What is Wakelet?

How can we use Wakelet as teachers?

Newsletters

- Add text to share news from the week or month (or let the students create and write the text!) 🎇
- Add images of the great things happening in your school or classroom (student artwork, special events, field trips, teacher of the month...) 🏆
- Paste links to great resources. Anything that has a link can be added to your Wakelet! (Maybe even some Flipgrid student videos!) 🔗
- With the Google extension, you can save ANY WEBSITE to your newsletter without needing to close tabs or copy/paste! 😍
- Add engaging videos directly from YouTube 🎬
- Add PDFs - forms and other necessary things can be added right into your Wakelet! Go paperless! 📝
- Add a cover image and a background image to make it pretty! ⭐

lion links

Use Wakelet to curate all of the frequently visited sites that teachers, students, and parents use throughout the school year. What set Wakelet apart from other bookmarking/curation websites was all of the different types of resources that could be added into a collection:

Web Address 🖥️
Text 📝
YouTube Video 🎬
Tweet(s) 📱
Bookmarks 🔖
Images 🌄
PDFs 📄
Google Drive Item 🔗

Sub Plans

- Watch on Twitter.
- Add links for your entire day on your Wakelet! Your sub can scroll through each video, movement break, Canva presentation, etc.
- Once you have it created, it is easy to update as a part of your sub plans.
- Here is a quick example created by me for a fictional class.

research links

Try using Wakelet to compile website that students can visit for writing research reports.

Have a bunch of links added to your Wakelet so students can pick and choose which websites best fit their needs while researching a topic.

Collaborate

- No account needed.
- You can invite people to collaborate on your collections without them needing to sign up. This is an amazing feature for many reasons, one that I see instantly would be in the classroom. With everyone being able to use the site, students would be able to collaborate much easier. Plus students will be held accountable as they must type in their name when add an item. Later on they could sign-up (if over 13) and join the site, but the ability for students to be able to add instantly is a game changer.
- Users still need to put a name to what they share. Please note that users can be removed easily in the manage contributors section.
- Click here for a video explaining HOW.

Save links

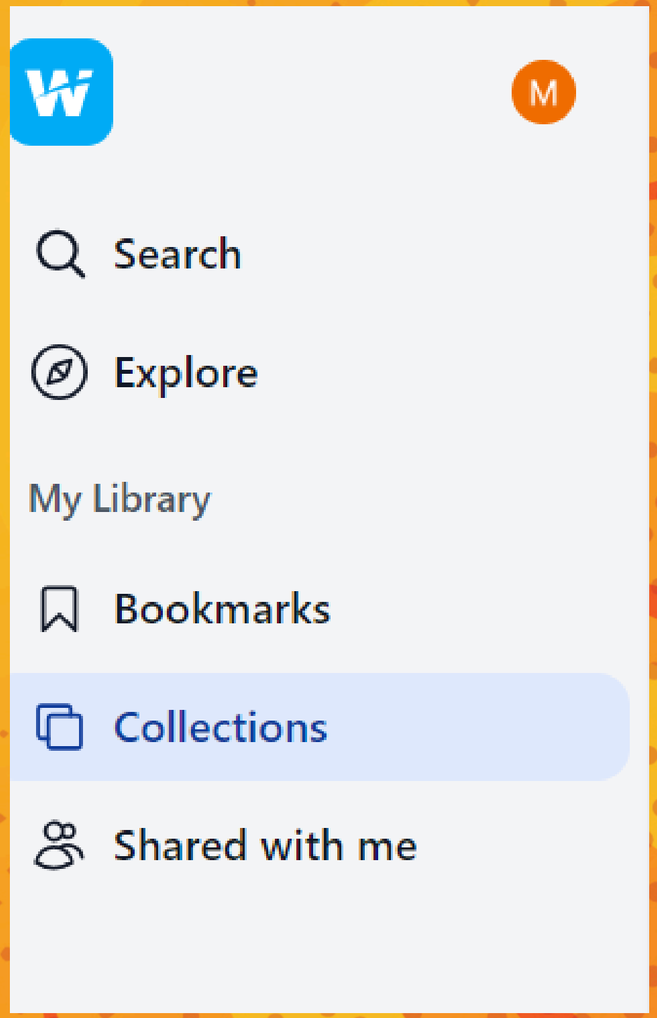

How many times have you...

Had a whole bunch of tabs open and wished you open up the same exact ones the next time you open your computer?
Found a website that you think looks awesome; however, you just don't have the time to truly look into it right now?
Found an awesome site on your mobile device that you want to save to look at later on when you have the time?
This has happened to us all and it can be so frustrating! Well, Wakelet is remove those frustrations. If you use Wakelet's extension (for Chrome and Firefox) you can not only save an individual link to a collection in seconds, you can also save all those open tabs for the next time you open your computer. Wakelet's app (available in Google Play as well as Apple Store) The ability to instantly add something of interest to refer back to at a later date in time is awesome.
