

Summer Literacy Work For Rising First Graders

We are very excited to welcome a new group of fabulous first graders to our classrooms! Until then, the summer months should be a time of fun and play with many opportunities to grow and learn. Reading is one of the most wonderful ways to do this! Please read on to find the expectations for summer reading.

Daily Reading

In order to maintain reading skills and develop a love of reading, we encourage your child to read throughout the summer. Please help your child fill in the Summer Reading BINGO paper, which provides a fun variety of reading opportunities. We highly recommend that your child fills in the entire BINGO board.

Parent and Child Read Together

We are also asking each parent to read one or more chapter books to his/her child this summer. The sharing of chapter books at this age is an integral part of comprehension. Not only will your child be engaged in a fascinating story, but he/she will also develop listening skills necessary for success in first-grade literacy. Ideally, the chosen book should be at a higher reading level than the one your child can read independently. Please take a photograph of you and your child reading together. Make sure that the title of the book is clear in the image or picture. Also, please have your child fill out the Summer Book Look paper about the chapter book you will read to him/her.

Sincerely,

Your First Grade Teachers
