Taylor Williams

Taylor, my beautiful baby boy, I've told myself for 18 years now that our adventure was still getting started and you would always stay that sweet and funny little boy the world fell in love with. It seems I looked away for only a few seconds for my happy, sweet and funny little boy to grow up into a smart, handsome and loving man as well as one of my most favorite humans I've ever had the privilege of knowing. The fact that I got to be your mom through it all, there is no greater gift in all the world. I am so proud of you and all that you have faced, all you have accomplished, and who you have become and I thank you so much for allowing me to be a part of this journey. Now the time has come for you to embark on a brand new adventure. You will be faced with challenges on this road and at times you may feel unprepared for what comes next. Just remember, even the deepest valleys are meant to prepare you to climb the tallest mountains ahead, the sun will always rise tomorrow and the day after that and the day after that, always show gratitude for both the big and small things, practice humility over the need to be right, have courage in the face of fear, do what is right over what is easy and never forget how to stand your ground. I will always be in your corner if you should need a hand, but more importantly, I will never stop cheering you on as your mom, your friend, and forever your greatest fan. Congratulations my sweet Taylor, I will always love you this much!

Madisson Cearley

Dear Madisson,
Congratulations on your graduation! We couldn't be more proud of all that you have accomplished. This is a time to celebrate your hard work, dedication, and perseverance! As your determination to succeed has been evident throughout your journey, you have faced challenges with grace and rose above all obstacles to exceed with excellence. We have confidence that you will continue to accomplish great things in the future and undoubtedly make a positive impact on the world around you. Please stay true to yourself and follow your passions. It feels like only yesterday you were picking dandelions during softball games and wearing princess dresses. Time has flown by so quickly. As you step into the next chapter of your life, remember to hold onto the values and lessons that have shaped you into the remarkable person you are today. Embrace new challenges with courage, face setbacks with determination, and never lose sight of your faith and dreams. As you can do all things through Christ who strengthens you, Philippians 4:13. Maddy - We are so thankful and blessed to have such an amazing granddaughter. Thank you for inspiring all of those around you!
With all our love, Grandma and Papa
