From the Desk of Tim Carter:

Dear Wilson CSD Families and Staff,

Success is more than just achievements, awards, or grades—it's about how we feel about ourselves and our journey. As Maya Angelou once said, "Success is liking yourself, liking what you do, and liking how you do it." True success begins with self-acceptance. When we embrace who we are, recognize our strengths, and work on our growth, we build confidence and resilience. It's also about passion—finding joy and purpose in what we do, whether in academics, arts, sports, or leadership. And perhaps most importantly, it's about integrity—knowing that we are pursuing our goals in a way that aligns with our values.

As we move forward together, let's support one another in discovering what success means for each of us. Let's celebrate our unique paths, uplift our peers, and create an environment where everyone feels valued and empowered. Here's to a school community where success is not just measured by outcomes, but by the confidence, passion, and authenticity we bring to everything we do!

With encouragement and pride, Have a wonderful weekend, and enjoy the time with your family!
