Course: Drama

Staff Writers: Drama Instructional Team

Supervisor: Jack Shea/Suzanne Crowley

Board Approval: August 2017

Revision Approval: November 2023

Section I: Course Description

Drama is an elective that promotes appreciation of the arts, specifically drama process and the theatre experience, through the exploration and creation of unique textual constructions, dramatic construction and performance. Coursework concentrates on the development of aesthetic awareness and related facets of the arts. Drama reinforces the personal literacy skills needed for the 21st Century.

Section II: NJSLs: New Jersey Student Learning Standards/Learning Objectives

1. 2016 English Language Arts for Grades 9-10:

- o The standards reflect the beliefs that:
  - “To become college and career-ready, students must grapple with works of exceptional craft and thought whose range extends across genres, cultures, and centuries. Such works offer profound insights into the human condition and serve as models for students’ own thinking and writing. Along with high-quality contemporary works, these texts should be chosen from among seminal U.S. documents, the classics of American literature, and the timeless dramas of Shakespeare. Through wide and deep reading of literature and literary nonfiction of steadily increasing sophistication, students gain a reservoir of literary and cultural knowledge, references, and images; the ability to evaluate intricate arguments; and the capacity to surmount the challenges posed by complex texts.”
  - “To build a foundation for college and career readiness, students need to learn to use writing as a way of offering and supporting opinions, demonstrating understanding of the subjects they are studying, and conveying real and imagined experiences and events. They learn to appreciate that a key purpose of writing is to communicate clearly to an external, sometimes unfamiliar audience, and they begin to adapt the form and content of their writing to accomplish a particular task and purpose. They develop the capacity to build knowledge on a subject through research projects and to respond analytically to literary and informational sources. To meet these goals, students must devote significant time and effort to writing, producing numerous pieces over short and extended time frames throughout the year.”
  - “To build a foundation for college and career readiness in language, students must gain control over many conventions of standard English grammar, usage, and mechanics as well as learn other ways to use language to convey meaning effectively. They must also be able to determine or clarify the meaning of grade-appropriate words encountered through listening, reading, and media use; come to appreciate that words have nonliteral meanings, shades of meaning, and relationships to other words; and expand their vocabulary while studying content. The inclusion of Language standards in their own strand should not be taken as an indication that skills related to conventions, effective language use, and vocabulary are unimportant to reading, writing, speaking, and listening; indeed, they are inseparable from such contexts.
  - Common Core State Anchor Standards Initiative, English Language Arts, College and Career Readiness, Anchor Standards for Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening, Language and Progressive Skills

2. 2020 New Jersey Student Learning Standards – Visual and Performing Arts

- o The NJSLs-VPA reflect the National Core Arts Standards and emphasize the process-oriented nature of the arts and arts learning by: defining artistic literacy through a set of overarching philosophical foundations and lifelong goals that clarify long-term expectations for arts learning; placing artistic processes and anchor standards at the forefront of the work; identifying creative artistic practices as the bridge for the application of the artistic processes and anchor standards across all learning; and specifying enduring understandings and essential questions that provide conceptual through lines and articulate value and meaning within and across the arts discipline.

3. Standard 8.1 (Computer Science) and 8.2 (Design Thinking) of the 2020 NJSLs:

- o “The ‘Intent and Spirit of the Computer Science and Design Thinking Standards’ is to focus on deep understanding of concepts that enable students to think critically and systematically about leveraging technology to solve local and global issues. Authentic learning experiences that enable students to apply content knowledge, integrate concepts across disciplines, develop computational thinking skills, acquire and incorporate varied perspectives, and communicate with diverse audiences about the use and effects of computing prepares New Jersey students for college and careers.”

4. Standard 9.4 (Life Literacies and Key Skills) of the 2020 NJSL:
  - o “This standard outlines key literacies and technical skills such as critical thinking, global and cultural awareness, and technology literacy that are critical for students to develop to live and work in an interconnected global economy.”
*Climate Change: The state of New Jersey has mandated instruction in, “Climate Change across all content areas, leveraging the passion students have shown for this critical issue and providing them opportunities to develop a deep understanding of the science behind the changes and to explore the solutions our world desperately needs.”
5. *Amistad Law: N.J.S.A. 18A 52:16A-88:
  - o The inclusion of lessons and resources/texts dealing with the African slave trade, slavery in America, the vestiges of slavery in this country and the contributions of African-Americans to our society will be implemented in English and Social Studies courses in accordance with state law: “Every board of education shall incorporate the information regarding the contributions of African-Americans to our country in an appropriate place in the curriculum of elementary and secondary school students.”
6. *Holocaust Law: N.J.S.A. 18A 35-28:
  - o The inclusion of lessons and resources/texts that enable pupils to identify and analyze applicable theories concerning human nature and behavior; to understand that genocide is a consequence of prejudice and discrimination; and to understand that issues of moral dilemma and conscience have a profound impact on life will be implemented in English and Social Studies courses in accordance with state law: “Every board of education shall include instruction on the Holocaust and genocides in an appropriate place in the curriculum of all elementary and secondary school pupils. The instruction shall further emphasize the personal responsibility that each citizen bears to fight racism and hatred whenever and wherever it happens.”
7. *LGBT and Disabilities Law: N.J.S.A. 18A:35-4.35:
  - o A transformative approach to the inclusion of lessons and resources/texts on the contributions and issues concerning the LGBTQ+ population and people with disabilities will be implemented across all core subjects in accordance with state law: “A board of education shall include instruction on the political, economic, and social contributions of persons with disabilities and lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people, in an appropriate place in the curriculum of middle school and high school students as part of the district’s implementation of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (N.J.S.A.18A:35-4.36). A board of education shall have policies and procedures in place pertaining to the selection of instructional materials to implement the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:35-4.35.”
8. *Asian American and Pacific Islanders Legislation: N.J.S.A 4021/A6100:
  - o The inclusion of lessons and resources/texts on the history and contributions of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, will enable New Jersey’s schools to provide a curriculum that reflects the diversity of our state. In accordance with state law: “A board of education shall include instruction on the history and contributions of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in an appropriate place in the curriculum of students in grades kindergarten through as part of the school district’s implementation of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards in Social Studies.”
9. Acquisition/development/refinement of the higher-order critical thinking skills aligned with the Revised Bloom’s Taxonomy of Cognitive Objectives

Section III: Curriculum Modifications

The Drama curriculum is subject to case-by-case modifications to support/advance the needs of all students, including special education students, English language learners, gifted students and those at risk of school failure. These modifications are based on Individualized Learning Programs (IEPs), recommendations made by the district’s English Language Learners (ELL) coordinator, feedback from members of the Intervention & Referral Services Team (I&RS) for at-risk students, and 504 Plans.

Coursework and assessments will be modified on an individual basis for students when necessary. Modifications may include but are not limited to those outlined on the Modifications/Accommodations for Visual and Performing Arts courses chart and or the Modifications/Accommodations for English Courses chart.

Section IV: Preparation for Standardized Testing

Instruction in Drama is aligned with the requirements of state and national standardized assessments, including the NJGPA, NJSLA, the ACT, the PSAT and the SAT.

Section VII: Primary Texts and Year-Long Instructional Resources

The following texts and instructional resources are employed for all students in Drama:

- Google Classroom
- Common Sense Education (www.commonsense.org)
- Turnitin.com (<https://www.turnitin.com/>)
- March Cassady's An Introduction to The Art of Theatre
- Jonathan Neelands and Tony Goode's Structuring Drama Work

Section VIII: Grading Formula and Assessment Modes

Marking period grades in Drama are determined via a percentage weighting model. The specific grading categories and weightings of each will be determined before the start of each academic year and will be published in the posted/distributed course syllabi.

Assessments in Drama vary greatly in format, scope/content/skills assessed, and alternative assessments, differentiation in assessments and choice will be incorporated as appropriate. Preliminary assessments of each format will be used as benchmarks and summative assessments will be created/revised collaboratively each year and planned by members of the Drama instructional team to inform future learning and to measure student growth.

Section IX: Unit Templates

The following unit templates have been established for the Drama curriculum by the Drama instructional team:

| Unit I: Dramatic Interpretations of History   |  |   |
|---|--|---|
| Unit Summary   |  |   |
| In Dramatic Interpretations of History students will establish an understanding of the drama process through the creative negotiation and interpretation of historical events. Through the development of history-based performances, students will develop an understanding of how theatre can represent historical events. Dramatic Interpretations of History supports the development of literacy capacities, performance proficiencies, and higher-order critical thinking skills through its focus on unit-specific concentrations in the formal study of theatre and the dramatic arts. Dramatic Interpretations of History will empower students to create and communicate aesthetic understanding and domain-specific content knowledge in multiple contexts and modalities.   |  |   |

Unit Essential Questions

- What creative acting practices can assist a student in developing a classical character for performance?
- *How does character development provide a space for individuality and expression?
- How does research affect the development of characterization?

Unit Enduring Understandings

- Method acting technique and drama conventions support the development of a classical character for performance.
- *Characters come in all different shapes and sizes and dramatic productions often allow for uniqueness, individuality, and the blurring of societal expectations when it comes to identity.
- Research has a significant effect on the development of characterization. Research informs and influences characterization by supporting the evolution of a character with historical evidence.

Evidence of Learning

Formative & Alternative Assessments:

- Class Participation
- Class Work
- Dramatic Activities
- Homework
- Journal Response
- Seminars
- Quizzes
- Individual student check ins with teacher

Benchmark & Summative Assessments:

- Culminating Seminar
- Dramatic Presentations

Resources Needed:

- An Introduction to The Art of Theatre (Chapter 4) and Structuring Drama Work
- Lizzie Borden Drama; Mary Celeste; Morro Castle

| Unit VII: Dramaturge—From Screen to Stage   |
|---|
| Unit Summary  |
| In Dramaturge—From Screen to Stage students will establish an understanding of the processes needed to transform a motion picture into a stage production. Through the development of theatrical departments, students will develop an understanding of how theatre can be represented in a musical format. Dramaturge—From Screen to Stage supports the development of literacy capacities, performance proficiencies, and higher-order critical thinking skills through its focus on unit-specific concentrations in the formal study of theatre and the dramatic arts. Dramaturge—From Screen to Stage will empower students to create and communicate aesthetic understanding and domain-specific content knowledge in multiple contexts and modalities.  |

Unit VII: The Docudrama

Unit Summary

In The Docudrama students will establish student understanding of the form and function of a specific mode of theatrical production. Through the development of history-based performances, students will develop an understanding of how theatre influences world cultures, history, and society. The Docudrama supports the development of literacy capacities, performance proficiencies, and higher-order critical thinking skills through its focus on unit-specific concentrations in the formal study of theatre and the dramatic arts. The Docudrama will empower students to create and communicate aesthetic understanding and domain-specific content knowledge in multiple contexts and modalities.

Section X: Unit Reflection

The Drama instructional team must confer upon the completion of each instructional unit in the Drama curriculum and rate the degrees to which the instructional units meet performance criteria established by the New Jersey Department of Education using the Unit Reflection Form. Completed unit reflection forms must be submitted to the Department Supervisor for approval upon completion of curriculum implementation with a complementing list of suggested modifications to the Drama curriculum.

Writing instruction should happen across the RFH Community. Writing across the curriculum is a philosophy that advances the belief that writing is a method of learning. Since all departments are committed to helping students learn, writing must be used as a methodology to advance student learning.

Each academic discipline has its own unique conventions, formats and structures. It is the responsibility of each department to agree upon domain-specific writing praxes, model them for students, and require them to utilize them on a consistent basis. Students must understand that acceptable writing in one domain may not be acceptable writing in another area. The development of domain-specific writing skills supports the overall development of the student writer because all writing is grounded in the writing situation: audience, context, purpose, subject, and writer. Representatives from the academic disciplines must share their domain-specific writing praxes with each other, identify intersections, and determine how to address perceived gaps that limit student learning.

Students must experience writing situations that help them learn how to think creatively and critically and communicate effectively in the academic disciplines. Writing instruction, regardless of the academic discipline, must always reinforce student understanding of the writing situation. When students experience writing situations, they must study examples of domain-specific writing in order to understand how writers communicate in discipline-related contexts. This does not mean information embedded in textbooks. Domain-specific writing is writing that is used to inform and influence readers as it draws them into an established circle of discourse. Students must use these non-fiction texts to develop the close reading skills that will shape their own writing. Focused engagement with domain-specific writing should not be limited to basic reading comprehension and topical understanding. It must also include the analysis of the writing situation that is represented in the text: audience, context, purpose, subject, and writer. The close reading of well-written texts—regardless of the domain—will show students the importance of writing mechanics, diction, and syntax. The development of close reading skills will also help the students grow in terms of their ability to construct and advance independent and original claims that are well-supported by evidence. Domain-specific writing is grounded in positioning of claims and the effective use of evidence.

The final written product is important; nevertheless, the learning that results in this production must not be devalued. The writing process is not limited to the basic steps of planning, drafting, revising, and editing/proofreading. It is a complex sequence of critical and creative thinking and writing that leads to the production of a text that provides evidence of learning and understanding. Students must ultimately develop the ability to self-assess the effectiveness of their writing as a representation of the writing situation. Without the use of models that evidence learning and understanding, students will not develop the ability to self-assess their own work—the true outcome of the writing process.

What types of writing situations should RFH students engage in?

RFH students should engage in writing situations across the curriculum that require them to:

- write to improve mechanical proficiency, diction usage, and syntactical sophistication
- write to narrate, describe, and reflect
- write to summarize and report
- write to classify and define
- write to explain how process leads to an outcome
- write to compare, contrast and evaluate
- write to speculate on cause and effect
- write to propose solutions and solve problems
- write to analyze

These writing situations should be positioned in a coordinated, developmental sequence that extends across the academic disciplines.

Upon Completion of Grade 12, RFH students must be ready to transition to the following writing situations:

- write to analyze
- write to persuade (argument)

The core foci of first-year college writing courses are analysis and argument. These courses orient the students to the demands and expectations of writing for the academic culture of college. At colleges/universities with carefully coordinated writing programs, students must demonstrate proficiency in analysis and argument before they transition to upper level courses that require them to engage in the following writing situation:

- write to investigate (research)
