Comments:

Teachers have been working without a contract. For the board to claim that there is no money to give teachers a livable salary, and to attempt to micromanage teachers' prep time is an insult to the professionals who make this district work. Dr. Moore an the board speak extensively about their appreciation and respect for teachers in the district, but their unwillingness to provide a wage increase that keeps up with inflation demonstrates a total disregard for teachers' needs. Leave our prep alone, and give us our well-deserved raise, now!

Comments:

As a parent of two students at Buri Buri Elementary, I am very concerned about the lack of progress in raising our teachers' salaries. We moved here so that our kids could attend schools with qualified, experienced teachers. But if the salary remains low (and benefits costs remain high) many of our amazing teachers will leave the district. The effective teaching teams we now enjoy will be disrupted and our kids will have many inexperienced or underqualified teachers as the district scrambles to hire. This is what has happened in San Bruno. Everyone I know who lives there is trying to move because their teachers are leaving. Their payscale is very low, so anyone with an opportunity elsewhere will leave. Please please please don't let this happen to our district. I love this city and my kids have thrived (even during covid!) in the schools. Please maintain our quality of education.
