From The Chairman.....Mr. James Bareman

What a blessing it is to be able to begin this column by taking note of the fact that all of our planned teaching staff for this year are now in place! A hearty welcome to Mr. Tom Vanderhorst, who by now has a few weeks of teaching under his belt! Also, many thanks to Mrs. Sara Miedema and Mrs. Lynette Van Hofwegen for doing a great job of getting our 5/6 class off to a great start this year.

From what I've heard and seen, it seems that things are generally going well at school. A good spirit of cooperation prevails amongst the staff, and students appear to be hitting their stride. Kudos to Mr. Bouwman and the rest of the staff – your hard work is paying off under God's blessing! Thanks also to our staff members for hosting the Parent Information Evening in early October. It's a neat way for parents to get a better sense of how teachers approach their instruction, and to get a sense of their passion for their work.

A little over a week ago, the broader Cornerstone Christian community had opportunity to celebrate and give thanks for God's blessings on the first ten years of our school's operation. It was an enjoyable evening with a nice balance of reminiscing and looking to the future. A sizable crowd was on hand for the occasion as well, including a good number of former students and teachers, all of which added to the festive atmosphere. Thanks once again to the organizing committee: Mr. Otto Bouwman, Mr. Henry Klos, Mrs. Bernice Vreugdenhil, and Mrs. Leanne Veldman, and to our distinguished speakers: Mr. Henk Berends, Mr. Henry Klos, Mrs. Janice DeMooy, and Mrs. Lisa Pelleboer. Thanks also to all who helped with setup, decorating, cleanup, and refreshments!

Looking back to September, congratulations are in order to our Golf Tournament Fundraiser committee for hosting another very successful tournament! A lot of work goes into planning and executing these events and, judging by the preliminary results published elsewhere, the committee has evidently done a great job of pulling it all together. I'm pretty sure that with the momentum for this fundraiser being established, there will be opportunity for others to lend a hand with organization in the future! It was also good to see a tradition building of having some of the high school students help out with this activity. Thanks to Mr. John Doornbos, Mr. Harvey Pelleboer, Mr. Ryan VanDelft, Mr. Marty VanDriel, Miss Karrissa Veldman, and Mr. Marty Vreugdenhil for all their efforts, and to all who contributed, sponsored, or participated to make this event a success!

When the previous Link came out, Mr. VanderHorst was still waiting to hear back from the U.S. Customs and Immigration Service on his visa application. I thought it would be useful to briefly touch on how that played out, because it highlights an important point to ponder. Back when the board offered Mr. VanderHorst the teaching job, we immediately began applications for two different visas, acting on the advice of our immigration attorney. The first, known as an R-1 or Religious Worker visa, had the potential, if approved, to allow Mr. VanderHorst to be present when school started. The second, known as an H-1b, a visa category subject to quotas and depending on specialized training, would only allow Mr. VanderHorst to arrive in October at the earliest, when the new quota started. It was ultimately the latter Visa that was approved.

The point that I wanted to highlight has to do with the R-1 Visa. In order for such a Visa to be approved, the case needs to be made that our teachers are engaged in work that constitutes religious instruction. Ultimately, the USCIS officer who reviewed our application was not convinced that was the case, even though we had been granted such a petition on multiple previous occasions. But, the question to ponder is, how do we, as society, view the work of our teachers? Is it religious instruction? I think this is a question we do well to be busy with. In a chapter entitled "What is Education" in his book The Case for Classical Christian Education, Douglas Wilson argues the case that "a consistent Christian pedagogy sees education as inherently religious, as something that involves the whole person in the context of the whole universe, a universe created by the triune God." Our Lord Jesus Christ is Lord of all, and that necessarily means every area of our lives, and all that we do. That being the case, education that seeks to prepare children to fulfill their task in this world must be thoroughly grounded in a Christian worldview. The exciting challenge that we are involved with at Cornerstone is working out what that means, and bringing it to life in the classroom.

Looking ahead to November, please make note that the Annual Meeting of the Cornerstone Christian School Society will be held, D.V., on Tuesday, November 27, at 8:00 in the basement of the American Reformed Church building. Please mark the date on your calendar and plan to attend. A meeting agenda and other materials as needed will be provided at a time a bit closer to the meeting date.

May our Heavenly Father continue to bless the work going on at the school, that it may truly be to the glory and honor of his name!

From The Ed Comm.....Mrs. Hannah Buitenbos

With the 2012-2013 school year well under way, it's time the Ed Com gives you an update.

We are thankful to report that all seems to be running smoothly. We have met in August and again in October along with the principal to receive and provide direction on school and classroom activities, as well as any requests and challenges that may have been encountered. The curriculum coordinator has provided us with regular updates on the progress he and the staff are making. We thank them for their dedication to their work and for the extra hours spent on benefiting the new and future staff with the direction and material outlined in each of their subjects.

We have recently reviewed the Saxon Math program and since that has been completed, we have moved on to the review of the Open Court Language Arts program. Our goal with these reviews is to ensure that they still meet the needs of the student body.

Visits to the classrooms continue. Our recent visit was met with well-managed classrooms, enthusiastic student participation and teacher instruction.

We are thankful along with the whole school community that our 5/6 teacher, Tom VanderHorst, is no longer waiting for visa approval, but can now enjoy being in the classroom. We are grateful to the Lord for this! Let us all continue to work together for Reformed education and pray for God's care over our efforts.

From the CBM.....Mr. Tim Faber

The CBM continues to be busy with many odds and ends. It seems like there is always something that needs a little attention. We often get little reminders in our mailbox box in the staff room for things that need our attention. We presume most of these come from the "on duty" cleaners, which is a good thing. I would urge everyone, if you see something that either does not work or if something is loose or looks like it may turn into a problem down the road, please do not hesitate to jot us a note when you see it and slip it into our mailbox. Or if it is more convenient of course you may also let one of the CBM representatives know, (listed in the directory elsewhere in this Link) so that together we can catch things that need to be addressed sooner than later. Speaking of the cleaners every week, thanks to all for your diligent and hard work to keep the building sparkling clean every day.

A few items to note: we had to remove the side basketball hoops and re-weld the backboards where the rim is attached. We would ask that the taller members of our community try to refrain from jumping up and hanging on these rims. The weight on the rims causes the metal to fatigue over time. The rest of the gym seems to be holding up well, despite the amount of use this facility gets. What a blessing that we have such a facility, that we can use for our sports programs for our students, and also for our adult community. We are thankful that those that do use the facility do take good care of it. Keep it up! We received news during our yearly fire protection inspection that our fire pump is in need of some maintenance, and we hope to have that done ASAP. The storage container south of the water tank is nearing completion and almost ready for use. We will use this container to house our lawn mower, yard tools, fertilizer etc... Thank you to Trivan for donating this container. When we did not have this storage available, the lawnmower was stored in the Bouwman's barn.

Thank you to the Bouwman's for allowing us to store the lawnmower under cover. Much appreciated! On a related matter I would like to thank Mr. Henry Veldman, for mowing the lawn. As this job comes to an end, or at least it should soon with the cooler weather setting in, we thank you very much for doing this work diligently every week this past summer.

All in all it takes a team to tackle all of the chores, and we appreciate everyone's participation very much. Excellent work everyone!

Thank you, CBM Committee.

From the IT Committee.....Mr. Tim Faber

Greetings from the IT committee. The IT committee looks after all of the computers, laptops and projectors in the school. As I'm sure most of you know, we have converted the former computer lab to another instructional classroom space. In lieu of the desktop computers we have now gone to a mobile computer lab, with laptops. The laptops are stored in a heavy duty cart that gets wheeled to the classroom needing laptops. So far we have heard very good reviews with this process. We would like to stress to the students, to please follow the instruction you have been given on taking good care of these laptops. We hope to use these for many years down the road, so please treat them as if they are your own. I'm sure your teachers are reminding you of this from time to time...

Finally I would like to thank Mr. Marissen, for all of your help. As the resident computer guru at the school, you often go above and beyond to make sure that all of the equipment is running smoothly. Often you take care of issues before they reach the IT Committee table. Thank you very much! The committee has also had to lean on a few computer "experts" in the community from time to time to make sure everything gets set up properly. Thank you very much to those who answer this call. We appreciate your help very much.

Thank you, IT Committee.

From The Principal.....Mr. Otto Bouwman

Much learning could happen in our classrooms during a beautiful early fall. We deliberately need to keep thanking God for his continued blessings that he pours down on us. As supporters of this school, we have much to be thankful for.

Thank You!

Last weekend we could celebrate ten years of operation of Cornerstone Christian School. Admittedly, those ten years finished up a few months ago, but nonetheless it was great to be able to thank God and reminisce together. Thank you to all who helped make the evening a memorable one. Particularly, a big shout-out goes to a bunch of Cornerstone graduates who did a wonderful job decorating the facilities in such a festive fashion. You, along with everyone else who contributed, made the evening a successful one. Great job, everyone! That evening provided not only reason for gratitude for past blessings, but also encouragement to continue to be faithful in continuing the work that needs to be done in the future. Once again: thank you to all who made the evening a success.

Thanks are also in order to the Peace Arch Performers and Lynden Festival Singers. Recently the school received a check from their organizing committee, along with a substantial check for "your school's Arts program, with the desire that it may enhance your students' opportunities to foster and grow their interests in performing arts, to the praise of His glory." What a tremendous encouragement! Thank you, heartily, Mrs. Kuik, and everyone else who participated in that production. It is great to see such evidences of support for the school's program.

Another group that ought to be acknowledged is the Golf Tournament Committee. Thanks to educational leadership, students at the sophomore and junior levels are a little bit closer to accomplishing their goal of gathering funding for another planned trip to DC about 18 months from now – and that's saying nothing of the huge financial donation you have been able to gather for the school's budget. Thank you, everyone, for your contributions in this regard as well!

Teaching

As most Cornerstone supporters are aware, securing teachers is not always a very easy task. The challenge involves several steps, one of which is making sure that potential teachers are allowed to work in the United States. For those without previous work authorization, that can be a problem. Earlier this fall, an R-1 visa for Tom VanderHorst was rejected by the American authorities. We had previously been advised that R-1 visas were generally becoming increasingly difficult to obtain, but had always been able to secure them. I'm saddened by the recent rejection, because it gives evidence that our American society is less and less able and willing to understand the centrality of the Christian faith in our personal and community lives. It all seems to mean that it's going to be more and more difficult for us to secure teachers with a Canadian Reformed background. I really wish I could present this challenge in a more positive light, but I'm not sure how to do that. How good to confess and be convinced that God will supply Cornerstone's needs!

Having said all of the above, we were delighted on Thursday, October 4th, when we learned that Tom VanderHorst's H-1b visa had been approved. We were very grateful that Mrs. Miedema, Mrs. VanHofwegen, and Mrs. Bareman had been so willing and so able to ensure that the teaching could carry on so smoothly in the regular teacher's absence. Now that the regular instructor is in the classroom and the staffroom, we have a full complement of staff; it sure is a blessing!

Perhaps it's helpful to share with everyone who is all currently teaching at Cornerstone, so that everyone gets as clear a picture as possible of what goes on inside your school.

- The grade 1/2 class is a very large one, with 28 students. Their home teacher is Antina Chase, who each morning teaches Bible to the combined class, and math to each grade individually. During the afternoons, Antina also teaches science/geography to this combined class. Another 1/2 teacher is Janet Faber. Many of you came to our Parent Information Evening earlier this month, and were able to witness her passion for teaching language arts to each of these grades individually. (While Janet teaches LA to the one grade, Antina teaches math to the other one.) During the afternoons, Janet also teaches art and music to the combined class. Rounding off the afternoon instruction to these students, Jenny Tiemeyer helps them develop their phys ed skills and historical awareness.
- Moving on to the 3/4 class, which is made up of 17 students: Laetisia Kleyn is the homeroom teacher there, taking care of instruction in almost all subjects. However, because we desire to teach language arts individually to each grade, while she teaches LA to 4th grade, Jenny Tiemeyer takes the third graders under her wing. Since LA instruction takes about 400 minutes per week, this is a sizeable portion of Jenny's task at Cornerstone.
- Now that Tom VanderHorst has arrived, he has the dubious distinction of being the only teacher in the school to be responsible for the progress of all the students in his classroom in all the subjects. He spends all day in the 5/6 classroom, with his 18 students.
  - Moving up, the 7th/8th grade class has numerous teachers. The homeroom teacher, Darryn Kleyn, sets the tone for the class of 18 and takes care of all the subjects that are not listed below. Debbie Johnson comes in three times in order to teach the history program, and Debbie Faber comes in once a week to teach art. As well, almost every day Jack Marissen teaches science to this group. Lastly, I have the opportunity to introduce these students twice a week to the joys of playing music together in a band.
  - With regards to the 9th/10th graders, which is a very large class of 30 students, Jack Marissen helps them develop their math, science, and computer skills. (The science class that they are taking is a lab-based chemistry course, which requires occupying the former band room in the school's east wing.) This year Wayne Chase is teaching them reformed studies and American history. In addition to the English course that I offer these students, I also teach band to this group. On Thursdays, Debbie Faber packs all 30 students into her art room in order to help them develop their skills and appreciation in this area. Lastly, Darryn keeps teaching the PE program to these students.

- At the junior/senior level, Wayne Chase leads the way teaching reformed studies and world history to the all 17 students. He also teaches algebra II to the juniors, while Liliana Polinder teaches Spanish to the seniors. Then, while Liliana teaches Spanish to the juniors, the seniors have an opportunity to learn pre-calculus from Jack Marissen. (A few students take business math courses under the tutelage of Jenny Tiemeyer, stretching Jenny from one end of the school to the other.) Jack also teaches chemistry to these students, Darryn teaches PE, I teach band to those interested, and Wayne runs the work experience and senior project programs. Lastly, this year I am teaching American literature to this group.

While some might instinctively question the wisdom of having numerous teachers take care of a class, our experience suggests that multiple teachers can work well – very well as a matter of fact – if and when there are clear channels of frequent communication between the participants. From my perspective, communication between all the teachers appears to be working very well, so our students are well-served by having numerous teachers – each with his/her own gifts and insights.

Of course the above description lists only staff in charge of particular programs. That says nothing yet about the plethora of volunteers who come faithfully to help out so many of our students in so many ways. Thank you, everyone – paid staff and volunteers – for continuing to provide wholesome instruction to our students in all the different subject areas.

And if someone begins wondering whether or not all the available teaching spaces are being used as fully as possible in our beautiful building, rest assured: our current large group of students – 128 of them all – is really filling the place up. As a matter of fact, the band classes are being taught in the church's auditorium because we no longer fit in the school. Next year we are anticipating additional pressure points related to teaching space, especially with some of our large classes (particularly this year's first grade and tenth grade, both with 16 students) moving through the system.

Rounding Off

At the end of this week high school students expect to receive their report cards, signaling the end of the first quarter. That will be followed up by parent/teacher conferences. A few weeks later, it will be the turn of elementary grades to go through the same exercise. Report cards take a tremendous effort to complete, and the teachers really appreciate the opportunity to connect with all parents to discuss your children's progress. Please take the opportunity to liaise with the teachers for the well-being of your children. Thank you for your continued support. May God continue to bless each one of us in our respective roles.

Athletic Report.....Mr. Darryn Kleyn

Welcome to a new issue of the Link. It doesn't seem that long ago that we were in basketball season and now we are on the cusp of another season! The students are certainly privileged to have the opportunity to be involved in school sports again right in our own gym.

Soccer

First things first: the grade 7/8 students have enjoyed a winning soccer season. We've played against our old 'rivals' in Ebenezer, Bellingham and Oak Harbor Christian Schools. They are always very welcoming and our students have enjoyed applying the skills and game strategy they have learnt in a game situation. We also slipped in a game against Credo (8th grade) and were thankful for the solid competition they served up. As a team we have enjoyed our time together building team spirit, taking on leadership responsibilities and learning life lessons. We are thankful for the efforts of Mr. Klos in refereeing our home games – even when it was bitterly cold running around in shorts. ☺

Basketball

Next week our high school students begin their basketball practices. With a big intake of boys into ninth grade – it's highly probable that there will be three high school boys' teams this year. On the girls side we'll continue to have one team. Thankfully, we have enough coaches to cover the teams; it's a wonderful reality for all the students that are eager to play. No cuts required! The ninth grade boys will be coached by the father-son duo of Ken and Kyle Bosscher. (They will also coach the 7/8 boys). The two teams made up of players from 10th through 12th grade will be coached by Marty Vreugdenhil. We are delighted to have a host of recent graduates 'signed up' to coach the high school girls' team. Johanna Bareman, Kara Faber, Sarah Hicks and Janita Willis have been found willing to combine forces to coach the team and Derek Willis will serve as a mentor to them. You might be wondering where our previous trusty-ole-pro high school girls coaches fit into the picture. They have decided to take on the grade 7/8 girls this year. We are certainly glad that Janice Dykstra and Bernice Vreugdenhil are staying in the coaching ranks!

The Northwest Youth Basketball League will be up and about again this year to give our high school teams an outlet to play. We are currently taking registrations for teams. As always you can follow their progress at www.nwyouthbb.com. Our middle school teams will have a full schedule playing against Ebenezer, Bellingham, and Oak Harbor Christian schools as well as Skagit Adventist and possibly some AAU teams. We look forward to an enjoyable season! If you have some time up your sleeve and would like to help out in some capacity during the busy basketball season we'd love to hear from you.

No doubt you will read about this elsewhere too – but we want to thank the CBM for their diligent efforts in keeping the gym maintained. They have taken down a bunch of hoops and backboards and strengthened them with some solid welds. The bleachers run in and out more smoothly nowadays and the teachers in the lower elementary look forward to using some new hoops that can be setup in brackets mounted on the wall at 8 feet. Fantastic job, fellas!

As we embark on another busy winter sports season we acknowledge and confess that “our help comes from the LORD, who made heaven and earth”. It is through His grace that we are able to live and breathe and give the glory due His name. May we also do that as we participate in our athletic activities this winter!

Quad-School Spelling Bee

It's official! We're looking forward to participating in a Spelling Bee with our sister schools in Canada in February 2013, DV. A few teachers north of the line have been participating in various community spelling bees with their students over the years. William of Orange will host this inaugural event and we'll be following the lead of Mrs. Lyn Metzlar-Leyenhorst who has plenty of experience when it comes to running a spelling bee. The students from grade 4-7 will be eligible to participate and in due time we'll have our own school-wide spelling bee to determine who will represent the school at the event next year. The excitement is building and we look forward to priming the students in the coming months.

Fine Arts Evening.....Debbie Faber & Otto Bouwman

Students, parents, and grandparents: here is an opportunity for you! We are giving you some advanced notice to participate in our biennial Visual Fine Arts evening on Friday, March 2, 2013. You are being invited to submit a painting, a sculpture, a sewing item, a drawing, photography etc. that can be put on display that evening in the gym. This is a wonderful chance for you to showcase and share your talents with others. Students will also enter and display three of their favorite projects or artwork.

Here are a few guidelines to follow,

- *deadlines are Feb. 22

- *artwork has to be made/painted within the last two years

- *limit of 3 pieces of artwork

Any questions please contact Debbie Faber.

On the music side of things, that evening the bands will play, and we are hoping for small groups of students to also come forward and entertain. Piano players - please step forward! Other instrumentalists - show your creative genius!

Further details of the evening will become clearer as time goes on, but we are looking forward to enjoying an evening in celebration of the arts.

From The Ladies Aid.....Mrs. Sharon Veldman

Happy Fall to everyone! A big welcome first of all to Janice Demooy and Erika Postmus for joining our ladies aid board, I'm sure you are as excited as we are. Thank you to our retiring board members Lisa Pelleboer and Hannah Buitenbos for all your positive energy and hard work.

Already the apple pie and veggie pack fundraisers are history. A big thank you to the ladies who put their time and energy into these events to make them a success. We made approximately 453 veggie packs with a profit of +/- $800. Not bad for one full day of hard work!

There are still 14 basic packs available as well as 4 regular deluxe and 19 deluxe without celery. We also have 2 special bags of just red peppers. These are $2 each. Apple Pies are also available $8 for a large 9" pie. Stop by the school kitchen freezer and leave your payment in the Ladies Aid slot in the staff room.

We look forward to making wreaths and croquettes. We are still looking for some help on the croquette committee. If you are able to help out, please talk to Erika P. Also, stay tuned for news on our 'gas reimbursement' program.

We are looking into making this available to drivers for sports activities and field trips, paying per mile on 25 miles or more. More details to follow
