Cornerstone Christian School
~~ Lynden, WA ~~

Chairman's Report

Dear Members of the Cornerstone Christian School Community:

Winter has run its course for 2016, and spring has arrived with style! All around us we can see signs of renewal and new life - a wonderful time of year.

Of course, we also are keenly aware that the 2015/16 school year is rapidly drawing to a close, to the delight of all, I'm certain! On behalf of the board, I'd like to wish the staff, students, volunteers and parents a strong finish to this school year.

A very exciting detail for our school next year is the fact that our entire teaching staff is confirmed for next year, and that it will stay exactly the same as this current year! We thank the Lord for his provision for our society in this important matter, and we express our appreciation to the staff members for the work they do. We're very glad that you're all coming back this coming year!

Over the past 3 weeks, each of the Senior High School students had the opportunity to present their senior projects to the Education Committee, and a small group of others. The projects undertaken by our High School Seniors were truly impressive. They ranged from running a half marathon to restoring a 1972 Ford Gran Torino, and from volunteering at New Way Ministries to complete construction of a beautiful shed, and swapping a new engine into an older car. While the projects themselves were remarkable, what impressed me the most was the caliber of the presentations themselves. To stand before a group of peers and adults and hold their attention for 45 minutes is no small feat! But each of these students did it with poise and confidence - demonstrating the knowledge, aptitude and skills they'd learned at CCS. In addition to showing the technical merits of their projects, each of them could articulate their Christian worldview and how it affected their project. These presentations underscored just how well equipped CCS students are for their next phase in life. I wish each of you could have seen it! A hearty congratulation to the senior students themselves, and also to Mr. Chase for his excellent work in guiding these students through their projects!

Also, you will read elsewhere in the LINK about this, but it has been wonderful to see the results of the Keystone Project LLC. This group has been working diligently to build a spec house, and send the proceeds to CCS (and to do so without any risk to our school society). Details are still to be finalized, and much work is still to be done, but it appears that the first house will be a successful endeavor, and that our School Society will benefit considerably from the work of this group. Thank you to all involved! And, a friendly word of encouragement to all society members to pitch in and help at the house if you're asked!

Speaking of proceeds for the school, this year, the board conducted the pledge drive before the membership meeting, and we're glad to report that we are within $2000 of our $110,000 goal. This is a tall order, but will help us to meet our budget in a year where we have a temporary dip in tuition based income. This is a wonderful development, and we thank the Lord for his great goodness!

A reminder that there will be a membership meeting held on Tuesday May 3 in the church building. Please make it a priority to attend this meeting! The Education Committee will be hosting a presentation by Neil Dykstra (from Langley B.C.) called "No Neutral Ground", which emphasizes the ever-increasing importance of Christian Education, and how worthwhile of an endeavor it is! Additionally, we'll hear from our governor to the Teacher's College, Mrs. Debbie Johnson, about new developments in accreditation at CCRTC. Finally, we'll be asking the membership to approve the budget for next year. That has already been distributed via the church mailbox system. If you don't have a copy of the handout, please contact me, and I'll get you one!

In conclusion, we can see evidence of God's faithfulness all around us.... in the changing of the seasons, in His provision for each of us, and in His gracious provision for Cornerstone Christian School! All praise be to Him!

On behalf of the board,
Cason VanDriel

Action items were reviewed.

Henry Klos closed the meeting with prayer.

Treasurer Report

You should have a copy of the 2016-17 budget by this time. We as board are thankful for the positive response we received to our early pledge drive. Getting the commitments ahead of time enabled us to present a balanced budget and we hope that the proportions (tuition/dues, pledges, fundraising, savings) will be agreeable to everyone. Thank you for your cooperation in this process. The generous donations are a good indicator of the commitment of our community to continue operating a school where God's revealed truth is honored.

In the near future we will be distributing paper forms to verify the pledge amounts and method/timing of payments.

The Finance Committee is preparing for this year's fundraisers. There was an update on the home-building project in the church bulletin, where it was noted that the profits will be designated for non-operational expenses and/or funds. For our other fundraisers, we will be doing the golf tournament and the Homestead run again in September. We are also planning a new sandwich fundraiser for the same time of year in order to meet some of the demand for school lunches. More information will be coming on this as we firm up the plans, but at this point we anticipate a single sandwich-making "party". We are grateful to the fundraising subcommittees for their behind-the-scenes work in preparation for these events. Their careful planning and diligent work are critical to the success of the fundraisers.

-Steve H.

Ed Comm Report

Ed Comm members have the privilege each year of watching all of the Grade 12 students' Senior Project presentations. And each year we get wowed! As our God tells us, the members of the body aren't all spiritually gifted in the same way (1 Cor. 12) and the same is true with all our other gifts too. Some students will be particularly talented when it comes to academics, while others' might have great people skills, or they might have an artistic flair, or calmness under pressure, or empathy, or the ability to hunker down and diligently just get jobs done. What's wonderful about the Senior Project is that because each one is of the student's own choosing, they can pick something suited to their own particular talents. This is a chance for them to do something ambitious – beyond what they might ordinarily try on their own – knowing that they have the guidance of parents, teachers and their chosen mentor to turn to. For some this is even a life-impacting event – they chose something hard, and then impressed even themselves with what they were able to accomplish.

So parents, if you have a student entering Grade 12 next year encourage them to take on a project that will really stretch them – this is such a wonderful and rare chance for them to really test their limits even as they still have the safety net of teachers and parents to support and catch them if they overextend.

The Ed Comm is also involved in ongoing curriculum reviews, and have set out a cycle by which all the school's curriculum will be reviewed over the course of seven years. This time around it has been science, and here we've seen both the benefits of such a review and the need to continually keep reviewing material. There is, of yet, no ideal science curriculum – all have notable weaknesses, so we've had to go with one that is an improvement on what we have but could still be better. So hopefully when we review the science curriculum again in seven years there will be an even better text to choose.

One other task we've been involved in is a review of the school's mission as found in the Parent's Handbook. One of the points that can be found there is that "Parents will strive to keep educating themselves, recognizing the value of education" (2.2.1). That's an interesting thought to consider. Isn't learning something for students? Aren't we past all that now? Well, when we understand education as a matter of learning about what God is up to in the world then we can see that educating ourselves isn't something we should ever be done with. We might not have time to take a formal class – I'm deferring my piano lessons until after I've died when time won't be a concern – but we should all be eager learners. We should be interested in the world around us because it is the work of our Father in Heaven. ~ Jon D

Principal Report.....Mr. Darryn Kleyn

Dear Parents and Community Members,
What a beautiful, sunny week we could experience this past week! The sun breaking out in all its glory, after months of rain and overcast conditions, reminds me of The Son who shines His light into a dark world and into the murky recesses of our hearts. We are reminded every day, through the working of the Spirit, how much we are in need of grace. What a blessing to know that our Savior knows our needs (including forgiveness and salvation) even before we ask Him for them.

We are privileged to see evidences of His grace and blessings being poured out - also for the advancement of Reformed Education at Cornerstone Christian School. Certainly we experience it when diligent teachers, admin staff, committee members and volunteers do their tasks with a desire to serve. We also notice it at this time of the year as the community rallies to fill the call for pledges. It's wonderful to feel the support of the community – also in this tangible way!

Service

There are a few other acts of service I'd like to highlight and give thanks for.

- First of all, a number of students on our student leadership team (STAMP) were busy during their Spring break decorating the school in preparation for Spirit Week. What a sight it was when we arrived back from our holidays! The students once again went above and beyond with murals and decorations in a Peter Pan theme.

Throughout the week there were a variety of special events that we could engage in – from a popsicle hunt to group activities that began in the gym and covered the school's back field. All the teachers were tremendously impressed with those members of the STAMP team that organized everything – both in terms of decorations and activities. Well done, leaders!

- Our recent Grandparents Day was a special time! We're thankful for a great turnout and for the enthusiastic interest shown by the grandparents. Adding a special touch to the day were those who prepared and served the delicious food. Thank-you to the Home Ec class for the baking and coffee and to all the moms who made and/or served the soup.
- On Saturday the annual spring cleanup gave the school grounds a fresh look. Thank-you to the CBM and volunteers for keeping the grounds and building in tip-top shape. We have a regular stream of first-time visitors coming into the school throughout the year and many make mention of the fact that we have such beautiful facilities. The regular maintenance by the CBM and the care shown by our fantastic cleaners keeps our facilities looking very sharp.
- Finally, a hearty thank you to our volleyball coaches for their service: Alyssa Brown, Kaylene

Hofford, Jolene Vreugdenhil and Kam Veldman. The season is well underway and our students are making big strides in their understanding of the game and execution of the skills. If you're interested in checking out a game you can view the schedule at www.nwyouthvolleyball.com.

Continuous Improvement

- One of the standard items we have on our staff meeting agenda is 'lean improvements'. At that point of the agenda, the staff have the opportunity to share something they have done to make their work or working environment - more streamlined and organized. This is a way to challenge ourselves to improve what we do. We're not interested in becoming stagnant or doing things the same way we've always done it because....well, that's how we do things! Rather, we like to work collaboratively, to share ideas - so that our education program becomes stronger.
- The Strategic Planning Committee is also using this notion to plan ahead for the future. The committee has been busy devising a survey to put out to the members of the school community sometime in May. We're interested in receiving your feedback on a broad range of topics related to the school. The data received will give the committee an idea of which areas need to be discussed in more detail in face-to-face meetings with school society members. I am very thankful for the board's desire to plan for the future and for the diligent work of the members of this committee to 'make it happen' behind the scenes.
- Another sub-committee of the board that has been busy over the past few months is the Evaluation Committee. Their mandate involves the preparation of guidelines and tools that can be used for evaluating the administration and the school. Each board committee will also receive a set of questions to self-evaluate and to write an annual report to the board.

Events

- Early Monday morning, on April 18, the excited juniors and seniors embarked on a trip to DC and surrounding area, together with four chaperones. Check out dctrip2016.blogspot.com in order to see regular updates during their trip. They hope to return on April 27. What a privilege to be allowed to take part in something like this! Thank you to all who have helped make it possible.
- The seniors wrapped up their Senior Project and presentation last week. Once again, this event was an absolute pleasure to be a part of - both for the staff and the Education Committee. The students prepared well and delivered a fine product!

- As we begin the final push to the finish line - we have number of events that some of our students will be involved in. Here are some dates for your calendar:
  - in-school competition for speech contest - this coming Tuesday, April 26, in the ARC building starting at 12:45pm
  - speech competition - Friday, April 29, in Yarrow CanRC starting at 7:30 pm
  - sports day - Friday, May 27, at Bender Fields
  - track/field grades 6/7 Monday, June 6 at Rotary Stadium, Clearbrook
  - 8th grade graduation - Friday, June 3, in school gym
  - 12th grade graduation - Friday, June 10, in ARC church building.

Health

Ruben Bosscher has been home a few times in between treatments. We are thankful that he receives excellent care in Seattle and pray that the continuing treatments under the Lord's blessing, bring the desired healing. Ruben - we wish you continued strength as you bear the burden of continued treatments.

Condolences

Some of our students have been confronted with the brokenness of life in old age. The grandfathers of the Faber, VanDriel and Hicks family's has been promoted to glory. For both it was an end to suffering as the earthly 'tent' was breaking down. We pray for strength for these families who will certainly miss a loved parent and grandparent.

Summer Approaching

It's just a short 7 weeks till the end of the school year. We wish our teachers and students strength, diligence and focus to finalize the work that still needs to be done. May our work continue to be an act of service and thankfulness to our Father in Heaven.

Ladies Aid Report

Spring brings a flurry of activity and busyness. We are thankful for all the volunteer hours that go into all these fundraisers and activities- there are the committee members who spend hours planning and carrying out these fundraisers; the kids who go door-to-door selling certificates; the many volunteers who work shifts at the fundraisers; those that support financially. We could not do it without your tireless efforts...volunteers are so necessary yet so often unnoticed. So here we take the time to say THANK YOU! God has richly blessed our community with people so willing to give freely of their time and talents.

Lots of fun was had at the Family Volleyball Tournament! About $300 was raised, and it was a good time of fellowship and healthy competition.

Our VanWingerden certificates is still an ongoing fundraiser. If you still have unsold certificates, please return them asap; if you are still hoping to sell some, there are lots left-contact Debby L. or Melanie K!

The Plant Sale is approaching quickly! Mark your calendars for April 29 and 30 and come on out to support the school while beautifying your garden-it's a win-win! There are still some volunteer shifts available- please contact Jeanette B.

Save your treasures for our annual Garage Sale to be held on May 6 and 7 at the Kleyn residence.

The Volunteer Blitz poster will be put up between May 2-13, so you will have the opportunity then to sign up for your preferred fundraising activity for the next year! If you are not at school, you can email Kaylene at khofford@gmail.com or text her at 303.3085.

Home Building Project

The Keystone Project, LLC home is a fundraising project with Cornerstone Christian School as its sole beneficiary. Since the concept was first brought up two years ago much has happened. As most of you know, the decision to explore this opportunity was made this fall. Following that, planning began to set up an independent entity which would own and manage the project; this was done to protect the school and society. Once that was established a house plan was adopted, a lot was secured, and the work began under the stewardship of five very qualified men. Everything has gone pretty smoothly since. Volunteers are involved on a regular basis with most showing up on Saturdays. A wonderful and unexpected blessing is that we sold the house a couple of weeks ago! While this takes some of the uncertainty out of the project it adds the pressure of being accountable to another party during the building...but that is all worth it! In sum, if things continue as is, we expect to easily exceed our original profit projections and we will be able to make a disbursement to the school sometime this calendar year.

As to how this money should be used, after consulting with the lenders, the general consensus is that this money would preferably not be used for operational expense but rather be designated for special purposes such as the Endowment Fund, Special Projects, or future Capital Projects.

We pray that God continues to bless these efforts in the coming months!

For those interested in keeping up with the project please follow along at www.facebook.com/ccskeystoneproject. If you'd like to check it out in person you are welcome to stop by, particularly on Saturdays when most of the work is being done by the volunteers. The address is 2050 Woodsman Drive.

From our 8th grade classroom:

Communication is a complex task, one that's not easily learnt. When translating inner speech into meaningful symbols that effectively communicates a message, there is a multifarious spectrum of concepts to consider, ranging from using the correct symbol, to proficient use of semantics, graphaphonics and syntax. Couple this with the ability to captivate, control, manipulate and amuse your audience's thoughts and understandings, this adds to the complexity.

The eighth graders consider these elements as they briefly reflect on their 8 years of elementary education:

Adam Sytsma

The past 8 years of elementary education.
In first grade we were taught how to read and write,
And that's the reason we're so bright!
In second grade Mrs. Chase came to town.
It was then that we got our multiplications down!
In third we got a frog,
That sat on a log.
Fourth grade was a blast,
But that's in the past!
Fifth grade brought tension.
Which also brought detentions!
Sixth was new,
But not so cool.
Seventh and eighth
Brought an end to our elementary years.

Katelyn Berends

Eight years of education
Filled with work and appreciation.
Looking up to older children,
Learning lessons worth a billion.
Bible, History, and so much more
Some things we chose simply to ignore.

We did what we could,
Disagreed and understood.
Now we're standing here today
More than ready to graduate.
A few more weeks of elementary
Then we shall make a leaping entry.
Into high school and beyond
Not sure if we will be so fond!

William Davis

Second grade was a blast, but that is in the past.
Even though I joined late, I still had a clean slate.
Third grade was a new experience but even though
It was hard at times, the teachers had patience.
Fourth grade a new teacher came to town wearing
A bright golden crown. Miss. Kleyne was her name.
The school had a new flame.

Fifth grade was the year of chaos, new students and new teachers arrived.
Fun and games were left behind, math and science grew harder.
The teachers struggled to keep their heads above the water.
Sixth grade came quickly the students were more and more briskly.

Seventh grade was the year where homework would appear.
Every day for hours and hours math, English, history the list could go on and on.
The eighth graders would make fun because we had homework for days.
Eighth grade came and the memories returned; now the other years seemed not so bad, and I realized how much fun we had.

Shanna Leyenhorst

Looking back on all 8 years,
Through the fun times and the fears,
I see that through all the hard work days,
Our class has not yet given up, our socializing ways.
From Kindergarten and through to grade eight,
It seems that talking will be our fate!

We know our teachers got frustrated
Trying to keep us educated.
Even through those stressful times,
We manage to pull off a few minor crimes!
Just when our teacher thought we were lost,
We reminded them of how much they cost.

We thank our teachers for all their hard work.
Even when we couldn't quite wipe off that smirk.
For their time, we are greatly indebted.
And their effort for us will not be regretted.
God has worked in them, and through them in us.
And so these past years,
have been a huge plus!

Alexa Veldman

Eight years filled with imagination,
Worked through in determination.
With various teachers along the way,
Many of which got grumpy by May :)
It wasn't their fault.
We were not students to exalt.
No matter how good or bad,
We were always glad
When that bell rang.
Sending us out of the school with a large clang!

Over the years we've passed notes
That have included quite some quotes.
At the same time getting taught
We learnt a lot.
Elementary we're getting out of your hair,
High school, you better BEWARE!

Emily Faber

Eight years of learning and education dealt with hard work and dedication.
Mastering tasks taught us knowledge,
Anticipating the day we would go off to college.
Elementary was an extraordinary blast,
Although as we graduate it will become our past.
As we transition into freshmen
We will try not to cause too many detentions.

As we leap into high school like a fox,
We will always remember to think outside of the box!
Although some of us may be nervous,
We will try our best to be of good service.
As we let our light shine to those around us,
We will put all our strength and trust in Jesus.

Julia VanDriel

Are you excited for this upcoming fall?
A question asked by many and all,
I am excited and a little afraid.
Are we really ready for the ninth grade?
Then I take a moment and look back on all eight years
I am reminded why we should forget all our worries and fears.
Every day in all my years of education
Have taught me that in any situation
Trust in the Lord and He will be there;
We were all placed in His loving care.
Through the years, friendships were made,
None of which will ever fade.
Teachers have taught us things we will never forget.
No, not just our numbers and the alphabet,
They were telling the coming generation
Of our undeserved salvation.
