The members of North High School's homecoming court are bringing the homecoming celebration to Washington Elementary School on Wednesday as they join kindergartners, first graders, and fifth graders for recess.

The senior Spartans will aim to be positive role models for the younger students as they show them the importance of building a connection and giving back to their school. They will aim to instill a sense of school spirit and community pride in the elementary schoolers by taking the time to play and interact with them directly in their own setting.

There are no set activities planned for the students. The high schoolers will join the elementary schoolers for free play time.
