On-Campus Work-based Activity Plan

One of the most valuable career training experiences students can have is through the incorporation of work-based activities which allow students to gain practical experience in a replicated workplace setting on campus.

The Early Childhood Education program at Immokalee Technical College has an imbedded Early Learning Facility, called the Little Indians Preschool, to replicate and model the workforce they will be entering. The Little Indians Preschool, is comprised of two childcare classrooms which are each staffed with a production workforce assistant as the preschool teacher and managed by the Early Childhood instructor as the center's Director. iTECH Early Childhood students are able to work towards mastering the skills necessary to be successful in the field of early childhood education through their interactions, experiences, and lessons completed within the on-site learning center. The work-based training opportunity allows students not only to practice their preschool teaching skills, but also provides students with a real world setting to develop their relationship building abilities with parents and the community.

In the Little Indians Preschool at Immokalee Technical College, the instructor and the production workshop assistants are deemed the "on-site" employers and serve as the student's teachers, support and workplace supervisor.
