💰MORE THAN JUST DOLLARS AND CENTS: HOW SMART BUDGETING POWERS GREAT SCHOOLS

It's often said that a school budget is more than just a financial document. It's a blueprint for a district's dreams. The annual school budget is the financial expression of a district's educational goals and aspirations. It defines priorities, controls spending, and provides a roadmap for delivering a high-quality education to every student. Behind the numbers is a collaborative effort between administrators, the Board of Education, and community members to balance students' needs with fiscal responsibility. The budget isn't just about what we spend; it's about how wisely we invest. A comprehensive understanding of school finance empowers board members to make thoughtful, strategic decisions. It allows us to weigh needs against resources, and to be stewards of taxpayer dollars while still advancing the mission of educational excellence. As the NJSBA's School Leader publication reminds us, "School finance is the backbone of every effective educational program, and a challenge for almost every board member."

🏛️ Navigating School Finance: A Challenge Worth Meeting

In New Jersey, the school finance landscape is especially complex. The state's S2 funding formula continues to shift aid among districts, often placing additional pressure on local boards to find creative solutions to maintain programs while managing costs. Inflation, rising health care premiums, and increasing transportation expenses have only added to the burden. Despite these challenges, the Colts Neck Board of Education is proud to have proposed and passed a 0% tax increase for the second year in a row. This is a feat that reflects not only prudent financial management but respect for our community's families. While maintaining strong programs, student support services, and academic excellence, the board worked diligently to find savings, reallocate resources, and ensure that every dollar has a purpose.

💡 Transparency and Collaboration Are Key

The budget process is rooted in transparency and public engagement. From salaries and benefits to capital improvements, the New Jersey School Boards Association stresses the critical role board members play in developing the annual budget with administration. School board members also need to understand the components of state aid, local revenue, and expenditures, from transportation to classroom technology. Public workshops, detailed presentations, and open dialogue with parents, staff, and taxpayers are essential to building consensus and trust. The result? A budget that reflects the community's values and meets the needs of its students.

🎯 Looking Ahead

Our commitment to financial responsibility is ongoing. As we continue to navigate uncertain economic terrain, the Colts Neck Board of Education remains committed in its mission: to provide exceptional education while being mindful stewards of public funds.
We thank our residents for their support and engagement in the process. Together, we are investing in our children, our schools, and our future without increasing the tax burden on our community.

CELEBRATING 60 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

Thursday, April 24 was a truly memorable evening for the Colts Neck community as we gathered to celebrate the 60th Anniversary of Cedar Drive Middle School. It was heartwarming to see so many familiar faces, students past and present, families, alumni, educators, and community members come together to honor the legacy of this beloved institution. The evening was a tribute to the strong traditions, academic excellence, meaningful relationships, and deep sense of pride that have defined Cedar Drive for the past six decades. Our gratitude goes out to the Colts Neck PTO, PBA, and the CNTEA for their generous sponsorship and support in making this celebration possible.

Several members of the Colts Neck Board of Education, including President Angelique Volpe, Vice President Phyllis Camera, and BOE members Kevin Walsh and Brian Scarpa, were in attendance for this commemorative milestone proudly showing their continued support for our school community. President Angelique Volpe delivered a powerful message, reflecting on the school's legacy. "Sixty years ago, these doors opened with the dream of forging a learning environment where children could become the very best versions of themselves. Over the past six decades, thousands of children have walked these halls, encouraged to dream big, fail bravely, and lift others as they climb."She continued, "As we honor sixty years of history, we also look ahead to the next chapter. Let us recommit to nurturing both the hearts and minds of our students, to championing kindness alongside academic rigor, modeling respect as much as innovation, and reminding every child that they belong here, that they are valued, and that their dreams matter."

The Board also extends gratitude to the evening's speakers. CDMS Student Council President Lexi Candela reflected on what Cedar Drive means to today's students, Superintendent Dr. MaryJane Garibay spoke on the school's enduring legacy, and Colts Neck Mayor Tara Buss presented a formal proclamation honoring 60 years of excellence and service. Special thanks to the CDMS Chorus and Band, led by Mrs. Hubbard and Mr. Brown, for their inspiring performances, and to Mrs. Pavlicek for producing a moving video tribute featuring community leaders and alumni. The Board is grateful to Principal Dr. Rigby, Vice Principal Mr. Mercer, School Counselor and CDMS alumna Mrs. Hums, and the many volunteers whose dedication brought this celebration to life.

Cedar Drive is more than a school. It is a cornerstone of Colts Neck. As President Angelique Volpe shared, "May the friendships you've formed here be anchors in stormy seas… and the confidence you've gained propel you toward unimaginable heights." Happy 60th, Cedar Drive Middle School! Here's to the next chapter of learning,

ROB SCALES CHAMPIONS NEW PARENTS' BILL OF RIGHTS IN COLTS NECK

In a bold step toward increasing transparency and reinforcing the role of families in public education, Rob Scales, current Policy Chair of the Colts Neck Board of Education, has introduced a Parents' Bill of Rights that reaffirms and clarifies long-standing parental rights related to school involvement, academic transparency, and student well-being.

As a longtime advocate for strong family-school partnerships, Scales has been a vocal supporter of parental rights, educational excellence, and fiscal responsibility. His latest policy initiative reflects growing concerns among Colts Neck families who want more say in how their children are educated and how their taxpayer dollars are spent. "Parents are not just stakeholders. They are the primary educators and protectors of their children," said Scales. "This bill of rights reaffirms that truth and ensures they are fully aware of their longstanding rights to access curriculum, understand school policies, and be involved in critical decisions affecting their children."

Key Established Rights, Clarified and Reaffirmed through this Policy include:

- Curriculum Transparency: Parents have the right to review all curriculum materials, syllabi, reading lists, and lesson plans upon request.
- Opt-Out Provisions: Families may opt out of controversial content or programs that conflict with their personal, religious, or moral beliefs
- Health and Safety Oversight: Parents will be notified and involved in decisions involving medical services, mental health screenings, and physical education activities.
- Freedom of Information: The policy ensures public records remain accessible in a timely, user-friendly manner, building on existing FOIA regulations with clearer communication.
- Participation in Policy Development: The board reaffirms parents' rights to engage in board meetings, committees, and advisory panels. Public input, especially through community forums and PAC recommendations, has helped guide and refine this process.

Scales has worked closely with BOE members, the Parent Advisory Committee, and the public on a broader vision for a student-first, parent-powered school system. Their shared priorities include safeguarding parental rights, ensuring academic integrity, and making fiscally responsible decisions that respect Colts Neck taxpayers. "We're committed to restoring trust in public education," said Scales. "This bill gives power back to families where it belongs. It's not about politics, it's about protecting kids and keeping parents informed every step of the way."

The proposed Parents' Bill of Rights will be discussed at upcoming board meetings and is already generating strong support from community members and parent advocacy groups alike.

Historic Preservation Committee : Bringing Local History to Life

In May, third graders from Conover Road Elementary School took a step back in time during a special field trip to the historic Montrose Schoolhouse, thanks to a continued partnership between the Colts Neck Township Schools and the Colts Neck Historic Preservation Committee. Welcomed by committee members, students experienced a taste of 19th-century school life such as sitting at antique desks, playing historical games like Jacob's Ladder and Cat's Cradle, and participating in a lively Q&A led by Michelle Warendorf. Her engaging session highlighted the differences and similarities between education then and now, while offering a brief history of the schoolhouse.

The Board thanks the fire police for their assistance, Principal Mr. Osmond, teachers, and the dedicated volunteers who helped make the visit possible. A special shoutout goes to Michelle Warendorf for organizing this enriching experience for the second year in a row. Programs like this bring history to life and connect students to Colts Neck's rich heritage. The Board is looking forward to continuing and growing this tradition for years to come.

SPOTLIGHT ON SERVICE: KEVIN WALSH BRINGS EXPERIENCE, SAFETY, AND STEWARDSHIP

Kevin Walsh brings a lifetime of public service, leadership, and community commitment to his role on the Colts Neck Board of Education. Kevin began serving others early as a volunteer EMT and firefighter in Lacey Township. After earning his degree from Davenport University, he worked as a paramedic in Toms River before joining the Colts Neck Police Department, where he served for over 25 years. His roles included Juvenile Officer, DARE Officer, School Liaison, and Community Services Sergeant. After retiring, he returned to the school setting as one of Colts Neck's first School Law Enforcement Officers at Cedar Drive Middle School. He currently works as Director of Security for the Trump Organization and is a proud Colts Neck parent with a daughter at CDMS.

Kevin's commitment to service is rooted in deep personal values. The son of an immigrant father who, through hard work and with the support of a devoted mother, gave Kevin the foundation to achieve the American dream, he now considers it a privilege to give back to the country and community that have given so much to his family. He and his wife Angelique, who is the President of the Colts Neck Board of Education, proudly serve the families of Colts Neck Township together.

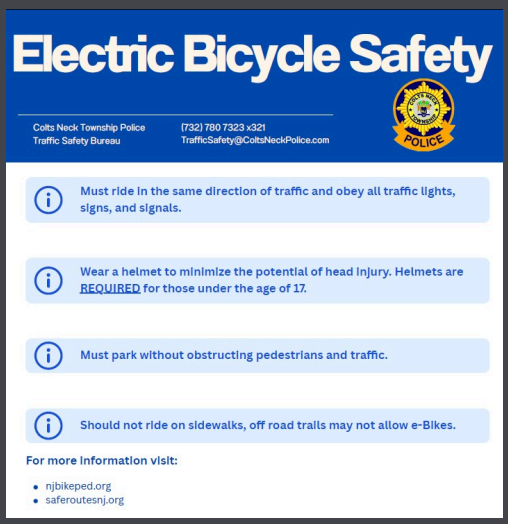

On the Board of Education, Kevin serves as Liaison to the Senior Community, Chair of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, serves on the Finance Committee, and sits on the Ad-Hoc Committee for Affordable Housing. He is leading efforts on the district's Energy Savings Improvement Plan (ESIP), negotiating cost savings and overseeing infrastructure upgrades, including HVAC work, solar analysis, roofing schematics, and more. With a strong background in safety and fiscal oversight, Kevin continues to support secure, efficient, and student-focused schools in Colts Neck.

In addition, the department recently posted a reminder about electric bicycle (e-bike) safety, an especially important topic for our students. As more students use e-bikes for transportation, the Colts Neck Police Traffic Safety Bureau urges all motorists to stay alert and share the road responsibly. E-bike users and parents are encouraged to review safety guidelines provided here. Thank you to the Colts Neck Police Department for your continued dedication to the safety and education of our students and families. Stay safe and enjoy the season!
