Connectedness

Connectedness Areas of Strength

There is a team focused on student wellness. Expectations and routines are in place with minimal direction by adults.

Connectedness Areas for Growth

Teachers inconsistently give students positive feedback. Teachers need to increase their positive to negative feedback (5:1) to students from 4.61:1 (EOY '24-'25) to 5:1 (EOY '25-'26).

Connectedness Equity Resource Supports

Student Group	Challenge	Solution
English Learners	Consistent implementation of the solutions across the school.	Visuals and sentence frames to assist in understanding of the different emotions. Teachers engage in restorative practice PL and implement it more consistently. The counselor is teaching monthly SEL lessons to all classes. The 5:1 data collected will be shared with our staff quarterly. Staff will ensure ELL students understand the vocabulary they are using with their positive feedback (5:1s). In some classrooms; students are positively acknowledging each other. Data will be collected quarterly. In between the quarterly gatherings, the principal, Boys Town SSS, and behavior strategist collect data weekly. Boys Town, liaison and/or behavior strategist, coaches each teacher after observing them. During staff meetings PL, ideas are shared on how to increase specific, positive praise. The admin will share examples of classrooms where students positively acknowledge each other.
