1981, Year Of The Eagle
A golden, glorious moment

Time...

A moment here and gone
The memory lingers
Floating in the stillness of our mind.

A minute and now and hour
Always moving and changing
Making memories and going on.

A day and now a week,
Gone but yet remembered
Add to the treasures in our mind.

A month and now a year
So long and yet so short
Drifting away and going on.

Time doesn't stop. It never pauses.
Moments exist, then are gone . . . gone except for the memory.

The Eagle, noted for its strong, soaring flight,
Is for us a symbol of pride, individuality, and strength.

Each one of us who have shared the moments of 1981 at WHS
Is unique and special. Bringing ourselves, we touch and Mold the lives of each other. Together we are The Eagles. . .
Proud and strong!

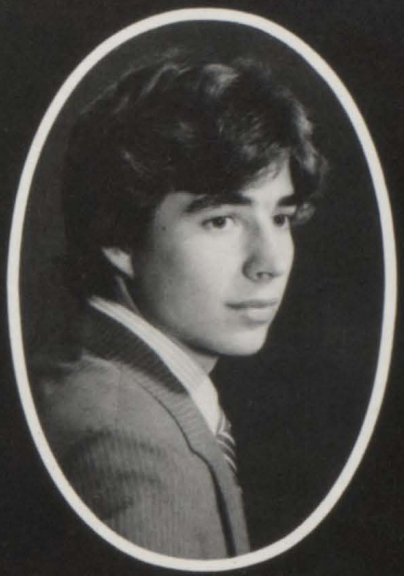

The Year of The Eagle, 1981, is a special memory. . .
A memory of moments of glory and laughter, of tears and love, of dreams and friendships, and of growing and learning.

The Year of the Eagle - the year of us.

There was a child went forth every day
And the first object he looked upon, that object he became,
And that object became part of him for the day or a certain part of the day,
Or for many years or stretching cycle of years.

Walt Whitman

The sights and sounds, the thoughts and feelings, and the daily activities at WHS have become a part of the seniors which will stay with them "...for many years or stretching cycle of years." They will be remembered for what they brought to the Eagle spirit.

Juniors Involved In '81

My life has been the poem I would have writ,
But I could not both live and utter it.

Thoreau

One of the activities which kept the twenty-six juniors busy in 1981 was raising money for the prom by running the concession stand at athletic events. Aided by the class advisers Ms. Carla Brucklacher, Mr. Kent Lurz, and Ms. Donna Stotesbery, the juniors planned and presented a memorable prom night. Juniors added vitality to the sports program. Pat Goldhammer was selected for the All Conference football team and received honorable mention for All State. Crystal Briggs made an outstanding showing in gymnastics. Lea Ann Willuweit and Jo Ann Moore performed in the one-act play, "The Play Goers". Jo Ann received a superior acting award at both the Regional and State Contests. Kari Welsh was selected for the All State Choir. The juniors also selected their class rings.

Sophomores Have Eagle Spirit

In August
Billowing white clouds fill the skies with thunderings
And the silence after their parting is very deep.

The sophomore year is a year for reflections. It is a time for thinking about the events of the freshman year from a new perspective. It is also a time for looking ahead. With greater freedom in class selection, the sophomores make decisions which help form their future. Assisted by class advisors Ms. Sue Gilmore and Ms. Connie Simon, the sophomores raised money for their class fund by selling magazines. Gene Drewitz and James Babcock were selected for All State Choir and Lois Stverak went to the High Plains Music Festival in Chadron, Nebraska as alternate saxophone. For many sophomores 1981 was a year to relax and enjoy a quiet pace.

Walt Whitman

With the guidance of Mr. Kirsch and Ms. Dappen, the freshmen undertook magazine sales to raise class money. Homecoming found them working together on their float, "Happy Days Are Here Again" which took 2nd place. Some observations freshmen made on their first year in high school include:
"Last year there were only two people in our class. Now there are thousands."
"The classes are different and harder."
"Its better than eighth grade."
"Interesting."

Library Is Source Of Information

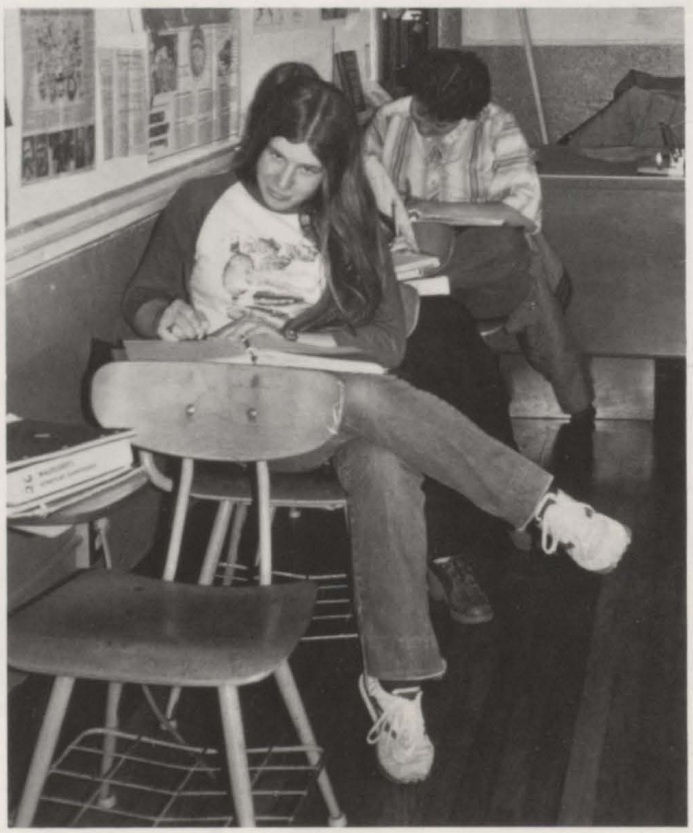

Ms. Connie Simon conducts weekly story hours for grades K - 3. She also teaches grades 4 - 8 a unit in library skills. This year the library participated in the RIF (Reading Is Fundamental) program for grades K - 8. The goal of the library in the elementary school is to spark an interest in reading and teach the students how to use the library. In high school the goal is to provide students with research materials.

World News Is Highlighted

The goals in Mr. Guy Smith's classes are all related. In government he gives students the knowledge necessary to participate in our political system as future citizens. He gives a study of the past in U.S. history so they can avoid mistakes in their decisions. Current issues keeps students informed.

English Is Communication

The English program is designed to meet the needs and interests of WHS students by offerine a wide variety of 9-week classes. After the freshman year, where students are given an introduction to the different areas of English, each student chooses from classes in speech, drama, literature, grammar and composition. In each area there are several classes to choose from. The English requirements are met during the three years by a program selected by and geared to the individual.

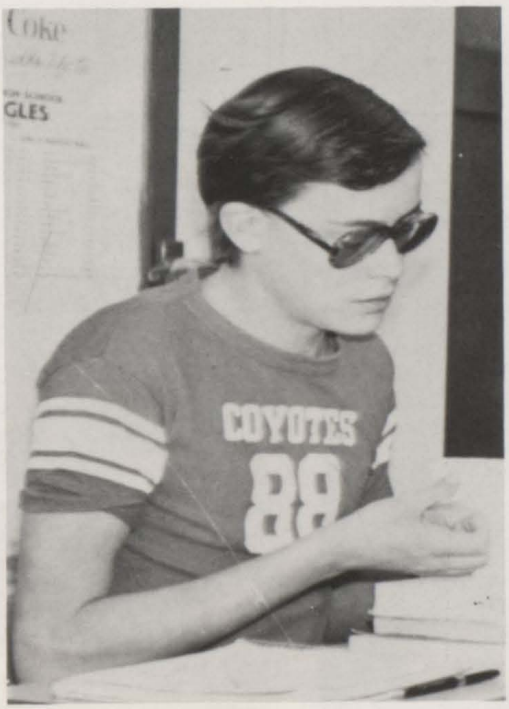

The primary purpose of the counseling department is to assist students in the areas of academic achievement, careers, post high school planning and personal growth. In addition the counselor offers an elementary counseling program.

There are some basic classes on Ms. Gilmore's agenda—freshmen English, sociology, psychology, and Greek mythology. In freshmen English she emphasizes learning grammar usage skills, vocabulary, literature and composition. Sociology focuses on the social behavior of people, the complexities of this social life, and some methods for solving social problems. In psychology normal and abnormal personalities are studied as well as varied personality theories.

Ms. Hood feels that students need to gain an appreciation through exposure to the genres of literature before they pursue a job or any other type of secondary education. English remains a vital link in the chain to attaining a well-rounded education. This link has too often been ignored. She hopes that students leaving her classes have a greater understanding of literature, of the people and forces who shape it, and of life itself.

Shop Sparks With Activity

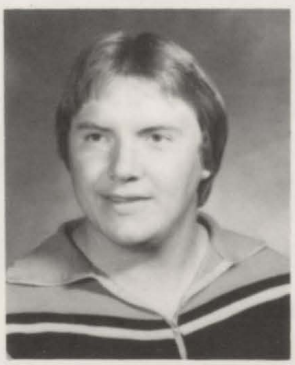

The students in vocational agriculture have competed in various district and state judging contests this year. They have judged dairy cattle, dairy products, livestock (including quarter horses), poultry and meats. They started a small plant nursery and are working on a rifle range project a mile and a half east of town.

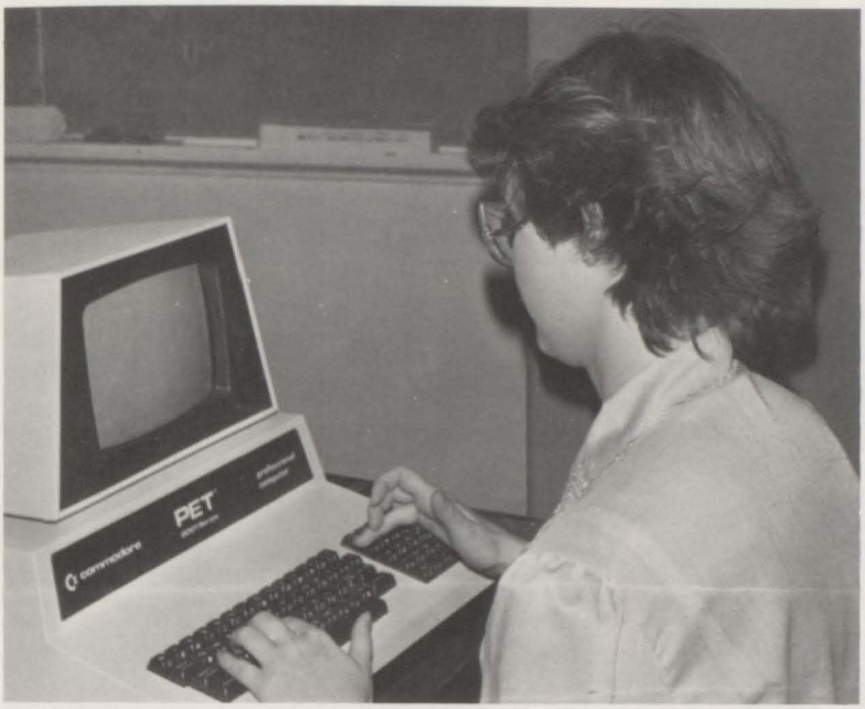

Mr. Lurz' goal this year was to introduce his students to as many different fields of industrial arts as possible. During the year, the drafting students drew everything from pistons to a full set of house plans. They made a scale model of the house and also built a storage shed. The woodworking class was introduced to tools and machinery. They learned different ways of using them to finish their projects.

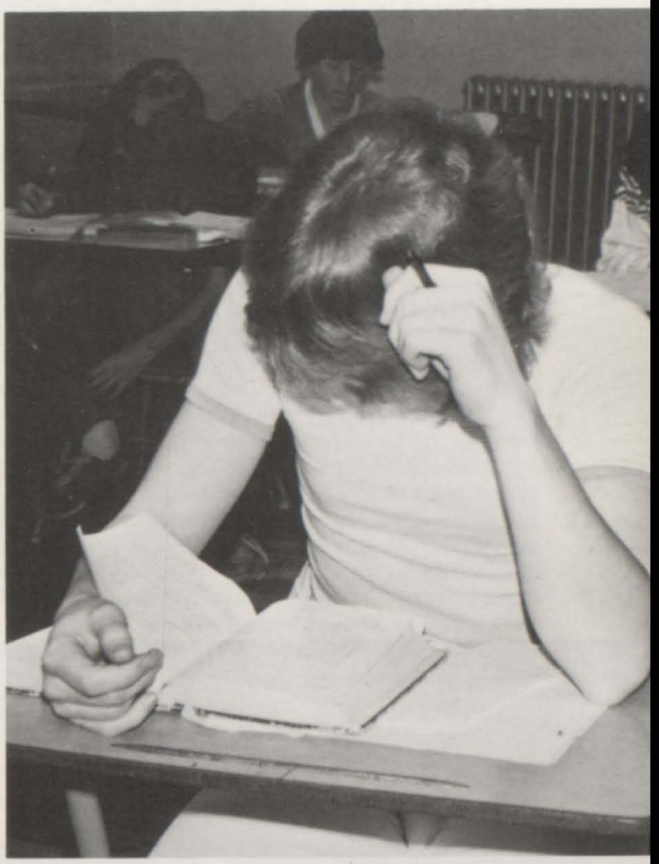

Steve Schell and Larry Garrison make the sparks fly as they weld a shooting bench. (Top right) Casey Fortune sands his horse trailer in welding class. (Top left) Henry Hanson makes a drawing of a side arm bracket in mechanical drafting. (Above) Mr. David Van Laarhoven (Above center) Mr. Kent Lurz (Above right)

Computers Added To Math And Science Programs

Ms Juanita Cole feels the new computer added variety and interest to her math classes. The students enjoyed playing games as well as programming the computer.

Tammy Burmeister programs the new computer. (Below) Kyle White concentrates on a tough algebra problem. Scott Patterson and Kevin Wilson study in the background. (Right) Ms. Stotesbery gives notes. (Below)

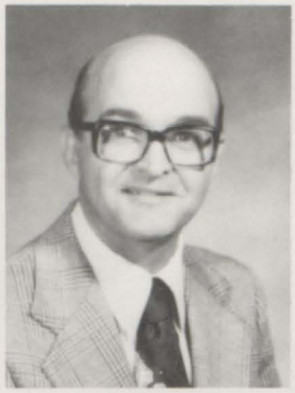

Ms. Donna Stotesbery provided her general science students with an opportunity to work with a computer as well as introducing them to physics. Dissecting cats was in store for the physiology students while the chemistry class wrote and balanced equations. Biology students are still learning about the plant and animal kingdoms.

Field Trips Provide Insights In Business, Law

Mr. Kirsch took his classes on several trips to see businesses in operation. The accounting class went to West River Electric and Golden West Telephone to see computerized accounting systems in action. Business law visited a trial in Circuit Court in Rapid City. Other classes Mr. Kirsch teaches are typing and office practice. Several accounting and typing students participated in the Business Skills Day at National College of Business.

Choir Raises Money For Trip To Denver

During '81 the choir put on a country carnival, a salad luncheon, sold candy and did other things to raise money. They plan to use this money to attend the Rocky Mountain High Festival in Denver, Colorado in '82. Thirty-three out of forty choir members participated in the music contest held in White River.

Band Sets The Beat

In the fall the band performed half time entertainment and marched in the homecoming parade. The first concert was on December 18, with two more following March 3, and May 12. Shelly Lentz, Shannon Richter, and David Kjerstad received a superior rating on their instrumental solos in White River. Shelly Lentz and Lois Stverak went to the High Plains Festival.

Ping Pong, Archery-New P.E. Games

Mr. Gale Patterson and Ms. Colleen Olson taught physical education for kindergarten through high school. All of the classes except lifetime sports started and ended with testing. Some of the activities were softball, coordination, volleyball, gymnastics and games.

Drivers Ed Students Make Survival Kits

Mr. Bill Melaas taugh a semester class in driver's education which included testing on the driver's handbook and driving. Each member of the class this year made a survival kit to be placed in the family car. It included a three-day supply of food, matches and flares. A new Chevrolet was donated by Dorothy Brothers of Philip, South Dakota in March.

Designing And Decorating Homes Part Of H.E.

The activities of the home economics department included a clothing and textiles class, an interior decorating class and a foods and nutrition class. Ms. Darci Dappen helped her students sew clothes, design their dream bedroom and kitchen, and took them to visit a house being built in Wall. The sophomores held a Christmas luncheon and the freshmen put on a Christmas tea.

Creativity Seen In Art

Mrs. Loy Hamm was a new teacher for the WHS art students this year. They worked with pencil drawing, water colors and inking. The advanced students in Art II also worked with clay pottery and oil painting.

Janitors Keep Things We Hardly Notice So We Hardly Notice Them

Willie Geigle and Emil Eisenbraun do all of the maintenance and repair work around the school. They replace light bulbs, fix whatever is broken, clear the snow from the sidewalks, and many other things to make our school comfortable. They also clean the ag building and locker rooms. In the summer they clean the whole school and get it ready for another year. Pearl Van Vleck and Darla Wolf do most of the cleaning around the school. They also work all summer.

National Honor Society Inducts New Members

The standards for entrance into the National Honor Society are quite high. Juniors must have a 3.2 GPA and seniors a 3.0. At least one elective office must have been held. Two school activities and one outside activity are also required. Students meeting these standards are then voted on by the faculty.

On April 23 the induction ceremony for new members was held in the school cafeteria. During the special candlelight ceremony, the 13 new inductees pledged themselves to their school and to the high ideals of the National Honor Society—leadership, scholarship, character and service.

Declam Speaks Out

The district declam contest this year was held in Wall. Six schools participated. For the second year in a row, Wall's declam team brought home the District Sweepstake Trophy. Many people don't understand the number of hours that go into preparing a good selection. First one must cut the speech so that it is the correct length. Then the participant must analyze the selection for meaning and characterization. Lastly, the participant must practice it many times in order to have confidence when making the presentation. All together it takes between 30 - 40 hours to prepare one selection. Those participating this year were Shannon Richter, Jane Carlbom, Rene Kirsch, Tammy Burmeister, Marli Feller, Kelly Ruland, Lori Brown, Roger Shull, and Bonnie Strandell.

"Playgoers" Brings Laughter To Playgoers

Once again Wall's One Act Play won Divisional Superior Honors and participated in the State One Act Play Contest. The play, "Playgoers" not only received a superior rating, but several of the actors received superior ratings as well. Roger Shull, Jane Carlbom, Jo Ann Moore and Lori Brown received Superior Supporting Actor awards at the Divisional contest. Jane and Jo Ann also received superiors at State. The State Contest afforded these students an opportunity to see some of the best plays in the state.

Displaying their District Sweepstakes Trophy are (Front) Tammy Burmeister and Lori Brown and (seated on the table) Shannon Richter, Rene Kirsch, Kelly Ruland, Jane Carlbom and Marli Feller. "Feiffer's People" - An Exciting, Creative Experience

The script of "Feiffer's People" included several separate sketches about people—their inner feelings, their hopes and dreams and their different views of the world. The interpretation of these sketches was largely left to the student's imagination. The results were exciting. Several portions of the show were original. Ms. Peterson wrote the music for it.

Ms. Peterson uses another of her talents as she paints posters for "Feiffer's People". (Top left) The cast included Lori Brown, Lea Ann Willuwiet, Rene Kirsch, Jane Carlbom, Shannon Richter, Lois Stverak, Roger Shull, Kelly Ruland, Dean Eisenbraun, Bonnie Strandell, Kelly White, Tammi Holsether, and Melissa Burke. We Rejoice With Song

The WHS choirs, under the direction of Ms. Carla Brucklacher, presented three concerts in '81. The first, the Christmas Concert was presented December 18. Songs such as "Children's Song of Hope", "God Bless the Children", and "Christmas was Meant for Children" brought a holiday spirit. The Mid-Winter Concert was presented March 3 amid temperatures in the 60's. Those attending were treated to "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" by the Jr. High Choir, "Pink Panther" by the Sr. High Choir, and "Rhymes and Reasons" by the Girls Ensemble among many other numbers. The Spring Concert was presented May 12.

Rodeo Club Flourishes

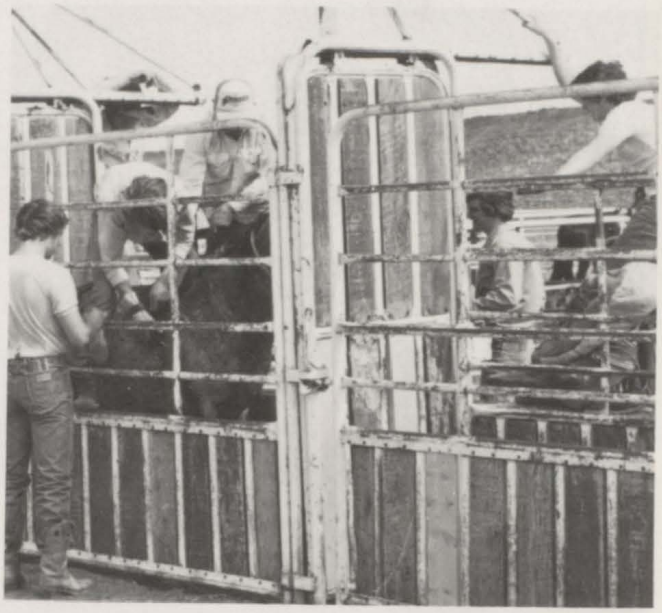

Rodeo Club has grown from eight members in 79-80 to 24 in 80-81. On March 21 they held their second annual St. Patrick's Day Dance. Casey Fortune placed first in the 1980 S. D. State High School Rodeo and went on to place fourth in the Nationals.

Pep Club Had Fun In "81"

The Pep Club worked the concession stands for football and girls' basketball. During wrestling and boys' basketball, they sold T-shirts, pins, caps and other spirit items. At various times during the year, the members got together on an evening and made posters and bulletin boards.

FHA Helps With Community Projects

The Wall Chapter of F.H.A. were involved with community projects in '81. Londa Richter set up a secret grandmother project which involved members with senior citizens. They also helped clean the town. For the first time a beef cook off and a daddy date night were held. The Wall chapter attended the state convention in Huron. The annual style show was held May 7th.

FFA Chapter Receives High Honors At State Level

The Wall Chapter of F.F.A. had a slave sale and a fruit sale which together netted them $2,100. The money was raised for the state convention in Brookings. The chapter took six teams to state competition. Three teams received high honors. Casey Fortune was awarded the State Farmer's Degree. Chris Heinrichs received a 1st in Forestry, Casey Fortune a 2nd in Beef, Grant Shearer a 2nd in Horse, and Melissa Burke a 3rd in Outdoor Recreation.

FHA Holds Style Show With Theme "Springtime In Paris"

The FHA sponsored a style show and dinner on May 7th. Clothes which the members had sewn were modeled in a Parisian atmosphere. Deocrations, including tables, umbrellas, a fountain, and spring flowers, changed the gymn into a sidewalk cafe.

Computers Add A New Dimension To Classes At WHS

Computers came to WHS for the first time during the Year of the Eagle. The three small PETs (Personal Electronic Transactor) were used extensively in the newly offered computer programming class. The business and science departments also incorporated these metallic minds. Outside of classes they were used for budgeting, recording athletic statistics and playing games like "Westward Ho!"

Annual Staff Saves Special Memories

The annual staff put in many hours completing the 1981 Eagle. After a workshop in September, they promoted sales, sold ads, and began the long process of creating and laying out the pages. The photographers faced the challenge of capturing the fleeting moments of the year—at least a part of it.

Homecoming Week Filled With Eagle Spirit

Homecoming Week, September 22 - 26, started with classes painting spirit windows. Television programs provided floats.

Many people lined the street in the warm, fall sunshine to see the floats and honor King Marty Heathershaw and Queen Lisa O'Rourke.

The spirit windows gave the team and fans extra Eagle spirit. Seniors took first! (Above) "60 Minutes is All We Need" was the theme of the senior float which took 1st place in the contest. (Below right) The bonfire blazed warmth and cheeriness into the night amid shouts and cheers of the gathered Eagles. (Below)

Happiness Is A Homecoming Victory

The scoreboard tells the story. Even in a winning season, a homecoming victory is special. For the seniors it was their last home game. Defensively the Eagles played a great game. They held the Lyman County Raiders four times on the one yard line. Pat Goldhammer played an impressive game.

We All Played A Part In Homecoming '81

Everyone did their part in making this homecoming a joyous celebration. The spirits of the Eagle fans continued to mount during the week with the preparations that culminated in coronation, the bonfire, the parade, and the game. The tri-captains praised the team. "Everyone got along well with Coach Thompson," recalls Lee Renner. Darty Saunders added it wasn't a do or die thing. Marty Heathershaw commented on the team's talent.

We Showed Appreciation At Pep Assemblies

Pep assemblies gave the students and teachers an opportunity to show support for our athletic teams, to acknowledge the accomplishments of those who represented WHS in many varied kinds of competition, and to sometimes just show appreciation for each other. The pep band and cheerleaders did their part as we showed our teams enthusiastic support before home games. Trophies that were won were presented to the school at special assemblies held to honor our achievements, and twice the teachers baked cakes to show the entire student body that they were appreciated.

Special Assemblies Are A Hit With The Students

The Singing Engineers from SDSMT made their first tour stop in Wall. They entertained us with their terrific musical performance. Donald James White II amazed the student body with illusion after illusion throughout his magic act. Naomi Gibbs presented a unique program . . . sand painting. She used sand to paint a picture while telling a story.

WHS Honors Its 57th Graduating Class

Football Team Triumphs As W.A.C. Champs

With a winning season of 7 - 0, the Wall Eagles made this year a fun and exciting one for the fans as well as the players. First year Coach Keith Thompson directed the boys in an undefeated season in which they gained the title of Western Athletic Conference Champs! Marty Heathershaw, Darty Saunders, Lee Renner and Pat Goldhammer were honored as all conference players with Jem Kjerstad and Grant Shearer receiving honorable mention. New Girls Sport Comes To Wall High

This was the first year for girls cross country at WHS, but the newcomers were soon recognized for their abilities. By the end of the season, they had received two trophies, the Three Rivers Conference Championship, placed fourth in regionals and were eleventh out of twenty schools in the state.

Valuable Experience Is Gained Through Coach Melaas

The 1980-81 season was an opportunity for many underclassmen to receive valuable game experience. They played in both the varsity and junior varsity games. This valuable experience along with summer camps, hard work, determination, and help from the parents, school, and community should get the Eagles soaring in the 81-82 season.

Wrestlers Have Soul

Boy's Track, Young But Eager

The boys' track team, made up of three freshmen, three sophomores, and one junior, appeared inexperienced. However, they showed us some remarkable results at the end of the year. Gene Drewitz broke the school record of 45'8.5" in the shot put with a throw of 45'11".

Girls' Track Team Is Young And Competitive

The girls' track team consisted of many young runners this year, but they were very competitive. The medley relay team broke the school record of 4:36.8 with a time of 4:34.5. Rhonda Lurz ran the 200-meter in 28.9 to break the old record of 29.1. Coach Merlin Doyle described them as "the hardest working" he has had in years. They should be an excellent team in the coming years.

Cheerleaders Keep The Eagles' Spirits Going

The sixth grade students completed various creative writing activities. At the first of the year they wrote plays which were performed for the fourth and fifth grades. The class studied rocks and their formations in Science. They also took a field trip with their teacher, Mr. Kitterman, to the Badlands to broaden their study of the land. The end of the year brought another trip—this time to Pierre.

Things done right by the 1980-81 fifth graders include: participation in the Homecoming Parade, a babysitting clinic, study of the Native Americans and a trip to the Wall Trading Post, writing pen pals in North Carolina, a Muster Day celebration, and a trip to Pierre.

The fourth grade class had two student teachers the first half of the year. They were Lorraine Fauske and Darla Crown. In the Homecoming Parade, they dressed up as soap boxes to illustrate the theme "Soap the Raiders." During the American Education Week observance, November 16-22, they entertained by singing "Hail South Dakota." Once a month the class enjoys cooking.

This year has meant hard work as well as much enjoyment for the third grade class. Their teacher, Ms. Anderson, and the aid, Ms. Kenoyer, have taught them how to write in cursive and read well enough so they are starting to enjoy it. The Homecoming Parade meant a lot of fun as they dressed up as different kinds of vegetables in a sandwich. Their theme was "Sandwich the Raiders." This Christmas instead of buying decorations, they made their own out of popcorn and other types of art work. Jimmy McGuire was overheard, "I didn't like stringing popcorn, because I ate all mine."

Social studies and letter writing have taken on a special meaning for the second graders this year. This year the first graders prepared their own Thanksgiving Day feast. They had stew, pumpkin bars and banana bread. In creative writing class they wrote a story about a picture they had seen. They shared gifts at their Christmas party. In January the first graders dressed up as their favorite nursery rhyme character and acted out their part.

On Halloween gentle, mild-mannered children can become almost anything. Superman and Princess Leha are really Dennis Saltzman and Jennifer Paulsen (Left)

The kindergarteners began their school careers by attending all day on Tuesdays and Thursdays the first semester. The second semester they attended on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Their first school experiences included Show and Tell, field trips within the Wall Community (the fire station and post office), and a graduation in May. They seem to have adapted quickly to school routines. This comment was overheard, "The last fire drill happened when we were having a movie—thank goodness we all had our shoes on!"

The Scenic School located in the Badlands started out the '81 school year with six children. Later three of them were unable to stay. During the year they took a field trip to Rapid City to see the Black Hills Gold factory, the Sioux Indian Museum, and the Dinosaur Park. The Halloween party was exciting, especially for the Laotian children who had never experienced it before. During the year they had enough money to purchase a ping pong table.

North Creighton hosted the Halloween party and invited Big Foote, Big White, and Deep Creek schools. Ms. Joyce Fossen from the School of Mines came to the school and gave an illustrated talk on rocks, minerals, and volcanos. A Christmas program was given at the Creighton Hall for the public. They have an award system for outstanding achievement in each subject. They also had a field trip in science and made a year book.

(Top right) Jane Carlbom dances her way through "The Bends." (Top right) Lori Brown puts it down on paper. (Above left) Brett Wilsey enjoys a Kyle White joke in art. A year seems like a very long time . . . until you look back at it. The Year of the Eagle, 1981, flew by as though on the wings of the majestic bird for which it was named. Although the sights, sounds, and special moments of 1981 will never again be exactly the same, they will always exist in the minds of those who were there. Memories last longer than a year.

With each day comes a newness;
With each dawn, a challenge.

Time never stops
It simply flows on . . . changing things.

No one can keep time still,
But memories are kept safe.

They remain as precious moments
Resisting the changing forces of time.

Yesterday's memories
And tomorrow's hopes
Mingle mysteriously
In ever-changing moments
Of your life.

And time will Tell your story
To the wind
Where it will be preserved
Forever in melody.

May the mornings
Of your tomorrows
Bring fulfillment
Of the promises
Held in you today.
