JAZZ PROJECT

The Jazz Project is where middle and high school musicians build the skills to perform America's music—Jazz. Students are placed into small ensembles (combos) based in Santa Fe or Los Alamos after an audition.

- Open to intermediate and advanced players
- Yearly Tuition: $625–$750 (Financial aid available)
- All students perform in exciting venues
- Advanced groups with additional performance opportunities

Registration is open!

Sign up now—even if you still need to audition. Once placed, we'll confirm your class and send payment info.
