 - Met with staff to reflect on grade performance based on College Board scores
 - iReady can be a good tool to correlate with current data
 - Looking at mastered skills, and where growth is needed
 - We are behind in reading/writing and mathematics

- Majority of students are in the approaching categories of yellow which means we can bring them up
- More in the green than before
- Participation may be an issue impacting this data
- Students may be behind in test taking abilities
- Data analysis is weak
- Parent perspective: looking at pre covid numbers, how did that time impact this data and kids abilities/accountability
- Data over time for each class - is there improvement? Is the SAT harder to show in the green
- Hoping to purchase and implement Common Lit to replace iReady, has diagnostic, is a great resource for teachers, accessible, standardized
- Buy in for students to take SAT? It can count as a grad competency
- UIP
