State of Admissions: 2025

Common Application Trends

The Common Application reports a 4% increase in students completing applications through its portal and a 7% overall increase in application submissions.

Admission to highly selective schools is decreasing, a consistent trend across the country

Test Optional

Well over 2,015 colleges and universities currently have test-optional admissions policies. However, some institutions are reinstating test requirements for specific degree programs or placing greater emphasis on standardized test scores during the application review process.

Application Approach

Colleges are increasingly emphasizing a holistic approach to reviewing applications
