

German II Syllabus

Course Description/Goals:

German II reviews what was learned in German I and continues to build the skills across all four language skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing, with emphasis on the ability to communicate orally. A student's proficiency level is developed through age-level and culturally authentic resources to enable students to participate in dialogues about familiar situations, express and support opinion or preferences using expanded vocabulary, through short statements and complex sentences in written and oral responses. This course is enhanced with a variety of print, digital, audio, and audiovisual materials to support language development. Students in German II are expected to reach a novice high to intermediate low level of language proficiency at completion of study.
