NANCY GUERRA

SPANISH 1

BIOGRAPHY

¡Hola! My name is Nancy Guerra, and I am very excited to be your Spanish 1 teacher this year. I graduated from the University of Houston and the Universidad de Salamanca, España with a Master's degree in Literature and Spanish Linguistics. I have been teaching Spanish as a second language for over seven years, and I am passionate about helping students discover the joy of learning a new language.

In my classes, I strive to create a fun, respectful, and engaging environment where everyone feels encouraged to participate. You will find that we not only learn grammar and vocabulary but also explore the rich cultures of the Spanish-speaking world through music, traditions, and real-life communication.

Before becoming a teacher, I worked in various fields that strengthened my creativity and problem-solving skills, including entrepreneurship in the Start-up world. My life experiences have shown me that learning is a lifelong journey, and I bring that philosophy to our classroom every day.

When I'm not teaching, I love spending time with my family, traveling, reading, and exploring new foods. I believe that learning a language opens doors to new opportunities, friendships, and perspectives, and I'm excited to guide you on this adventure.

My Promise to My Students:

I promise to support you, challenge you, and believe in you every step of the way. I will make our classroom a safe place to take risks, make mistakes, and grow together.

¡Vamos a aprender y a divertirnos!
