- Happy Wellness Wednesday! Each Wednesday at South High School, we remind students and staff to care for their well-being. For September, we are focusing on creating healthy routines. Did you know that turning a routine into a habit takes a couple of weeks? So try to follow your new daily routine, and eventually, it will become automatic. For this week, try starting with a routine for checking your homework and assignments daily at the same time and writing everything you need to accomplish. A to-do list is a great way to keep track or write things in a planner. Each day, you should also celebrate your progress. An open period or after school would be a good time for this and set a reminder on your phone so you remember. This can help everyone, including people with ADHD.
