Scott Brings Pro and College Coaching Experience to Bolles

Former NFL and CFL defensive lineman Cedric Scott has joined The Bolles School as its new strength and conditioning coach.

Scott joins the school from the Jacksonville Jaguars, where he served as director of strength and conditioning and led performance program development and training operations. Before his time with the Jaguars, Scott also coached at the University of North Carolina and the University of Southern Mississippi.

“We are thrilled to welcome Cedric to Bolles,” said Bolles Athletic Director Rock Pillsbury. “His extensive background in professional and collegiate athletics will strengthen our training program and support the continued development of our student-athletes.”

Scott played for the New York Giants, the Cleveland Browns, and the Edmonton Eskimos. He earned a bachelor’s degree in exercise science and a master’s in sports management from Southern Miss. During his time there, he was also named a two-time All-American and Conference USA Defensive Player of the Year.

According to Bolles Chief Advancement Officer Carol Nimitz, Bolles alumnus Matt Byrd’s “transformational gift” made this new position possible.
