I want to be a kid again.
I want to go back where:

Decisions were made with "eeny-meeny-miney-mo."
Catching fireflies took the whole evening.
Rules didn't matter.
"You got girl cooties! Double stickies! No backs!"
It was magic when Dad "removed" his thumb.
Dodgeball was considered an Olympic sport.
No one was prettier than Mom.
Boo-Boo's wree kissed and made all better.
Snowflakes, Snowmen, & Snow Angels.
No shopping trip was complete unless a new toy came home.
Water balloons were the ultimate weapon until the hose was discovered.
Baseball cards turned any bike into a motorcycle.
Ice cream was considered a food group.
Taking drugs was taking grape-flavored, chewable aspirin.
War was a card game.
"Olly-Olly-Oxen-Free!" made perfect sense.
Saturday morning cartoons weren't 30-minute commercials for action figures.
You found out what you were made of with a "double dog dare."
A foot of snow was a dream come true.
You couldn't wait to ride the "big people" rides at the fair.
Being old was anyone over 20.
Money meant nothing-except in Monopoly.
A "race issue" was seeing who could run fastest.
Mistakes were fixed with "Do over!"
Reaching the sink to brush your teeth was a big deal.
Sleeping with a teddy bear was ok.

I want to go back in time.
I want to be a kid again.
Skinned knees are easier to fix than a broken heart.

Faith

You can take my possessions,
You can take my dignity.
You can take all I lived for,
But you can't take my soul.
That is the beat I dance to,
Uable to be stopped.
It goes on forever,
My strength and salvation.
Coming from one small beat
The spirit moves me.
I shall never let the rhythm end,
No matter what I won't let it go.
You may try to stop the beat,
Hum a different tune,
But I shall hear no other
Be moved by another.
My soul shall live forever.
It gives me hope.
Things will die,
Become less useless objects
Never to be desired again.
But the fire inside shall never be blown out!
Feel the beat,
Hear the rhythm
Never let it leave you!

By Mary Barrett

A three-pointer shot is swished
You won the game after all

And now as you smile to yourself
The last game has been won.
The season is finally over
Your work here has been done.

You can now move on with your life
Following the path to your dreams,
Even if the future means
No longer being part of a team.

You've been given the chance to play
And gained the experience over the years,
You've suffered through all the pain
Which has brought so many tears.

Now is the time to look back
On what used to be,
To smile that it happened
And to finally be pain free!

By Colleen Wyman

A Trapped Woman

I looked into his eyes,
And all I could see was rage.
He came towards me,
And I wanted to run away.

Where there was love,
There is now only fear.
He raises his hand,
And the slap is all I can hear.

I covered my face,
To block his strong arms,
From hitting my face,
And keeping me from harm.

He stops.....
He looks at me and he says he's sorry.

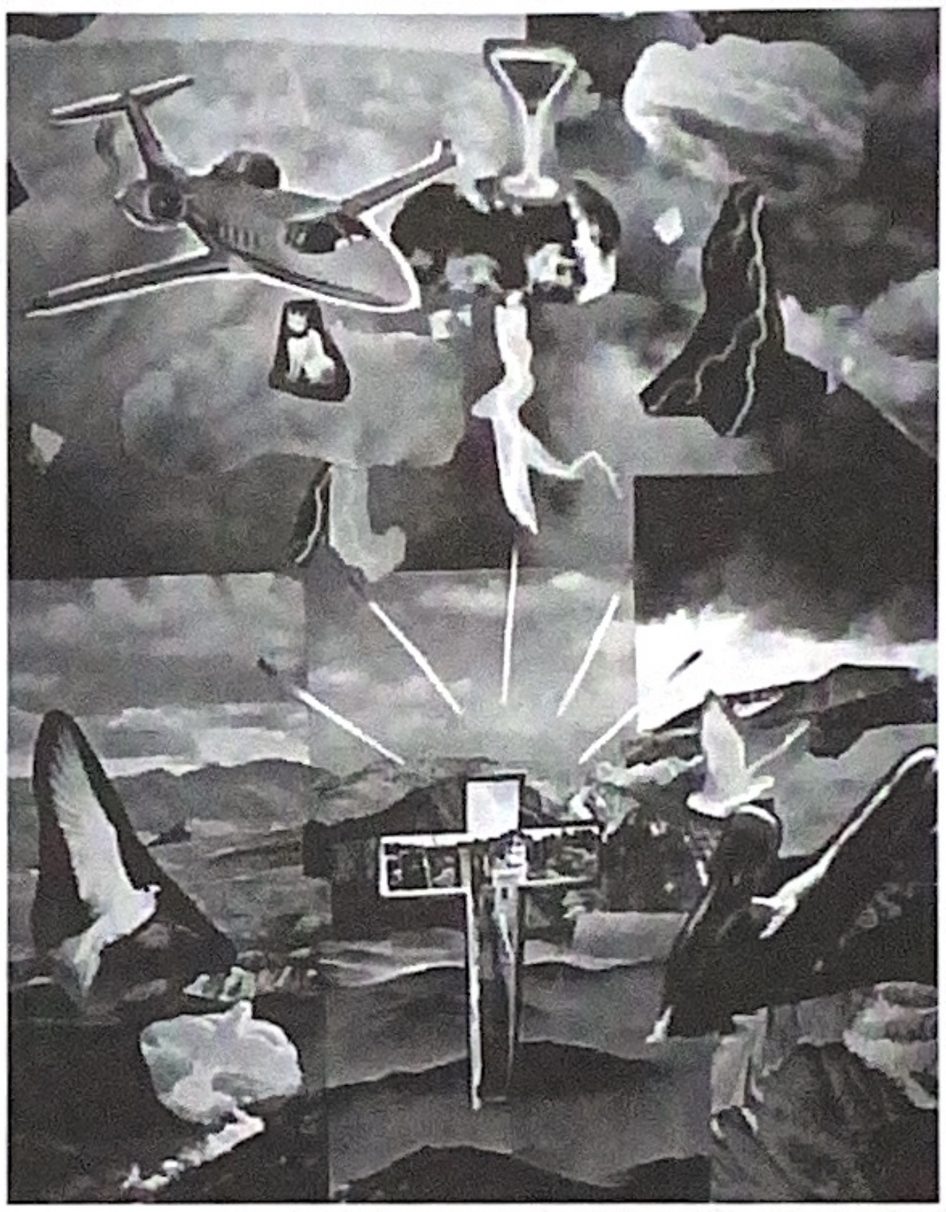

And like a fool I say that it's ok,
Yet in the back of my mind, I worry.

How many times and I going to be so stupid?
How many times am I going to be so dumb?
I want to leave him so badly it hurts,
But the thought just makes me numb.

He says he loves me,
But then why does love hurt?
He says he'd always treat me right,
But then why so I feel like dirt?
Collage

I walk around aimlessly everyday,
Trying to find a way out.
I wish I had the strength to go through with it,
And take my life down a different route.

"Night"

My mind instantly talks to me
As I'm lying in my bed
I dont know how to dream
I don't know how to sleep
As these thoughts run through my head
I keep on asking the same questions
Over and over agin
Why so I talk to me
Why can't I ever see
There's no answer in the end

Sometimes late at night
I toss and turn
I often yearn
To get through the night
Sometimes I want to be free to do
Without the thought of you
And the world so I can sleep

A thought makes time so much slower
As sweat rolls down my head
You keep on stalking me
In the darkness deep
In my bedrrom as it spreads
The static's muffling my hearing
I don't know what's going on

You never go away
You always seem to stay
In my memory forever long

Sometimes late at night
I toss and turn
I often yearn
To get through the night
Sometimes I want to be free to do
Without the thought of you and
The world so I can sleep

I find no comfort in my covers
No sanction in the night
I can't stop thinking of you
And the world we never knew
In the long hours of the night

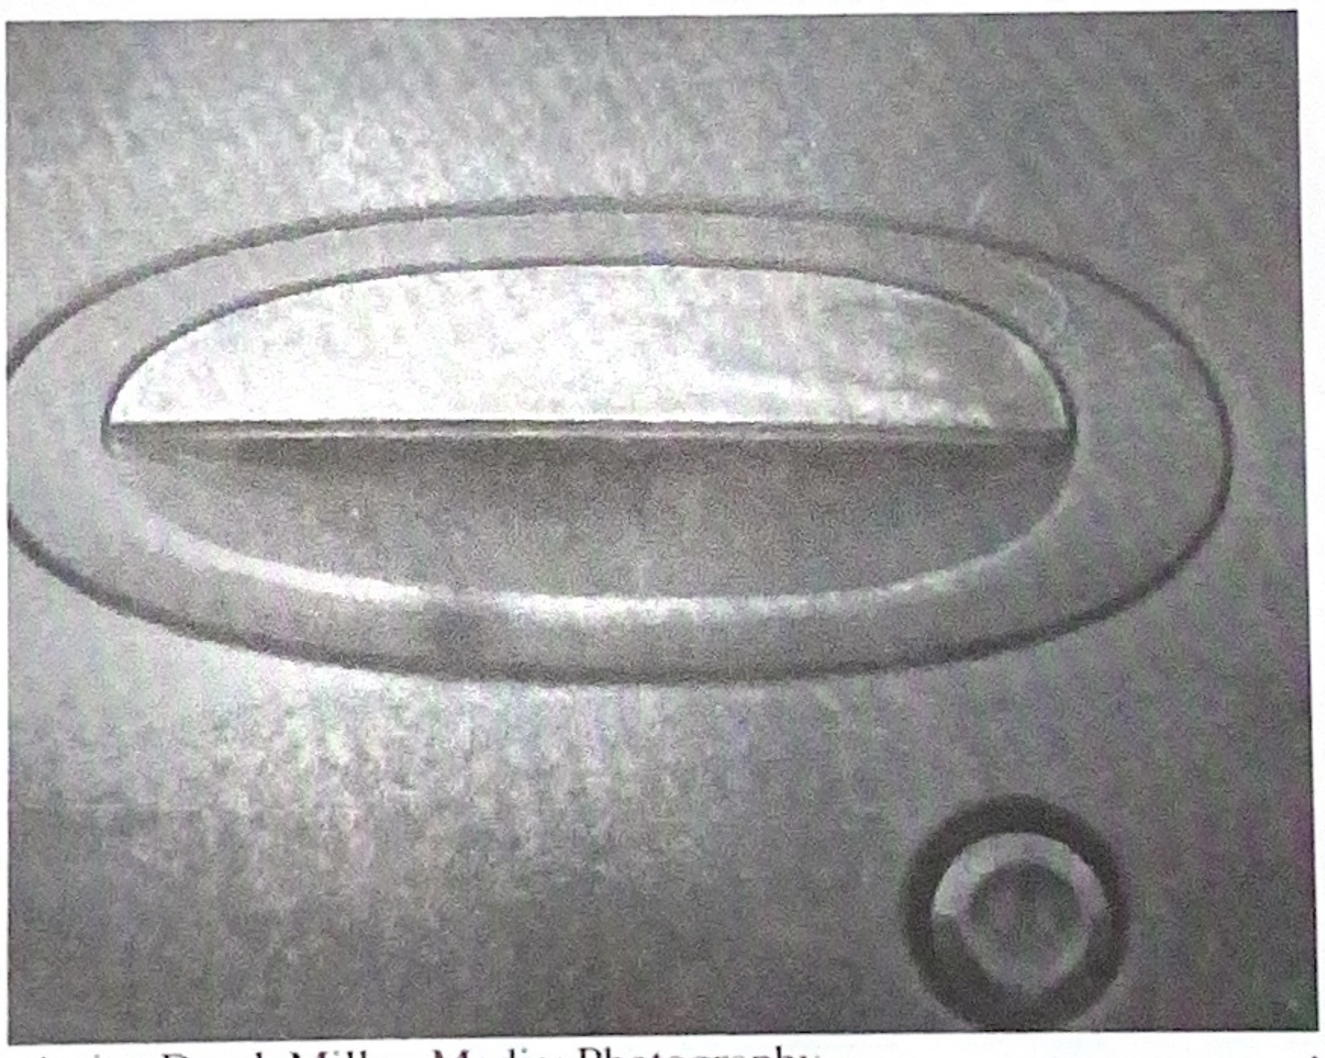

Sometimes late at night
I toss and turn
I often yearn
To get through the night
Sometimes I want to be
Free to do
Without the thought of you
And the world so I can sleep

You never go away
You always seem to stay

Pathetic poor
Little Lenore
Pity pity
She walks the halls
With her little
Black kitty
Now she approaches
The door
The light she saw
She now sees more
She opens the door
And then a leap
And from her mouth
A simple "eepp!"

"Snowflake"

By Ani Essrow

Snowflake... beautiful and pristine
Perfect in every way
Strong and never faltering as the long journey is made from the sky.
So innocent, so carefree

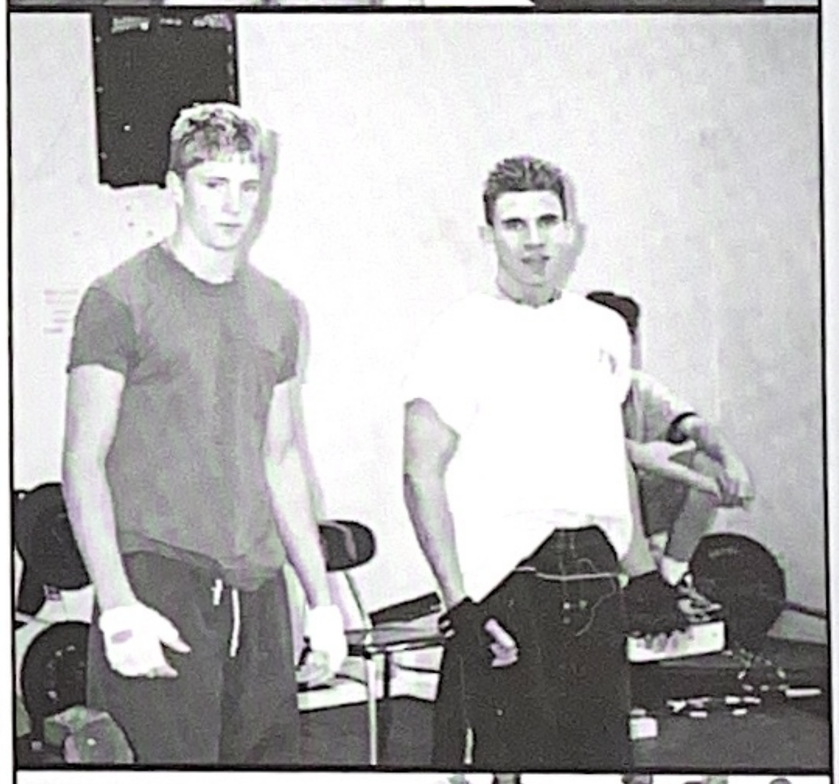

When the snowflake falls into "your" hand for a moment it remains perfect and beautiful as you admire it and protect it.

But after that initial bliss your touch makes the snowflake begin to falter.
Slowly and quietly breaking down,
Tainted and perhaps not so innocent any longer
Trying as hard as possible to stay strong not to breakdown
With no luck
Melting down to nothing never to be the same.

Antigone

The chorus was one of the biggest for all KE plays. In fact, Antigone was the ONLY play that actually had a chorus.

Ismene and Antigone discuss their plans

Down time allows the director, Pete D'Angelo, to relax with some of the cast members.

Let's try to portray the crew at work
