

CFISD Reading IV: Read 180 Scope and Sequence (2025–2026)

HMH Read 180

HMH Read 180 is an intensive reading intervention program designed to support students who are reading below grade level. Through personalized instruction, engaging texts, and adaptive technology, Read 180 helps students build foundational skills in reading comprehension, vocabulary, fluency, and writing. The program meets students where they are and accelerates their progress, giving them the tools they need to become confident, independent readers.

HS Reading Elective TEKS

The student uses a variety of word recognition strategies. The student is expected to:

(A) apply knowledge of letter-sound correspondences, language structure, and context to recognize words; and

(B) use reference guides such as dictionaries, glossaries, and available technology to determine pronunciations of unfamiliar words.

(2) The student acquires an extensive vocabulary through reading and systematic word study. The student is expected to:

(A) expand vocabulary by reading, viewing, listening, and discussing;

(B) determine word meanings through the study of their relationships to other words and concepts such as content, synonyms, antonyms, and analogies;

(C) recognize the implied meanings of words such as idiomatic expressions, homonyms, puns, and connotations;

(D) apply the knowledge of roots, affixes, and word origins to infer meanings; and

(E) use available reference guides such as dictionary, glossary, thesaurus, and available technology to determine or confirm the meanings of new words and phrases.

(3) The student reads for a variety of purposes with multiple sources, both narrative and expository. The student is expected to:

(A) read functional texts to complete real-world tasks such as job applications, recipes, and product assembly instructions;

(B) read to complete academic tasks;

(C) read using test-taking skills such as highlighting, annotating, previewing questions, noticing key words, employing process of elimination, allotting time, and following directions;

(D) read to gain content/background knowledge as well as insight about oneself, others, or the world; and

(E) read for enjoyment.

(4) The student comprehends texts using effective strategies. The student is expected to:
