

Psych Forensics 2025 Reports

| Audio                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Video                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| [Music]                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Purple background with gold and white L S U Health Shreveport logo in bottom cornerText: Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine Forensic Psychiatry FellowshipWriting Reports                                                                             |
| [Dr. McPherson]Our written reports are detailed accounts of our evaluations and of our opinions. This is nothing like writing an electronic health record. Learning to write forensic reports is an important skill for forensic psychiatrists. In our program, every word you write will be reviewed by attendings who will help you hone your craft and learn to speak truth to power.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Woman with a short darkish bob and glasses wearing a white doctor's coat in front of a purple backdrop with the L S U Health Shreveport gold and white logo staggered across it.Text:Pamela McPherson, M.D.Vice Chair, Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine |
| [Dr. Colon]I learned it because someone gave me a copy of one. And, the parts of them are sort of structured because there's certain things you have to say. You know, you have to address non confidentiality, you have to address the records you reviewed.Then a lot of it is just a general psychiatric evaluation. And then there's a part of the report that address specifically the forensic question being asked. And then there's an opinion section.And it's a growth process in which the more you do and the more you write and the more you process, the more you understand about landmark cases, and forensic psychiatry knowledge, the more you can put in your reports to give a more definitive opinion. | Heavysset man with graying short cropped beard wearing a white doctor's coat in front of a purple backdrop with the L S U Health Shreveport gold and white logo staggered across it.Text:Marc A Colon, M.D.Director, Community Forensic Services          |

| Audio                 | Video                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-----------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| [Music] | Purple background with white L S U Health Shreveport logo in bottom corner Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine Forensic Psychiatry Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship Theresa McAnn, MBA Program Administrator Theresa dot McAnn at l s u h s dot e d u |