From the Desk of Tim Carter:

Dear Wilson CSD Families and Staff,

As we continue to navigate the demands of this holiday season and our busy lives, it's important to pause and reflect on a simple but powerful truth: You can't be stressed and thankful at the same time.

Gratitude has an incredible way of shifting our perspective. When we take a moment to acknowledge the good around us—whether it's the support of a friend, the beauty of nature, or even small victories—we create space for positivity and resilience.

In our Wilson school community, we have so much to be thankful for: the dedication of our teachers, the enthusiasm of our students, and the support of families working together to foster growth and learning. Let's make it a habit to express our gratitude, not just during the holidays, but every day.

I encourage you to take a moment this week to share your appreciation with someone—a colleague, a student, a friend, or even yourself. Together, let's create an atmosphere where gratitude becomes a natural antidote to stress.

Thank you for being a part of this vibrant and inspiring community. Your contributions, big and small, make a difference.

Have a wonderful weekend and enjoy the time with your family!

Timothy P. Carter
