Minutemen Monthly

Release: July 2025

As we wrapped up the 2024–2025 school year, I want to take a moment to express my heartfelt gratitude and pride in our entire community. This marks the end of my first year as the superintendent of Revere Local Schools, and I couldn't be more honored to serve such a dedicated, vibrant, and caring district.

Throughout the year, I've been continually inspired by the achievements of our students, the passion of our staff, and the unwavering support of our families and community partners. Together, we've created opportunities, celebrated milestones, and built meaningful connections that define who we are.

Our recent graduation was a perfect example—held on a beautiful evening at the high school stadium filled with heartfelt senior speeches, a stirring performance by our band, a moving rendition of the alma mater, and an unforgettable fireworks finale. It was a night that captured the spirit of our schools and the promise of the future.

Across the district, there have been countless moments of pride: eighth grade exit interviews that showcased student reflection and growth, senior internships that connected learning to the real world, elementary publishing parties where young authors shared their voices, engaging career days and mock interviews, kickball games that brought out the fierce competitors in both our staff and students, our inclusive Empower Sports Day, plays, debates, art shows, kindergarten graduation, clap outs, and so much more.

During the first week of June, I had the privilege of serving as a chaperone on the eighth grade trip to Washington, D.C. This experience was especially meaningful to me for two key reasons: to begin building relationships with our soon-to-be high school freshmen, and to connect more closely with the dedicated middle school staff who accompanied us. Visiting our nation's capital in this way was truly special—each day was filled with educational and inspiring tours that brought history to life. Along the way, we shared moments of friendship, created new bonds, and made lasting memories. I was especially proud to hear repeated praise for our students, whose respectful behavior and positive attitudes stood out wherever we went.

Wishing everyone a fun, safe, and relaxing summer—and a joyful Fourth of July celebration with family and friends!
