A STRONG FOUNDATION FOR LIFELONG SUCCESS

At JIS Early Years (EY), your child is at the heart of everything we do, and is the inspiration behind our enriching academic program.

Inspired by Reggio Emilia, our education philosophy is centered around nurturing the Whole Child. This approach equally values every child's journey of academic, physical, social, and emotional development. We firmly believe that our Early Years students, aged 3-5, possess their own unique potential as curious learners eager to explore the world around them. Driven by their individual strengths, skills, and interests, they make daily choices and discoveries in our child-centered learning spaces that encourage them to ask questions, express their ideas, and make supported decisions.

LEARNING CONNECTIONS

Utilizing a holistic approach based on global best practices, JIS Early Years encompasses four Learning Pillars.

1 Communication and Collaboration

Students learn the power of connection by expressing their ideas in various ways, from language and movement to art and play. They listen and respond to the needs of others with empathy, compassion, and respect, exploring their roles and responsibilities as individuals and members of a community.

2 Critical and Creative Thinker

Students embrace their natural curiosities and love of learning through exploration, investigation, and discovery. They ask questions, make connections, and apply solutions to support their growing understanding of the world around them.

3 Physical and Emotional Self

Students discover their potential and sense of self through hands-on experiences, building the skills and confidence to navigate their daily activities with curiosity, resilience, and personal wellbeing.

4 Social and Environmental Relationships

Students explore and accept their unique identities as they learn to connect, relate, and value others in their immediate and wider environment. Through meaningful interactions, they forge friendships, care for their environment, and appreciate diverse perspectives as broad-minded global citizens.

PURPOSE-BUILT FACILITIES

Every corner of our Early Years learning spaces is designed to spark curiosity and active engagement.

Bright, spacious classrooms and dynamic outdoor areas invite students to explore, create, and connect with one another — turning every activity into an enriching experience. Here, they are encouraged to be observers of the world around them, to be drawn in by what they see, hear, and observe.

Every facility serves as a teacher in their own way, providing a safe and nurturing environment for purpose-driven learning.
