

Entering Third Grade Choice Board

Students are encouraged to reflect on their reading two times per week; the choice board activities are designed to help students reflect on the books they read.

Beginning, Middle, End: Draw a picture and write three sentences to describe each part of a book you read.	Main Character Draw a picture of the main character and write 3 sentences describing the main character.	Predict: Pretend you are writing a Part Two for a book. What would happen next? Where would your character go? Draw a picture and write two sentences to predict.	Problem/Solution: Draw a picture and write two sentences describing the problem and the solution in a book.
Create a book cover for the book you read. Include the title, author, illustrator, and a picture including setting, characters.	Wondering: Think about a nonfiction book you read - what questions do you still have about this topic?	Vocabulary: Find a new word in your book - copy the sentence from the book. Ask an adult to help you look up the meaning. Draw a picture of the word.	Make connections: Think about your main character. How are you like her? How are you different? Write a sentence describing you and the character.
Biographies: stories about real people. Read a biography and describe the main character with 3 adjectives. Draw a picture of the main character.	Write a letter to a friend recommending your book. Tell her why you liked it. Make sure you include the title, author, characters, and setting.	Information Station: Did you read a nonfiction book? Draw some pictures about what you learned. Write a sentence for each picture.	Partner read: Books are better when we share them! Read a book with your friend and then talk about your favorite parts. Write some thoughts that you both discussed.
