Women in Charge (WIC): Engineering Women's Lives (womenincharge101.org)

This is a two-year program for 40-45 of our MMS female students. A Woman In Charge student is the one you find yourself thinking about...“she could accomplish anything”. She is the best of the best! WIC are female students who have great potential and would benefit from our many science career programs. Some may come to mind because they are quiet students, while others may not have anyone at home who can show them career options, or they may simply be exceptional math or science students who would benefit from the program. We want to show these girls that their choices influence their future!

Grade Level: 7th Grade and 8th Grade (2-year program) – students are nominated by faculty and invited into this program. Interested students may let their teachers know why, and faculty may then nominate them. Nominations are reviewed by WIC faculty/Staff and 50-55 students are in the program each year.
