

campus supervision and support to manage long lines of students waiting to leave. In many cases, phone calls could not be logged in a timely manner, increasing the risk of miscommunication and untracked student movement.

Additionally, this pattern led to a noticeable decline in student participation in on-campus activities and school spirit events, as early dismissals became routine. During critical academic periods such as testing, the importance of assessments was often overlooked in favor of convenience, undermining the instructional focus and campus-wide expectations.

To address these issues, the in-person sign-out requirement on designated days is intended to reinforce the importance of student presence, ensure clear communication, and prioritize safety and school culture.

High school is a unique and exciting time filled with opportunities to learn, grow, and connect. At CSHS, we want all students to experience the full value and fun of being a Falcon—through academics, activities, and school spirit. Let's make the most of every day together!

On the days listed below, students must be signed out in person by a parent/guardian—even if the student drives. Phone calls, emails, or written notes will not be accepted. Please note that we may adjust dates throughout the school year.
