- Mr. Munro led a discussion on Ethology, the study of animal behavior. Last week, he asked students to reflect on what they've learned from observing pets and other animals. During the conversation, students shared thoughtful insights, mentioning loyalty, compassion, responsibility, and teamwork, among others.
- Mrs. Tierney gave a presentation on "goosebumps"—not just the spooky children's books many students remembered, but the powerful emotions that cause them. She encouraged everyone to discover what moves them deeply and to "find your goosebumps." She also shared a moving video of singer Lewis Capaldi, who has Tourette's syndrome, and spoke about how the impact of his music gives her goosebumps. View Video HERE.
- On National Penguin Day, April 25, Mr. Munro shared a video with a meaningful lesson inspired by penguins—the importance of courage and taking the plunge, even when it feels scary or uncertain. He encouraged students to take calculated risks, whether it's raising a hand in class, applying to be an RA, or joining the school choir. Click HERE to view video.
