Remember Our Top Considerations

- Demographics (SES)
- Feeder Schools
- Longevity of Boundaries
- School Capacity

The Maps

- Each meeting, we come together to discuss and review maps.

- After each meeting, we take your feedback and alter and adjust with Zach from Predictive Enrollment.

- We also read and review the feedback from exit slips to get a comprehensive perspective on the committee's priorities and preferences.

Data from Last Week's Ranking

Map	1st Choice	2nd Choice	3rd Choice
1	25	10	29
2	21	30	13
3	18	24	22

1. Map 1 had the most 1st choice (25) and last choice options (29)

2. Map 2 had the most 1st and 2nd choice options with 51 or 80%

3. Map 3 had neither the most 1st choice or 3rd choice options.

Our Committee Maps

- Option 1: We kept the same
- Option 2: We revised based on feedback
- Option 3: We revamped based on feedback
- Now, there is an Option 4 based on your additional feedback.

Option 4

- Significantly reduces the splitting of neighborhoods. Westgate and Maple Knoll (Size, proximity to new school, major road split and school enrollment size)
- The range of schools is similar but the other schools have more parity.
- MCES and MTES are the lowest enrollments allowing for anticipated growth of these schools.
- Feeder school models have each middle school at 24.5% and 21.5% SES and approximately 1200 students growing to 1400 in five years. (Longevity)
- Separates MCES and SSES from WES and CRES in feeder models (largest schools and potential special education programming options)
- 34% of students are impacted, similar or less than other models.
- SES percentages at MTES have been decreasing over the last 3-4 school

Discussing the Developed Maps

- Spend time discussing the new Option 4 map and Feeder Maps.
- Be sure every voice is heard during the conversation.
- Write down any lingering questions that might need to be addressed.

15:00

Discussing the Developed Maps

- Now that we have familiarized ourselves with Option 4, let's review all four maps with the intentional lens of our top considerations.
  - Demographics
  - Feeder Schools*
  - Longevity of Boundaries
  - School Capacity

- On your own, process and come to a final decision on which of the four maps you prefer.

Map Final Vote

- At your table, your facilitator will give you one yellow ballot.
- Please check the box next to the map that represents your number one choice.
- Once you have written that down, please go place your vote in one of the hats we found in Dr. Hoover's office.

Feeder Schools

- Feeder Schools are contingent upon map choice.
- In all map options, contiguous boundaries was desired as well as proximity to each middle school.
- Keep in mind that even if the feeder schools stay the same, the student numbers for each will change based on the map selected.
- In a moment, you will review the feeder patterns for each map option and determine your preferred feeder school alignment for each one.
- Before that, we need to review Option 4 maps since we have not had eyes on them before.
