

BETH CRVELIN

Beth Crvelin has been a proud resident of Grand Island since 2009, when she and her husband, Matthew, relocated to the area. She is the mother of two daughters, Cami, a 6th grader, and Kerrington, a 1st grader, both of whom attend school within the Grand Island School District.

Beth's deep passion for education is rooted in the influence of her parents, both of whom dedicated their careers to teaching and serving others. She earned her Bachelor of Arts in English and Secondary Education from Westminster College in Pennsylvania, and holds a Master of Science in Technical Information Design from the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Over the course of her career, Beth spent more than 15 years working in student affairs within higher education, focusing on student engagement and campus programming. Her professional experience includes roles at Canisius University and the University at Buffalo.

Beth's commitment to civic engagement began with AmeriCorps, where she served as a Volunteer in Service to America (VISTA) with Habitat for Humanity in Greenville, South Carolina. Her dedication to service continues as she runs for a seat on the Grand Island Board of Education. Beth's platform emphasizes a student-centered approach, with a focus on mental health, supporting the arts in education, and serving as an ally to the taxpayers, parents, and students of the community.

She is honored to have the opportunity to give back to the strong educational foundation and supportive community that have allowed the youth of Grand Island to thrive. Beth is proud to be endorsed by the Grand Island Teacher Association.
