Monetary compensation is based on average daily participation by school, rounded to the nearest tenth of a percentage.

ADP is calculated by dividing the number of meals served per school (breakfast and lunch calculated separately) by the number of serving days. This is converted to a percentage by dividing the ADP by the average school enrollment (as of the last serving day of each month).

Final calculations will be made and awarded after the last serving day of both the fall and spring semesters. ADP is cumulative; it does not restart in January.

Eligibility requirements: Employee must be in good standing (no formal disciplinary action for the year and no "deduct" days used). Employee must be full-time and employed for the entirety of the semester to be considered.
