

Fresh off being named the 2025 GHSA/GACA AAAA Coach of the Year, Jamie Wagner is set to begin his fifth season at the helm of the Blessed Trinity Titans baseball program—a program he’s been part of since their first playoff appearance in 2003.

Wagner, a staple of the BT dugout for more than two decades, spent 19 seasons as the Titans’ pitching coach before taking over as head coach. Since then, he’s compiled an impressive 110-40 record, guiding Blessed Trinity to three region titles in just four seasons.

2025 Wagner’s Titans capped off a 32-9 campaign with a dramatic walk-off win in Game 3 of the AAAA State Championship, edging out Cartersville 7-6 in extra innings to bring home the title.

The Titans garnered national attention this past season, earning post-season top-20 rankings from both Perfect Game (#14) and MaxPreps (#19). Their consistency remains unmatched in Georgia high school baseball—2025 marked the program’s 19th straight 20-win season and 23rd consecutive playoff appearance in their 25-year history.

Wagner's accolades reflect his impact he had on staff for BT’s first-ever playoff run in 2003 and their inaugural state championship in 2006. As pitching coach, he helped guide the Titans to back-to-back state titles in 2014 and 2015, with runner-up finishes in 2016 and 2017. His knack for developing elite arms has been a hallmark of the program’s sustained excellence. Coach Wagner was named Region Coach of the Year in 2023, 2024, and 2025, Georgia Dugout Club Assistant Coach of the Year in 2013 and 2019, and AAA State Assistant Coach of the Year honors in 2006, 2014, and 2015.

Coach Wagner is originally from Scotia (Schenectady County), New York and came to Georgia on scholarship to play baseball for South Georgia College. Wagner is a graduate of the University of West Georgia and is department chair for BT’s Health and Physical Education department. Jamie and his wife Joanna and three children reside in Woodstock, Georgia.