets. Little did they know that this was the only time they would be waiting for something to do for the next week. As soon as they arrived in D.C. they were off to seminars, workshops, and monuments. Some of the monuments they toured were Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, the raising of the American flag at Iwo Jima, and the Vietnam Vet. memorial. They went to seminars with congressmen, animal rights activists, and members of the press, where they learned more about how our government works. They also spent a day in Colonial Williamsburg where they saw where our government was started by people like George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. After all this the students were exhausted, but still had enough energy to attend a final dance and banquet where they said good-bye to all the friends they had met in their weekly travels. We end this news flash with commentary from Heather Bell (11).

When asked what her favorite part of Close-Up was, Heather Bell said "I liked all the new friends I made and especially seeing the things that I had heard about and learning more about them"

U.S. Studies appears more interesting for Jenae Jensen (11) than it does for Raymond May (11) who is busy eating his pencil.

Holly Hoyt is Sky Views Social Science Sterling Scholar. She says she has always been interested in history and loved the opportunity she had to take AP History. In this class she learned to better appreciate the government and the people of past. She says it taught her a lot about how much our forefathers sacrificed for our freedom. Holly also learned how to write essays in AP History that taught her to better express her feelings. Holly also attended Close-Up which made her history lessons come to life right in front of her.

ALL A'S!

Undoubtedly the most difficult endeavor anywhere is putting a Sterling Scholar's accomplishments in a 2 by 4 inch block. Especially when this Sterling Scholar is Tiffany Evans. Her list of achievements is, well, unfathomable. To name just a few: 4.0 GPA since the beginning of time (license plate: ALL A'S), innumerable awards, participation in the 1990 Utah Summer Games (placing 1st in the 4 x 400 Meters Relay. Tiffany completed training to become a Utah State EMT and works as a volunteer at the Hospital.

Ingenious Ingenuity? It Ain't Easy!

What to write? What to write? What does one write about the English and Drama departments that hasn't already been written? First, it must be grammatically correct: the English teachers will read it first, or at least, soon after opening the book. Second, it has to be historically correct, since the drama teachers will read it and critique it against their own knowledge of the year's drama activities. Third, the most difficult, it must be entertaining and original. How can anyone write about events that are already common knowledge and still make them interesting without using someone else's ideas. So, you can see my dilemma.

seminary is probably the most often sluffed class anywhere, more people contemplate sluffing English on the day of a test than sluff seminary in an entire month. alright, so I made that one up.

Let's see, how about this, considering the range of productions this year, the drama department covered practically every area of dramatic arts imaginable. So it's a fact, but it's correct and it satisfies the second requirement. Let's see, you're still reading, so, point three: check, and point one, well, we can't have everything.

Well, are you aware that although

Mrs. Wharton dictates last-minute instructions and drama students take a breather while preparing for an evening performance.

Diabetics have healthy babies all the time. Jennifer Johnson (11) practices her lines with Desiree Schiffler (12) while preparing for the production of "Steel Magnolias."

Heather Noble (12) prepares for her performance as Ouiser in "Steel Magnolias" by applying "Wrinkle Stipple" to her face, then using a hair dryer to dry it.

Theatrics!

"Although very shy and withdrawn as a child, I loved to sing and perform anywhere I was given the chance. So I enrolled in Mrs. Wharton's beginning theatre class. It was in her classroom that I "found myself." Mrs. Wharton took an interest in me and encouraged me to excel in drama.

I have since portrayed parts ranging from a juvenile delinquent to an attorney, as well as many roles in between. Through my character studies, I have realized who I am and who I can become.

Theatre is my love, theatre is my life." -Diana Murphy

A Moment For Leaders

Some students wonder what exactly is the role of the leaders of our school. Does the exec. counsel ever do anything besides fill the pop machines and relay announcements? Why do we have class officers and BAGA?

Being a leader is an important and challenging job. One must be able to not only organize and take control of a situation, but also to work well with people. He or she must be able to assign tasks and make sure that these tasks are accomplished and done well. A leader is not afraid to try new ideas. He is continually looking for new and better ways to do something, and is willing to try something out of the ordinary. Most importantly, a leader must be able to make good decisions, decisions that effect the entire school.

So what do our leaders do? Think about a typical assembly. Chances are, most of the planning, if not the actual presentation of the assembly was done by a member of the exec. counsel or the senior, junior, or sophomore class officers. It's not easy to stand in front of an entire student body and talk or act or sing, but our leaders manage to do it and make it fun for the rest of us. What about homecoming week and all those great activities we had to celebrate it? The BAGA officers spent much time and effort making that dream a reality. Take a close look at our school some time, and see all the things that our leaders do for us.

If you strive for Excellence, success will follow

Duck calls, slide whistles, mombas, Bryce Canyon, Excalibur, Las Vegas, and West Side Story were all a part of Marching Band this year. Marching Band began in late June with the band leaders heading to Whitewater Wisconsin for a training camp held at the University of Wisconsin. All of the band members met in August to first, have their own training camp, and second, begin their long practices that would eventually lead them to excellence.

The Marching Band played music from Leonard Bernstein's musical "West Side Story". They performed this for the Homecoming game, and various marching band competitions held in such far off places as, The University of Utah, and Las Vegas. The band also played at the annual Veteran's Day assembly and marched in many local parades.

In late October the band traveled to Las Vegas for the Western Division Marching Band Competition. On the way they saw the awe-inspiring National Parks, Bryce Canyon, and Zions. For most the highlight of the trip, other than the competition, was dining at the Excalibur Hotel. As they ate their meals, without utensils the band members were able to watch a live joust performed in the arena below them.

The band lived up to their motto of "If you Strive for excellence, success will follow.", this year. With long gruelling, after school practices, the band continued to place higher and higher in the regional competitions. At the final competition in Las Vegas they placed fifth out of twenty-one.

A World of Flags

Our auxiliary guard are an exceptional group. Through many hours of dedication and practice they achieved their excellence of today. Each member of the squad practices Tuesdays to Fridays from three to five, and every Saturday from eleven to twelve thirty. All of this hard work prepared them for the competitions. At the finals, which took place in Las Vegas, we came away with fifth place and a superior rating.

This years' salute, "With Pride", reflects the feelings of each girl. The captain of the guard this year is Kristy Nielson (11). The assistant captains Angela Drolette (12), and Stephanie Meikle (11), along with Kristy led the sixteen girls in their purple, blue and gold uniforms to superiority. This, being quite the accomplishment could not have been achieved without such outstanding advisors. Dr. Hearne and Melanie Robinson did a great job choosing each piece of music individually. After having the music chosen for them, the girls, guided by Kristy Nielson, invented each routine with originality, and imagination.

Being a member is not always easy, but it is rewarding. When asked what it takes to be a member, Bobbie Swartz (12) said: practice, dedication, lots of talent, and a good advisor.

As this year was so successful, next year holds promise. Ladawn Godfrey (10) joined because she wanted to learn, and it sounded fun. The new girls from this year, when asked if they planned on being a member next year responded with enthusiasm. Susie Godfrey (10), says it's like having a second family. Becky Palazzolo (10) achieved tons from the work she did.

Music to our Ears . . . And what goes into it

The life of an accomplished musician invariably begins with many intense hours of practice at a very young age. They practice and practice until their little fingers can play no more, and when they have nearly mastered their trade, the rewards begin as they receive their first standing ovation, or hear the first echo of applause.

Members of our orchestra and various bands, without much opposition, are considered to be very dedicated and talented musicians. It seems to their families that they started playing their instrument and never stopped. They have a wide variety of personalities, but they would probably agree that dedication is the key to success and success means dedication in numerous areas.

One area is dedication to practice long hours to perfect the pieces to your own expectations. The time amounts may differ from person to person, but what matters is that each person gives their all to the good of the performance.

Two of the members of the orchestra, Rebecca Benson and Lezlie Christensen (both juniors), have received a reward for their long hours of dedication. They have been playing with the Mormon Youth Symphony, and they must drive to Salt Lake at least once a week, a feat in itself.

It is often said that where there's a will, there's a way. A musician, as with any person, must want to succeed. Success does not come without much hard work and a will to be the best you can be. Many have learned that failure comes easily when the right attitude and desire is not there. This is one key to success that every musician learns sooner or later.

Twist and shout Vistauns dance on

You find yourself at a basketball game with a bunch of friends. It's almost time for the halftime show to start and you get up to make a trip to the candy counter. Then you hear the announcer, "For our halftime performance tonight we have the Vistauns." They have always fascinated you, so you sit back down.

The music starts and the Vistauns march on to the floor. It seems as if they can read each others' minds. Every step is timed to perfection. The kicks, turns, and jumps must all be practiced until they are learned as if they were natural. This isn't easy, and so it requires many hours of practice. The Vistauns come early in the mornings for these practices. Not only that but they also have a class totally devoted to learning new dance steps.

This may seem like a lot of work to do for one class, but if you really like what you're doing, it's worth it.

Some of the advantages to being a Vistaun are the many new friends you can make, and all of the places you will travel to for competitions. You also learn to get along with others. After all these girls are together for quite a while.

Along with the practices, they find other ways to include the school in their activities. The Mr. S.V. pageant which was just like a Miss America pageant.

So the next time you sit down to watch the Vistauns perform, think of all the hard work and dedication it takes to be part of this group.

Mixing Business with pleasure

Very few high school clubs give teenagers the chance to sharpen their scholastic skills and have fun at the same time. Future Business Leaders of America is one exception.

The FBLA club's main purpose is to prepare and encourage students for future careers in the business field. The club members attend competitions based on business applications such as typing, accounting, and shorthand.

Many students took business classes for the experience. "I took business courses because I plan on being in business in the future and it gives me a great opportunity to strive and succeed in the business world," said Sandi Smith (12).

Have you ever wondered what DECA stands for? The Distributive Educational Clubs of America is a very popular club here at Sky View. The members of DECA attend many business based competitions every year. They have practices before each competition they attend.

They also put on a fashion show during the spring. Any Sky View student is eligible to be a model for the show. All you have to do is attend a clinic on modeling and then try out. "I was in the fashion show last year, and it was so much fun. We put a lot of work into it and it really paid off. We competed down in Salt Lake and took 2nd overall," said Rachel Miller (11).

Both the DECA and FBLA clubs are always looking for new dedicated people to be members of their group. So if you are looking for something worth while to get involved in. This just might be your answer.

If you asked Colette Roskelley (11), what she thought about being a member of this years staff. She would reply that the hard work will pay off in the long run with career opportunities. She also explained how she enjoyed arranging the ads and helping with layouts and printing.

"My favorite part of the Catonian is the personals. I love reading them and trying to figure out who wrote what." said Danette McKenney. The Catonian has been great this year thanks to a great staff.

The Catalyst under went many significant changes this year, such as a new advisor and a great new staff. The Catalyst is a literary magazine that is produced yearly. It is poems and stories written by the students. In Joey Taylor's opinion "The Catalyst is a giant puzzle and everyone contributes a small piece." He also joked that his favorite part is reading all the entries and realizing how many sick and demented people there are at our school.

The Catalyst staff meets once a week to read and sort through the current entries. They all contribute their opinions on the articles and must come to a unanimous decision on what stays and what goes.

Deadlines only amuse Yearbook staffers

To most Yearbook Day represents the end of the school year, and after looking to see how many times they and their friends are in the book the average student sticks his Aurora on a shelf next to previous yearbooks to collect dust, never to be opened again until their children look and laugh at the outmoded fashions of their parent's past, but to a yearbook staffer it represents the finished product of many hours of hard work and frustration. To help you gain a better appreciation for your Aurora, we made a guide to how the yearbook is produced from planning to the plant.

Yearbook begins in the summer with the editors and photographers meeting at USU for a planning and training camp. Also during the summer seniors portraits begin. Once school has started the staff begins the long and laborious task of choosing a theme that best depicts the year. Once the theme is chosen the major work begins.

For each staffer there are a series of deadlines that must be met, they are; photo, layout, copy, and final. For the photo deadline each staffer must assign all of the photos for their two consecutive pages called a spread. After that they must copy the design of their spread, called a layout. When this is done they write the feature story, called copy. When the photos are back, everything is finalized, and reviewed by the editors it is sent to the Herff Jones plant for immediate production.

However, yearbook is much more than wandering the halls searching for quotes, staying up all night hovering over a typewriter trying to finish for a final deadline, or coming to school on Sat. to print photos. It is a chance to be able to record the year as it happens a chance to pause for a moment and reflect on the year as you record it.

Yearbook photographer, Justin Bowles (12), sits in the photo lab, overwhelmed by the amount of photos to print.

Laura Salder(11), laughs and rolls ecstatically as she opens her gift.

Athletic Clubs Get Involved!

What can I do? What club can I join? If you're into athletics. Then the athletic clubs are for you. There are many clubs to choose from. Such as the ski club. If you love blazing the slopes and traveling from ski resort to ski resort. Then that's the club for you. Or if you're into running, biking and swimming. Then you should join Tri-club. Each year the Tri-club takes a trip to California to compete in many races. The team also has time to lounge on the beach or go to Mexico to do some bargain shopping. They also come back with a great tan.

If you are an all around athlete then you can be in the Lettermen Club. With a lot of hard work and dedication and many hours spent on that sport. Or if you play at state.

During this school year a new club was established. The snowboard and rollerblade club. Next year maybe we will hear more about them.

Athletics concerns everyone. You either watch it, play it or dream about becoming a star, such as Micheal Jordan or Bo Jackson. To many people at our school Pro-Athletes are idols. Many books and posters are published on sports each year and are purchased by high school students.

Athletic clubs give students at Sky View a chance to be part of something and participate in the sport they most enjoy. Each club has many good benefits. It gives some of the students a chance to be in charge or being the president, vice president, etc. By getting involved you can meet many people by being in a club.

Cheer Boosts Spirits Go! Fight! Win!

We've got spirit yes we do! We've got spirit how 'bout you?! They are the people who boost our spirits, and raise school pride. Who spend countless hours planning and putting on pep assemblies, making innumerable posters, and who give our school an all around good name. They are the cheerleaders.

This year the cheerleaders have cheered their hearts out as they went to various activities and sports events at our school, and abroad. Heidi Ballard(11) commented that she enjoyed attending the USA cheer camp at USU last summer. At the camp they were taught cheers, pyramids, safety, and many other important things cheerleaders must know.

Pep assemblies go so smoothly that the average student doesn't give much thought to them except as a spirit booster. The cheerleaders, on the other hand, have their work cut out for them in planning and organizing each pep assembly. Every assembly takes much time and preparation to achieve the full effect. Planning and putting on pep assemblies is a lot of fun, but also there is much hard work involved according to Mindee Shaffer(12).

The unity between the cheerleaders is very admirable. They group together throughout the good times and the bad. Tiffany Chambers(12) said that the best part about being a cheerleader is the friendship that she feels towards the other girls. She likes getting to know the other girls, and says that they are as close as sisters.

Our cheerleaders are very hard working, and play a big part in strengthening school spirit. For all of the work and time that they put in for us they deserve all of our thanks and appreciation.

Amy Shackleford and the pinata - a story for itself. It is obviously that they fell in love from the first moment.

Is this the way to success?

Foreign Exchange Students

The big Clue

How to get it. . . . .

It happened on a snowy winter day on the 10th of December. Everyone was looking forward to the oncoming Christmas vacation and students were in an especially good mood. The preparations for the party were going on that day, but I hung in the cafeteria for a while, carefully posted far away from the reach of the students.

The room filled at about an hour later and I heard voices of many strange speaking students. Ah, that was the foreign language clubs party! But nevertheless I was afraid-I just knew too well what was going to happen to me.

In the beginning it was time to eat. The always hungry students, exhausted from school, fought for the just too delicious kinds of food. Spanish tacos and hot sauces were chosen most. The result was the increasing request for apple juice and the neverending candies for dessert.

Scholarly teachers always try to confuse the beginning students while speaking their individual foreign language. Words like "Bitte nicht draengeln", "Queremos la piñata!" or "Qu'est-ce que c'est?" (pointing at the enchiladas) came from them and the students. That made the light-hearted atmosphere even funnier.

The main part was, no, not to hear the wonderful christmas songs, but to break something hanging under the ceiling.

The something was methe PIÑATA!

Acting and Arguing Are they worth it?

Yes it is worth it! I mean what other group of people are going to Florida this summer? Nobody else but the Thespians. Who else gets to go on stage in front of hundreds of people and make a fool out of themselves and feel perfectly normal! Who gets to argue with each other or other people and get away with it? The debate team gets to compete in arguing, what a life! Now some people might think that some shows are type-cast. This means that people get cast according to their personalities. Although sometimes this seems like the case it never is. The shows are cast according to how people do in auditions, not by favoritism. Over the past years that Mrs. Wharton has been here she has turned the drama department around. Now she is doing shows that are on a college level. Take Dracula for example, that version of the play has only been done three times and only once by a high school group, Sky View. It just goes to show what kind of job they are doing. An awesome one. Well now it is time to give a little space to the debate team. These rare individuals love to argue. It has got to be a talent just like playing a sport is a talent, and acting is a talent, so is debating. Our Debate squad did fairly well this year they didn't do as well as they would have liked, nonetheless, they did okay. They competed and some students won trophies, which shows how well they did. The group has grown as they years have gone by, go look in your past yearbooks, you'll see just how small they used to be. It just goes to show how popular of a group they are. With such a diversity of people, they will do better in the future. Now the question is, what group to join?

Musical Expressions

Learning The Songs

Quotes to remember—"Concert Choir gives me a sense of feeling and accomplishment that no other organization could possibly provide. Music adds definite character to my personality." Shannon Conner (12).

"I feel that Front Porch is a florious experience because it enlightens my life and it gives me something to look forward to each day." Arthur Perersen (12).

"Choir gives me a feeling of service, I hope that I benefit others with my talent." Shannon Wood (12).

These quotes describe the general feeling of all those who participate in the singing groups. Even though it is a lot of hard work, the final performance turns out even better than they had hoped.

Front Porch, an organization for sophomore through senior boys and girls, holds their rehearsals after school. They perform at other schools, church activities and, of course, here at Sky View.

The singing group that is for all girls, sophomore through senior, is Performing Glee. They practice very hard during school, and when these girls perform, their hard work definitely pays off.

Concert Choir, the third and last group that gets to wear a special outfit, is made up of sophomore through senior boys and senior girls. They also practice during school. The harmony that is formed when they sing, sends a chill through the audience.

Each group has done a wonderful job, and they hope to keep up the good work.

The Eggheads say: "We won't crack!"

How long does it take the average student to study for a test, or do homework for one class? For the average student, it takes about 30 minutes to about 45 minutes, and maybe even less. But for students who are involved in the Junior/Senior National Honor Society, Math Club, or the Academic Olympiad, it takes almost double the time of the average student, because of the goal they have set to achieve success.

There are three requirements you must fulfill in order to join the National Honor Society. You must have a GPA of 3.667 or above, have half of your classes in the academic field, and must show excellence in citizenship. After students have completed these requirements, they are invited to an induction ceremony at the beginning of the year. At this ceremony, members pledge an oath that they will be true to their school and to their fellow students.

They also have many parties throughout the year for those who are involved.

The Academic Olympiad team meets once a week playing games, trivia, and preparing for the competition they have against other Academic Olympiad teams. They have a lot of fun, and learn a lot while they are competing.

The Math Club requires you to show great interest and success in math. They also have fun parties and socials.

Top Seniors are recognized once a week in the Herald Journal. Two seniors from one school are highlighted for their participation at school, and for outstanding achievement in their work.

Magic Moment

JUNIOR PROM

Anxiety, and excitement were feelings felt by many as the prom season arrived. As the fateful night fast approached the men of SV began the laborious process of finding the ideal date. As they scanned their yearbook searching, and finally finding "the one", a creative request is mustered. After what seems like an eternity an equally inovative rebuttal is delivered. As the time for the dance creeps slowly along the girl tries to find a suitable dress, and the guy tries to avoid breaking out in a cold sweat as his upcoming date passes him in the hall.

As couples arrived at the Junior Prom most were amazed to see the large gym transformed into a park scene, colored with teal, lavender, pink, and white. The theme song was a remix on the old Nat King Cole Song "Unforgettable". The song also doubled as a theme for the dance. Junior Prom was a truly unforgettable evening for most all who attended.

Enjoying the romantic atmosphere, Damond Petersen, escorts Tiffany Chambers to the refreshment table.

Dancing or cuddling, whatever it was, it was greatly enjoyed by most.

IMAGINE

6:00 He nervously prepares, hoping everything is in order, he leaves to pick her up. She checks the mirror one last time, anxiously awaiting his arrival.

7:00 He arrives. They look at each other, Wow! After facing what he feels was the Spanish Inquisition, they depart.

7:30 Candlelight Dinner. Eyes meet as they stare into the flames.

9:30 The Senior Prom at Sherwood Hills, nestles amid the quakie aspens. After waiting what seemed like an eternity for pictures, they began to dance. The dance floor is congested with people and the heat is ever increasing. Like many others, they find solace from the heat by wandering outside, holding hands and talking quietly.

11:30 John Lennon's "Imagine" plays, they hold each other close, believing that Lennon's idealistic song can be true.

Alternate Option

On October 8, 1991, a new program became available in Cache Valley, called Cache High. It was designed to help kids who have not been successful in normal high school.

There are many reasons why students attend Cache High. Sluffing and breaking school rules are two major ones.

The students' attitude towards the program is generally positive. They enjoy the smaller classes, the more individual attention, and the relaxed atmosphere. One girl said, "Coming to this school has been awesome. I don't feel near as much social pressure to fit in, as I did before."

CACHE HIGH

The students like the relaxed atmosphere at Cache High. This teacher, Mr. Ron Stott, demonstrates how casual the dress code is.

Pounding beautiful designs into leather is one of the few elective classes at Cache High.

Braden Atkinson enjoys the casual dress code by wearing a hat while he talks to a fellow student about his recently achieved 4.0.

At Cache High, students receive plenty of help from the teachers. One of the reasons for that, is the small teacher-student ratio.

A Year of Excellence

Excited and exstastic, the 92-93 cheerleader's receive hugs and congradulations from friends.

After sweeping a tournament in St. George victories of this team had only just begun.

Marcie Galloway accepts her award on the run, as Spencer Guthrie waits for his.

AWARDS

Departmental, National Honor Society, and Acedemic letters were not the only awards that were given out this year. FFA attended the State Convention, and came home with several awards including, First in Chapter Display. They will represent the State in this area at nationals.

The Boy's Basketball, and Girl's softball teams took over St. George this year with both teams bringing home first place trophies.

1992 brought record amounts of graduating students who had excelled academically. Eight students earned the title of Valedictorian, all of them holding a 4.0 grade point average throughout their high school career. They were Tiffany Evans, Spencer Guthrie, Aaron Weaver, Tim Martin, Steve Huff, Ruth Moser, Holly Hoyt, and Tiffany Chambers. Congratulations to all of you.

SUPPLEMENT

Ginger Spackman, Trina Chambers, Jenny Allen, Valerie Wilkins, and Allison Burgon enjoy the spirit of Homecoming and the excitement of riding in a red convertible.

Melissa Karren (11), strikes a pose that demonstrates the theme, "Paws" for a Moment.

Enjoying a break from the predictability of high school, John Perry (10), Karen Cramer (12), and Joanna Mitchell (12), chat about the days activities.

Brooks Gibbons (12), is caught relaxing and enjoying himself by a photographer at the Homecoming parade.

Capture the Memories. . . of the good times

As each student looks back on the past year, each will remember at least one significant event that they will remember for many years to come. After all, each year is not a duplicate of the year before. There is something unique about every year of a person's life and high school should be among these remembered years.

Students experienced new challenges, changes, and experiences this year. They cheered louder and showed more spirit than they ever had before. People huddled together for warmth at the football and soccer games but rather enjoyed a heated building for the basketball games.

When each holiday rolled around, students showed their approval of a celebration by wearing costumes on Halloween, getting into the Christmas spirit by decorating and wearing red and green and passing out valentines to friends and lovers on Valentine's Day.

Modern technology has made it possible to capture memories on camera. Students could buy professionally photographed portraits at all the dances this year. This helped to catch the feeling of the magical nights dancing across the gym floor. Some students took their cameras everywhere they went this year and in a way it helped them have an illustrated history which can sometimes be more exciting than reading history. Then again, this may promote and encourage the laughter and snickers from your future children. Example: "Look at that hairdo and those clothes!" Nah, not your kids!

The past year is filled with memories. It's been a great year, so if you haven't taken the time yet, take a moment—No, Paws for a moment and remember the good times.

Soonhee Babcock (10), and Becky White (10), show their spirit by participating in the traditional nerd dress-up day.
