

Information on Tax Bill Changes

We understand that any increase in tax bills can raise questions, and we want to provide you with clear information about the changes you're seeing to your property tax bill; and why this change has occurred and how these funds are being used.

In 2024, voters in SFID 4 of the Folsom Cordova Unified School District voted to pass, with 66% approval, Measures R and S. These two school infrastructure bond measures fund critical improvements for our schools and support the needs of students in the Rancho Cordova Community. Because of that community support, the District is now able to move forward on long-needed projects such as repairing aging classrooms, modernizing facilities, expanding student safety and security, and building new learning spaces to serve our growing communities.

As a result of the bond measures taking effect, you are now seeing the voter-approved tax rate reflected on your current tax bill. For residents in SFID 4, the rate increased from $104.40 per $100,000 of assessed property value to $227.50 per $100,000. This reflects the cost of issuing bonds to fund these projects.

We want to assure you that every dollar collected stays local and goes directly toward improving schools in our District—none of it can be taken by the State. We also have strong accountability measures in place, including independent citizen oversight and annual audits, to ensure funds are spent exactly as voters intended. We are also committed to keeping the community informed as projects move forward. If you'd like more information on specific projects being funded in your area, please visit our website.

Folsom Cordova Unified School District is proud to be home to award-winning schools, innovative academic programs, and a dedicated team of educators focused on student success. These investments will help us continue to provide exceptional learning environments that prepare students for college, career, and life. These improvements, funded by Measures R and S, ensure that our facilities will continue to serve future generations with the same excellence and care.

We deeply appreciate the commitment our community has made to providing safe, modern, and high-quality schools for all students.
