  - Pregnancy
  - Childbirth
  - False pregnancy
  - Termination of pregnancy
  - Recovery from any of these conditions.

Student-on-Student Sexual Misconduct

- According to data from the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights, there were 14,938 incidents of sexual violence in K–12 schools in 2017 – 2018 compared with 9,649 in 2015 – 2016, representing a 55 percent increase.
- According to a 2019 report from the National Center for Educational Statistics, the number of reported forcible sex offenses on school campuses increased from 2,200 in 2001 to 10,400 in 2017 (a 372 percent increase).
- Both the 2015 – 2016 Civil Rights Data Collection and the Data Highlight on School Climate and Safety published in 2018 indicated that students reported approximately 9,700 incidents of sexual assault, rape, or attempted rape at elementary and secondary schools in the 2015 to 2016 academic year.
- Research from Hofstra University found that roughly 1 in 10 students in K-12 schools have suffered "some form of sexual misconduct by an educator," but student-on-student sexual misconduct continues to be a matter of great concern to the District.

Student-on-Student Sexual Misconduct: Prevention

- Create a culture of consent.
- Partner with parents and other trusted adults in students' lives.
- Share age-appropriate resources for education.
- Monitor high-risk areas or activities (but know that sexual misconduct or abuse can and does take place in areas that may not be deemed "high risk").
- Dispel common sexual misconduct myths and misconceptions.

Student-on-Student Sexual Misconduct: Identification

- Student-on-student sexual misconduct can take many forms. Misconduct might include, but is not limited to:
  - Title IX specific offenses, hostile environment, or quid pro quo;
  - Transmitting sexually explicit images, photos, videos or any other media without the consent of the recipient and all involved parties;
  - Soliciting or promoting sexual performance using minors;
  - Inappropriate touching of private body parts;
  - Invasions of privacy;
  - Sexual exploitation;
  - Other inappropriate behaviors of a sexual nature.
- If you see (or hear or otherwise become aware of) something, say something!

Student-on-Student Sexual Misconduct: Identification

- Non-exhaustive behaviors to look out for:
  - Ducking behind desks, lab benches, gym mats, bus seats, or using other methods to avoid detection;
  - Shushing or motioning for other students to be quiet so as not to draw attention;
  - Removal or alteration of clothing;
  - Inappropriate physical contact with others or with oneself;
  - Fear of physical contact;
  - Excitement surrounding a cell phone or mobile device;
  - Unwelcome touching, pinching, or restraining of students by another student;
  - Catcalling or suggestive comments;
  - Obscene gestures;
  - Refusal to sit next to or near another student;
  - Behavioral changes.

Bus Behavior

- The school bus is an extension of the classroom.
- Bus drivers, bus monitors, transportation aides, and others must ensure proper vehicle operation while simultaneously promoting student safety.
- Students experiencing sexual misconduct on a school bus are stuck—there is nowhere else for them to go.
- Sexual misconduct, including while on the bus, interferes with students' educational access.
- Eliminate preconceived notions about the forms such misconduct takes, as well as any stereotypes about who can be a perpetrator or a victim (a Title IX Respondent or Complainant).

Taking Action

- Before an incident:
  - Ensure your bus video is operating properly prior to the commencement of any route.
  - Continually scan your bus using your student mirror.
  - Communicate as appropriate with other staff supporting the students on your route.
  - Be aware of interpersonal dynamics between and among students and, as appropriate, assign or change seats to account for individual student needs.
- During an incident:
  - Maintain safe operation of the moving vehicle.
  - Observe, using your mirrors, the location and identity of students involved.
  - Maintain your professionalism and authority over behavior on the bus.
- After an incident:
  - Separate the students.
  - Take note of any other student who may have witnessed the behavior or who is mentioned by the students involved.
  - Report the incident immediately via the on-board two-way radio and, at the conclusion of your route, to your Supervisor, Assistant Supervisor, or Coordinator.
  - Assist Title IX staff and other administrators by helping to implement any supportive measures or disciplinary sanctions imposed as a result of the Title IX process.

Students With Disabilities: Additional Considerations

Students with disabilities may be at an increased risk of experiencing sex discrimination or sex-based harassment, due in part to:

- Communication barriers that prevent giving consent and disclosing abuse;
- Potential decreased capacity to consent to sexual activity;
- Limited sexual education and knowledge;
- Increased personal care needs requiring close contact.

Students traveling on Special Education busses or in in Special Education classrooms are not inherently or automatically safer than those students on General Education busses or in General Education classrooms.

Students with Disabilities: Additional Considerations

- The Assistant Secretary [OCR] will not require recipients [schools] to adopt a particular definition of consent with respect to sexual assault, as referenced in this section [the 2020 Title IX Regulations].
- Educating students about consent:
  - For students:
    - Consent means that you agree to something. You say YES. But consent isn't just saying YES.
    - We need our consent to be "informed." Informed consent means that when you say YES, you understand exactly what you are agreeing to and what the results may be.
    - Your body belongs to you, and someone needs to ask to get consent from you before touching you. Remember, "My body belongs to me."
    - You can say NO to someone touching you, or say YES to one thing (hugging) and NO to another (kissing).
    - You must also get consent from other people before you touch them. The other person must say YES.

Consent Considerations and Intersection with Students with Disabilities

- When considering whether or not a student consented, their special education status/disability needs to be considered.
- Non-verbal students may have trouble giving or communicating consent.
- Students with severe intellectual disabilities cannot provide informed consent to sexual activity.
- Consent cannot and should not be assumed, particularly in the case of students with disabilities. Not all disabilities are visible, and cognitive disabilities may prevent students who physically or developmentally resemble their peers from fully understanding their conduct or its consequences.

Student-on-Student Sexual Misconduct: Reporting

If you see or hear or are told about something, say something.

ALL allegations of conduct that MIGHT qualify as sex discrimination—in any form—MUST be reported to your Supervisor, Assistant Supervisor, or Coordinator as soon as possible so evidence can be preserved, school police can be contacted, and an investigation can begin.

FCSD's Title IX Coordinators are Jose Mena and Jim Yerich. They can be reached at MenaJ@fultonschools.org (for student matters) or YerichJ@fultonschools.org (for employee matters).

Sexual Harassment

If a school district has actual knowledge of sexual harassment in an education program or activity of the school district against a person in the United States, it must respond promptly in a manner that is not deliberately indifferent.

“Actual Knowledge”

- “Actual knowledge” means notice of sexual harassment or allegations of sexual harassment to a recipient’s Title IX Coordinator or any official of the recipient who has authority to institute corrective measures on behalf of the recipient or to any employee of an elementary and secondary school.
  - Administrators
  - Teaching staff
  - Clerical staff
  - Custodial and food service staff
  - Transportation staff (YOU!)

“Education Program or Activity” of School District

- What is “an education program or activity of the school district”?
  - Any location, event, or circumstance over which the school district exhibits substantial control over both the alleged harasser and the context in which the harassment occurred.
- Title IX does not impose a duty to report purely off-campus conduct, but District-provided transportation counts!

“Education Program or Activity” of School District

- If conduct occurs in a building owned or controlled by a student organization that is officially recognized by the District, this qualifies as an “activity of the school district.”
- If conduct occurs on an international field trip or at any location outside the United States, it is excluded from this definition.
- What about sexual misconduct that occurred off-campus but has an out-campus effect?
    - This falls outside the DOE’s jurisdictional requirements and would be addressed through other District policies.

Three Categories of Sexual Harassment

- There are three categories that meet OCR's definition of sexual harassment and must be reported as Title IX incidents:
  - Quid pro quo
  - Sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking
  - "Unwelcome conduct determined by a reasonable person to be so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it effectively denies a person equal access to the recipient's education program or activity"
- Remember, though, that ALL incidents of sexual misconduct—even misconduct that doesn't fall into the above categories—should be reported promptly to your supervisor for review.

Sexual Harassment: Category 1

- “Quid pro quo”
- If an employee of the school district conditions the provision of an aid, benefit, or service of the school district on an individual’s participation in unwelcome sexual conduct, this is sexual harassment.
- This conduct must be reported.

Sexual Harassment: Category 2

- “Sexual assault” as defined in 20 U.S.C. § 1092(f)(6)(A)(v)
- “Dating violence” as defined in 34 U.S.C. § 12291(a)(10)
- “Domestic violence” as defined in 34 U.S.C. § 12291(a)(8)
- “Stalking” as defined in 34 U.S.C. § 12291(a)(30)
- Conduct that falls within any of these definitions must be reported.

Sexual Harassment: Category 3

- “Unwelcome conduct determined by a reasonable person to be so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it effectively denies a person equal access to the recipient’s education program or activity.”
- This conduct must be reported.

“Supportive Measures”

- Non-disciplinary, non-punitive individualized services offered as appropriate, as reasonably available, and without fee or charge to the complainant or the respondent before or after the filing of a formal complaint or where no formal complaint has been filed.
- Designed to restore or preserve equal access to the school district’s education program or activity, without unreasonably burdening the other party, including measures designed to protect the safety of all parties or the school district’s educational environment, or deter sexual harassment.
- Cannot be punitive.

Examples of Supportive Measures

- Counseling
- Extensions of deadlines or other course-related adjustments
- Modifications of work or class schedules
- Campus escort services
- Mutual restrictions on contact between the parties
- Changes in work or housing locations
- Leaves of absence
- Increased security and monitoring of certain areas of the campus
- Special supports for special education students
- Changes to transportation routes or assignments
- Assignment of a bus monitor or transportation aide
- Other similar measures

Grievance Process: Retaliation Prohibited

- Cannot retaliate against a person for purpose of interfering with any right under Title IX or because that person has been involved in a Title IX investigation, proceeding or hearing.
- What constitutes “retaliation”?
  - Intimidation, threats, coercion, or discrimination that arises out of the same facts/circumstances as report or complaint of sex discrimination or report/complaint of sexual harassment.

Grievance Process: Record Keeping Requirements

- School districts must maintain the following records for 7 years:
  - Each sexual harassment investigation, including determination, sanctions, and remedies resulting therefrom;
  - Any appeals therefrom;
  - Any informal resolutions thereof; and
  - All training materials, which the recipient must also make available for public inspection.
- School districts must also maintain records of any other actions it takes, including supportive measures, in response to reports or formal complaints of sexual harassment.
- This is why understanding the entirety of the process is so important—your actions (the District's actions) will be memorialized for years and it's important to get it right.

Reporting

- ALL employees are responsible for reporting sexual harassment AND allegations of sexual harassment.
- ALL employees should also report conduct that may not meet the Department of Education's definition but that still constitutes sexual misconduct.
  - The back-end investigation and adjudication process might differ, but your reporting obligation is the same—REPORT, REPORT, REPORT.
- Reports should be made IMMEDIATELY.
- Staff can report sexual harassment to their Supervisor, Assistant Supervisor, or Coordinator, who can assist in ensuring this conduct is reported properly.
- The District's Title IX Coordinator and Title IX staff are valuable resources for staff as they observe and intervene in student behaviors.
- FCSD's Title IX Coordinators are Jose Mena and Jim Yerich. They can be reached at MenaJ@fultonschools.org (for student matters) or YerichJ@fultonschools.org (for employee matters).
