General Information

This Community Health Resource Guide is designed to support students, families, and staff in accessing essential health and wellness services within Lake Travis ISD and the greater Austin area. It provides information on local clinics, mental health support, nutrition programs, and other vital resources to promote the well-being of our community.

We understand that many families in our community face challenges when it comes to accessing essential services due to financial limitations or other barriers. This guide was created to help connect you with local resources that offer support in areas such as healthcare, food assistance, housing, mental health, and more—often at low or no cost.

Our goal is to ensure every family has the opportunity to find the help they need, when they need it. Whether you're looking for short-term support or long-term services, we hope this guide serves as a helpful starting point. You are not alone, and support is available.

This resource guide was created in collaboration with the Lake Travis Independent School District Counseling and Health Services Department, under the direct supervision of Tasha Barker, Assistant Superintendent of Organizational Services. Many of the individual providers listed in this guide reached out to the school district expressing interest in supporting our students, families, and staff. Their inclusion is based on their willingness to offer services and resources to our school community.

If you are a provider and are interested in being added to our Community Resource Guide, please contact the Director of Counseling and Health Services, Jennifer Garrigan, at garriganj@ltsidschools.org.

Disclaimer: The medical providers and organizations listed in this Community Resource Guide are offered for informational purposes only and do not constitute an endorsement by the school district. Families are encouraged to conduct their own research when selecting a provider that best meets their needs. If you have any questions or concerns regarding a specific medical provider or affiliate, please contact the appropriate professional licensing board for the most accurate and up-to-date information.
