Academic Magnet High School is excited to welcome Ms. Stephanie Garcia Ayala to our Science Department to teach Honors Chemistry for the 2025-2026 school year.

Having earned Bachelor's degrees in both biology and rehabilitation science from Georgia Southern University, Ms. Garcia Ayala moved to Charleston in March. She comes to Academic Magnet as a multilingual speaker with strong content area expertise. She previously served as a teacher's assistant at Haut Gap Middle School, where she endeared herself to the faculty, students, and staff, aiding in scholars' instruction and assessment.

In addition to her strong science background, Ms. Garcia Ayala brings her talents as a bilingual speaker and skills in data collection and preparing learning materials aligned with daily lesson plans to support educational objectives. She adapts swiftly to changing demands and monitors scholars to ensure understanding of content material.

Raised in Puerto Rico, Ms. Garcia Ayala enjoys doing puzzles and constructing architecture buildings with Legos in her free time. She is also a long-time runner, who is currently training for her first half marathon this November!

She is an avowed cat fanatic and owns three felines, Chicken Nugget (featured below), Perry, and Boots.
